place. Felchle said until the automated equipment is in place and operating they see no reason to move people around.

McCloskey said he hopes to know more about the proposed change in the near future. "It's a heck of a thing to have hanging over your head," McCloskey said for postal employees.

Felchle said as far as he knows, the change over won't take place in the immediate future, perhaps in several months.

Health festival set for March 27

Kennedy — Kittson county will hold its second annual health festival March 27 at the Kennedy school. The festival will include information booths, screenings and consultations with local medical professionals. A Heart Chec Plus wellness assessment will be available as well as special activities for children. (Kittson County Enterprise)

Crookston Times files complaint against Polk county

Crookston — Attorney Michael Tye filed papers in Polk county district court recently on behalf of the Crookston Daily Times against the Polk county board. The newspaper is claiming that there were defects in the bidding process for the official county newspaper and that the county failed to consider pertinent facts. The complaint states that the East Grand Forks Exponent, which was named by the county board as the 1993 official paper, was allowed to give oral supplement to its written bid, while other bidders were not given this opportunity, and the Exponent was not asked to submit a bond, as the Times has done in past years. Red Lake students develop science books

Red Lake — Five Red Lake high school students are working on compiling several zoology textbooks, a project that grew up of an Anishinabe science class they took at Bemidji state university. The students have completed the first of the book series, which deals with the Native American historical uses of the white cedar tree. These included talcum powder, insect repellent, fish decoys, drums, grave markers and baby carriers. The group is also planning to prepared similar books on the uses of fish and moose. Mortgage burned for Clearbrook community pool

Clearbrook — A special meeting of the Clearbrook community club was held recently to authorize the final payment of $15,000 for the Clearbrook community swimming pool. The pool was built in 1989 at a cost of $233,696. The community club was instrumental in financing the project. (Leader-Record)

Polk county Central Cities searches for new director

Polk County — A three point plan was agreed to by the members of the Polk county Central Cities project, including McIntosh, Mentor, Winger and Fertile, since the recent resignation by Lois Baron, executive director of the Partners in Transition program. The first step in the plan is to contact the Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund to obtain an agreement to continue the project. Additional steps will be to advertise for a new director and also contact people who had been interviewed originally for the position. The group hopes to have someone in place by the end of March. (Fertile Journal)

Sandhills Snofest is on Sunday

Snow snakes competition and schmoosh races will be part of Fertile's Sand Hills Snofest Sunday, March 7, with the main activity along the Sandhill river just west of the Strem bridge—west of Fertile off highway 32 on Summit Avenue about 3/4 mile.

In the snow snakes game darts or javelins are hurled along a trench in the snow to see whose "snake" will go the greatest distance and win a prize. Competition will start at 1:30 p.m.

Schmoosh races involve ski races between two four-member teams—except that the skis are 2x4s and all four team members are strapped to the same pair, attempting to move in unison.

A poker run on skis will begin and end at the bonfire and pass through the Sand Hills where participants will pick up tickets along the way to exchange for cards upon their return to the bonfire.

Hot chocolate and peanuts will be available as well as roasting sticks for those who want to bring wieners or marshmallows. The day's scheduled activities will end about 4:30 p.m. For further information call 945-3129.

Soupçon

By Sherry LaCoursiere

Today's recipes are from the cook booklet, "Easy Chinese," by Betty Crocker. Yes, make homemade Chinese food tonight.

These little goodies will spice up those flagging appetites:

SWEET AND SOUR MEATBALLS

1 pound ground beef
1/2 cup dry bread
1/4 cup milk
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash pepper
1 egg
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 can (15 ounces) pineapple chunks, in syrup, undrained
1/3 cup vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 small bell pepper, chopped

Mix ground beef, bread crumbs, milk, onion, salt, Worcestershire, pepper and egg. Shape into 1-1/2 inch balls and cook in skillet for about 20 minutes, until brown, turning occasionally. Drain.

Mix brown sugar and cornstarch in skillet. Stir in pineapple and syrup, vinegar and soy sauce. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Reduce heat, add meatballs, cover and simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in bell pepper. Cover and simmer about 5 minutes or until pepper is crisp-tender.

(Recipe serves 4 and each serving contains 475 calories, 35 g protein, 65 g carbohydrate, 8 g fat, 145 g cholesterol, 740 mg sodium and 720 mg potassium.)

Use leftover chicken or turkey to make this easy dish:

CHICKEN FRIED RICE

3/4 cup diced cooked chicken
1/2 teaspoon cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon oil
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon oil
1 can (8 ounces) sliced water chestnuts, drained
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons oil
3 cups cooked rice
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon chopped green onion with tops
Dash of pepper

Mix chicken, cornstarch and 1/4 teaspoon salt.

Heat wok or skillet until very hot. Add 1 tablespoon vegetable oil and rotate to coat sides.

Add eggs and cook and stir until eggs are thickened but still moist. Remove from wok.

Heat wok and add 1 tablespoon oil, rotating. Add chicken, water chestnuts, mushrooms and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Stir fry for 1 minute and remove from wok.

Heat wok and add 2 teaspoons oil, rotating. Add rice and stir fry for 1 minute. Add soy sauce and then chicken mixture, eggs and remaining ingredients. Stir fry 30 seconds.

(Recipe serves 4 and each serving contains 480 calories, 15 g protein, 55 g carbohydrate, 22 g fat, 130 mg cholesterol, 720 mg sodium and 420 mg potassium.)

You'll love this dish; it can be ready to serve in minutes:

PAN-FRIED SHRIMP

1 pound raw medium shrimp (in shells)
1 tablespoon dry white wine
1 teaspoon soy sauce
2 green onions with tops
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1/4 cup ketchup
1 tablespoon soy sauce
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
2 teaspoons finely chopped gingerroot

Remove legs and tail from each shrimp. Leaving shell intact, cut through shell lengthwise down back to within 1/4 inch of each end, using scissors. Remove vein with toothpick.

Toss shrimp, wine and 1 teaspoon soy sauce in medium glass or plastic bowl. Cover and refrigerate 20 minutes. Cut onions into 2 inch pieces.

Heat wok very hot. Add oil and rotate to coat sides. Place shrimp in single layer in wok (do not overlap).

Fry about 4 minutes, turning once, until pink.

Stir in ketchup, 1 tablespoon soy sauce, garlic and gingerroot, cover and cook 1-1/2 minutes. Add onions and cook and stir 30 seconds.

(Recipe serves 4 and each serving contains 245 calories, 20 g protein, 6 g carbohydrate, 15 g fat, 140 mg cholesterol, 630 mg sodium and 270 mg potassium.)

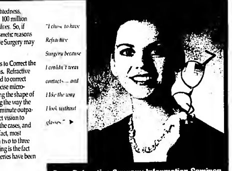
Refractive Surgery Can Dramatically Enhance Your Eyesight, So You're Much Less Dependent on Glasses or Contacts.



Glasses and Contacts Can Be a Hassle. Nearsightedness, farsightedness, and astigmatism affect more than 100 million people in North America... and the quality of their lives. So, if you're tired of wearing glasses or contacts for cosmetic reasons or because of lifestyle or job limitations, Refractive Surgery may be worth looking into.

Richard L. Lindstrom, M.D.
Consultative Ophthalmology, Refractive & Laser Surgery

Refractive Surgery Works to Correct the Cause of Vision Problems. Refractive Surgery has been designed to correct nearsightedness. The precise microsurgery works by changing the shape of the cornea, thus correcting the way the eye focuses light. The 20 minute outpatient procedure can correct vision to 20/40 or better in 90% of the cases, and it's virtually painless. In fact, most patients return to work in two to three days. Even more reassuring is the fact that nearly 1,000,000 surgeries have been performed nationwide.

"I chose to have Refractive Surgery because I couldn't wear contacts — and I like the way I look without glasses." ►

A World-Renowned Refractive Eye Surgeon in the North Country. Dr. Richard L. Lindstrom is widely regarded as a leader in corneal, cataract, refractive, and laser eye surgery. And now, select Eye Specialists in northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota are able to offer Dr. Lindstrom's world-class Refractive Surgery services to their patients.

Is Refractive Surgery Right for You? To find out more about Refractive Surgery, you or a family member may want to attend a free information seminar. into a progressive community. Referring to the housing of the police department and sheriff's department in one building, Moe said it is an ideal set up for cooperation.

Moe comes from a similar situation in Pope county. The police department and sheriff's department in that county share office space as well.

Moe has had previous experience at proving himself after being appointed to a position. In about 1979, he said, he was appointed to the position of sheriff in Pope county and he had three years to prove himself.

Moe has plenty of experience as a law enforcement officer. He said he started his 24th year in law enforcement on March 1.

Moe said as far as activities outside law enforcement, he enjoys collecting antiques and he and his wife have refinished a lot of furniture. He is also a licensed auctioneer and likes the outdoors.

RRWMB plans conference at Best Western

"Determining the Future by Participation" is the title for the annual conference of the Red River Watershed Management Board (RRWMB) to be held Friday and Saturday, March 19 and 20, at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

A major topic of discussion will be the comprehensive Environmental Assessment (EA) which the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers recently announced it will prepare for the Minnesota portion of the Red River Basin.

The corps of engineers says preparing the assessment will take two or more years, during which permits for all flood control projects in the Red River Basin will be on hold. The Red River Watershed Management Board sent a letter of response to the corps, offering its cooperation to complete the assessment as soon as possible. The letter also requests the involvement of the expertise of the managers and engineers of this region and other involved state agencies.

The RRWMB told the corps that since it is so familiar with this region, the board would like to help determine the scope of the project. The board also feels the final environmental assessment documents should be the driving force for future projects in the Red River Basin.

Paul Richert of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Duane Anderson of the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency, Kent Lokkesmoe of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and Ron Harnack of the Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources are scheduled to address conference attendees on the purpose, content and utilization of an environmental assessment.

The conference will begin at 1:30 p.m. Friday, March 19 and conclude by 3 p.m. on Saturday, March 20.

LETTERS

(Editor's Note: For a number of weeks the Northern Watch has published an exchange of opinion between writers on the abortion question. We believe that exchange has now provided ample opportunity to make the points that need to be made.

While we will continue to accept opinion regarding the question of legal abortion and pending legislation, after the next issue we will no longer accept letters which are intended to be a response to writers Glenna Messer Hansen or Dale Blanshan. We invite them to make their summary and concluding statements in the March 13 edition of the Watch.

We thank all for their expressed interest in the public opinion column and urge their continued participation.)

To The Editor:

My letter is in regard to the letter that was sent by Glenna Messer Hansen and printed in the February 13 issue of the Northern Watch.

Ms. Hansen's attack on Dale Blanshan was uncalled for. She calls him a sexist who believes women are not first class citizens. She is wrong. I know Dale personally. He is my minister and if I felt he treated me or other women in our congregation as second class citizens I would not attend his church. I have watched how he treats his wife and daughters with respect and dignity. He treats me this way also.

Ms. Hansen attacks Dale Blanshan because he believes what God commanded. God commanded us not to murder but to love one another. Dale and I agree that one another includes the unborn.

As a woman who is a single mother of a young son, I do not feel imprisoned. I do not need to be freed by Congressmen and Senators. I have been freed by God through His Son Jesus Christ.

Ms. Hansen's letters are full of words which are meant to catch the reader's attention. Such words are freedom and propaganda.

Every letter of hers I have read is full of anger and no facts. Why? The simple reason is she has no legitimate facts to debate her position.

Women do not need to have the right to kill their unborn children. They, or should I say we, have the right to prevent ourselves from getting pregnant. In cases of rape or incest, the unborn should not pay for their father's violent action. A woman can give the child to a couple for adoption or to a relative. After all, nine months is not very long.

Child abuse is wrong, whether the child is born or unborn. Abortion is abuse. It's also permanent.

Sincerely,
Melinda K. Schrader
Badger, MN

To The Editor:

I have a proposal for Ms. Hanson of Lake Bronson. Rather than calling an argument with supporting facts "propaganda," why not point out the fallacy of the argument or the incorrectness of the facts? For example, if I wrote "twenty million children have died because Roe v. Wade became law," Ms. Hanson could argue that there were less than twenty million, that they weren't children, or that their death wasn't the fault of Roe v. Wade. Unless we start seeing far better facts and argument, the "intelligent and informed women" are going to stay right where they are—squarely in the anti-abortion camp.

Secondly, Ms. Hanson speaks of "religious propaganda." I am of the opinion that the moral values and reasoning of the Bible clearly prohibit abortion. Does Ms. Hanson believe that it is propaganda to say that the Bible prohibits abortions, or does she believe that the Bible itself is propaganda? In either case, why?

Sincerely,
Dale Blanshan

Fertilizers, Chemicals Mean No Bread Lines

GUEST EDITORIAL
by Ruth Hasnedl
Member Penn-Mar-Red Chapter
Minnesota Agri-Women

Once again technology is making our world a safer, better place. Chemicals, long used to help farmers with pest and weed control, have presented some problems in the past. Recent improvements in packaging, measuring and distribution have greatly reduced the risks associated with their use.

One widely used chemical comes in premeasured packets that cover four acres each so the farmer can prepare exactly the amount that is needed. The operator doesn't have to worry about exposure to the product because the packets are made to be added to water. The packet dissolves, eliminating the problem of contaminated containers as well as eliminating the need for landfill space.

Another company is distributing one of its products in large bulk containers that are returned, recycled and reused by the company itself, thus reducing the number of containers in landfills.

Companies are also developing safer products to use, more environmentally friendly products. One such chemical interrupts photosynthesis to cause the weed to die. It does not affect animals.

It takes seven to 10 years of extensive testing and $40 million to $60 million are spent before a product can be released for use. Farm chemicals protect crops from insects, weeds and diseases. Without crop protection, food prices would go up dramatically and there would be shortages. Food is a necessity. Chemicals have given us a country in which food is affordable and safe.

There are places on earth where pests and disease have destroyed crops, causing widespread famine. Bread lines and empty market shelves are not a part of our own reality. Responsible use of fertilizers and chemicals brings us abundance.

Bungling Compounds Tragedy in Texas

That the Branch Davidians sect has grown around an apparently demented individual is a tragedy of sorts, primarily because it may have caused harm to children who were innocently brought into involvement with it. The sect was the one attacked by a swarm of federal agents Sunday near Waco, TX, resulting in a number of people being killed and many more wounded.

That some people suffer from severe delusions is a sad fact of life. That a certain number of these are able to gather about themselves similarly deluded and fiercely loyal supporters is pathetic. Reasonable adults should be able to recognize bizarre behavior and know better than to become involved with those who practice it. Obviously, there are enough impressionable and undiscerning people around to allow cults to develop and flourish.

What is even more tragic than the evolvement of a sect such as the Branch Davidians was the bungled effort by federal agents Sunday to storm its compound. What was described as months of planning and "days and days and days" of practice proved totally ineffective as a 45-minute shoot-out left four agents dead and another 16 wounded. An undetermined number (at the time of this writing) of cult members were reportedly killed, one said to be a two-year-old child. Also at this writing, there was still a stand-off as the sect leader manipulated the agents and the media to broadcast his messages.

The scenario Sunday unfolded like an aborted script from a "Mission Impossible" episode. Agents wheeled up to the compound in livestock trailers (followed by news media representatives in another vehicle), stormed the compound's main home and tried to scale the walls, throwing concussion grenades and shouting for sect members to "come out." Thrown into a suddenly stressful and life-threatening defensive position, the sect members acted to repel the attack with deadly effect. Which side fired first is unknown and perhaps academic; which side initiated the action is without question.

The agents reportedly had warrants to arrest cult leader David Koresh and to search for illegal weapons. Whether that information was made known to the sect members at the time of the attack or if they indeed knew who was attacking them has not been mentioned in the news accounts we have read.

"The problem was we were out-gunned," Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms spokesperson Sharon Wheeler was quoted as saying. "They had bigger firearms than we had." A .50-caliber machine gun was mentioned, if you want to believe federal agents' reports. Officials also said the agents were afraid of hitting women and children, which they apparently did anyway. These are exceedingly weak alibis for failure of a 100-member group with the backing of the federal government. Size of weapons in a one-block area means little.

We don't see any need for a religious organization to stockpile weaponry, although it may not be illegal; we sympathize with the community which may have felt threatened by the presence of such a group; and we are disturbed by reports of child abuse by the group's leader and perhaps others. The latter is, in our opinion, the greater concern.

But we are also disturbed by the full scale semi-military commando type of operation mounted against a communal residence. Even federal intelligence must have indicated there would be a number of women and children present (the group has existed since 1934) and, for that matter, the initiation of an armed assault by 100 agents of the government against people in their own home is reprehensible—warrants notwithstanding. This is still America.

We are sorry agents were killed and wounded. We are sorry agents killed and wounded others. We are sorry people who are supposed to be in positions of upholding the law and safeguarding the lives of individuals saw fit to undertake a Rambo-like mission which could almost be guaranteed to result in indiscriminate deaths. We have a right to expect better efforts from our enforcement agencies. The fact that it was a badly botched and ineffective effort only compounds the tragedy.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Glenna Messer Hanson was insulted by Dale Blanshan's letter. Her letter served to disquiet me.

When a man comments about women's rights, many times the result is that a woman feels insulted. Many women have been treated wrongly by men and that does breed mistrust. In hopes of bypassing that stigma, I am commenting from a woman's viewpoint.

Our country's Constitution serves as a defense for equal rights and rightly so. Too often, though, we see that platform being abused to promote special privileges under the guise of "equal rights."

I am a strong supporter of "equal rights" in the true sense of the term. However, when a person claims the only way he/she can pursue the liberty and happiness (as put forth in the Constitution) is by infringing on another's rights, then we are no longer talking about the constitutional sense of equal rights, but rather special privileges—that of demanding one's human "right" at the expense of another human's right.

For example: If a man claims he can not be truly happy unless he is allowed to vent his anger by beating his wife, he is asking for special privileges, not equal rights, as his pursuit of happiness has infringed on the welfare of another.

Even more so, if a woman claims the only way she can pursue liberty and happiness is to take the life of her unborn baby, we are again talking special privileges rather than equal rights, as she has declared that her right to liberty and happiness exceeds that of her child's right to life.

Which should have priority—the right to liberty, the right to happiness or the right to life? If the right to life has been taken away, is there any opportunity for liberty and/or happiness?

In quoting a line from a famous song, "It is in giving that we receive," I must whole-heartedly agree. It is a truly unhappy person who puts his/her desires above the best interests of others. The more we try to please our selfish human natures the more unhappy we become. Selfish people are unhappy people.

On the other hand, the more we pursue giving happiness to others, the more happiness we receive. I feel a deep compassion for those who have been deceived by the society we live in, to believe otherwise, as they can never truly experience the liberty and happiness that can be had in this life.

Women do have the freedom of choice:

(1) To say "no" before conception—a choice that benefits in more ways than one;

(2) To choose adoption—there are many wonderful and loving couples who desire a child to raise;

(3) To choose to raise the child and experience the joy that only a self-giving parent can receive.

At this time freedom is something some women already have in this society. I say "some" because the unborn women do not. Now is the time to free all women! The Freedom of Choice Act should more accurately be titled the Special Privileges for Women Act.

The liberty to take the life of an innocent human being should never and can never be within the laws of a healthy society.

Sincerely,
Mariam Heppner

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Glenna Messer Hanson was insulted by Dale Blanshan's letter. Her letter served to disquiet me.

When a man comments about women's rights, many times the result is that a woman feels insulted. Many women have been treated wrongly by men and that does breed mistrust. In hopes of hypassing that stigma, I am commenting from a woman's viewpoint.

Our country's Constitution serves as a defense for equal rights and rightly so. Too often, though, we see that platform being abused to promote special privileges under the guise of "equal rights."

I am a strong supporter of "equal rights" in the true sense of the term. However, when a person claims the only way he/she can pursue the liberty and happiness (as put forth in the Constitution) is by infringing on another's rights, then we are no longer talking about the constitutional sense of equal rights, but rather special privileges—that of demanding one's human "right" at the expense of another human's right.

For example, if a man claims he can not be truly happy unless he is allowed to vent his anger by beating his wife, he is asking for special privileges, not equal rights, as his pursuit of happiness has infringed on the welfare of another.

Even more so, if a woman claims the only way she can pursue liberty and happiness is to take the life of her unborn baby, we are again talking special privileges rather than equal rights, as she has declared that her right to liberty and happiness exceeds that of her child's right to life.

Which should have priority—the right to liberty, the right to happiness or the right to life? If the right to life has been taken away, is there any opportunity for liberty and/or happiness?

In quoting a line from a famous song, "It is in giving that we receive," I must whole-heartedly agree. It is a truly unhappy person who puts his/her desires above the best interests of others. The more we try to please our selfish human natures the more unhappy we become. Selfish people are unhappy people.

On the other hand, the more we pursue giving happiness to others, the more happiness we receive. I feel a deep compassion for those who have been deceived by the society we live in, to believe otherwise, as they can never truly experience the liberty and happiness that can be had in this life.

Women do have the freedom of choice:

(1) To say "no" before conception—a choice that benefits in more ways than one;

(2) To choose adoption—there are many wonderful and loving couples who desire a child to raise;

(3) To choose to raise the child and experience the joy that only a self-giving parent can receive.

At this time freedom is something some women already have in this society. I say "some" because the unborn women do not. Now is the time to free all women! The Freedom of Choice Act should more accurately be titled the Special Privileges for Women Act.

The liberty to take the life of an innocent human being should never and can never be within the laws of a healthy society.

Sincerely,
Mariam Heppner

Spuds end Prowlers' season, 8-3

Defending champion Moorhead withstood an early Thief River Falls challenge Tuesday, then pulled away from the Prowlers for an 8-3 Section 8 Tier 1 high school hockey tournament semifinal win at the Moorhead Sports Center.

Thief River Falls, beaten 13-3 and 4-2 in regular season meetings with Moorhead, stood toe-to-toe with the 23-1 No. 2-ranked Spuds at the start before the winners finally took control of a wild first period offensive show by scoring twice in the final nine seconds for a 6-3 spread. The Prowlers never recovered, falling behind 7-3 in the second period, then surrendering the final goal early in the third period.

The loss snapped a five-game Thief River Falls win streak and ended a 12-11-1 season.

Freshman defenseman Kaine Martell, along with senior forwards Rick Ostby and Jason Svir scored for the Prowlers – in the first nine minutes of the game.

Thief River Falls led twice, but only briefly on both occasions.

A Martell slap shot from the point stayed on the ice and caught the far corner of the net to ignite the first period fireworks with just 2:19 elapsed. But 42 seconds later Kraft turned a penalty shot call into a 1-1 tie with a low wrist shot against Thief River Falls goalie Trevor Haugen.

The Prowlers went back on top 2-1 at 4:37 with a slick 2-on-1 last-moment pass and tap-in from Svir to Rogalla.

However, that lead lasted all of 28 seconds as Frisch flashed a burst of speed to get behind two Thief River Falls defenders and directed the puck past Haugen at 5:05.

Moorhead went ahead for the first time at 6:49 when Haberlach picked up his first goal of the night on a slap shot from the slot.

The Prowlers came back for a 3-3 tie at the nine-minute mark when Ostby slipped a rebound under Moorhead goalie Troy Brekke, only to see the Spuds respond 1:32 later as Cullen swiped the puck off the stick of a Thief River Falls player in the Prowlers' zone and walked in alone, putting Haugen on the ice with a move, then tucking the puck behind the netminder for a 4-3 lead.

Just when it looked like the Prowlers might come out of the first period goal-scoring barrage facing only a one-goal deficit, the bottom dropped out on their upset hopes in the final seconds.

It became 5-3 at 14:51 when Cullen, stationed behind the net, got Haugen to go to his right, then quickly came back the other way for a wrap-around goal.

If that wasn't the back-breaker, then it came moments later when the Spuds won the ensuing center ice face-off, sprinted down the ice and made it 6-3 on a goal by Haberlach at 14:58.

"The penalty shot certainly hurt, but the two goals at the end of the period were the real critical ones," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "Then it became an uphill climb. We played as well as we could, but we just couldn't get back into the flow of things."

After the first period outburst, scoring was limited to a second period power play goal off a scramble in front by Haberlach at 9:52 and a third period shot by Jacobson that caromed high off Haugen and fell behind him at 1:22.

Despite giving up the eight goals, Haugen, a senior, turned in a solid 39-save effort. Brekke, a junior, finished with 19 saves.

"We had no intention of being involved in a nine-goal first period," noted Chiodo. "We didn't want to get into a shoot-out with them, but we did, and we wound up losing the hockey game. We did some real good things scoring those goals, but we couldn't hold on to the lead. And we made some real glaring mistakes that cost us on the scoreboard."

Moorhead advanced to Friday's Tier 1 finals against Roseau, a 6-2 winner over Warroad in the second half of Tuesday's semifinal doubleheader.

Huskies surprise Knights 60-59

Goodridge opened its 1992-93 boys high school basketball season Dec. 8 with a 70-39 loss at the hands of Climax/Fisher, and the Huskies lost a Feb. 5 rematch 55-37. But Thursday, Goodridge turned the tables, knocking off the Knights 60-59 in the Section 8A Sub-Section 3 tournament quarterfinals in Crookston.

The win moves 9-13 Goodridge into Saturday's semifinals, where the No. 5-seeded Huskies will tackle No. 1-seeded Warren in the 6:30 p.m. doubleheader opener. East Grand Forks and Crookston meet in the 8:15 nightcap.

Climax/Fisher had an 18-11 lead when the first quarter came to a close, but Goodridge came back for a 28-27 halftime lead. The No. 4-seeded Knights were up 40-38 at the end of the third quarter.

Although the Huskies were just 12-for-22 overall at the line, they wound up winning the game by making 9 of 12 fourth quarter free throws. The Knights stayed close by nailing four of their 10 three-point baskets in the final eight minutes.

"I'm really proud of the kids," offered Goodridge coach John Rahn. "All year long we've had trouble putting together four full quarters. But we did in this one. They played the best basketball I've seen them play all year."

A balanced Goodridge attack included Brady Wiseth and Travis Kotrba with 15 points apiece, Eldon Quam 13, and Mitch Srnsky 12. Climax/Fisher had five double-figure scorers, led by Chuck Durkin with 15 points.

"It was a total team effort," said Rahn. "We made some clutch free throws down the stretch, and we really hustled on defense."

Goodridge put up just 38 shots, but made 21 of them (55 percent). Climax/Fisher was 21-for-50 (42 percent). The Knights missed seven of 11 free throws.

JV boys beat Lakers

Nathan Anderson scored 14 points, David Johnsen 11 and Lee Lund 10 as Thief River Falls beat Detroit Lakes 53-45 in a late-reported (Feb. 26) boys junior varsity high school basketball game.

The winners, 10-11 for the year, had quarter leads of 13-5, 25-16 and 41-30.

Rally falls short for MCC girls

A game-long comeback effort fell short Tuesday as Marshall County Central lost a 50-46 Section 8A Sub-Section 4 girls high school basketball tournament semifinal decision to Roseau.

The Rams jumped in front 17-11 at the end of the first quarter, had a 24-15 halftime advantage and opened up a 16-point third quarter spread before the Nordics' rally kicked into effect.

A three-point basket by Darlene Nelson that beat the third quarter buzzer kept Marshall County Central within 39-29, and when the 5-8 freshman hit another trey with 48 seconds remaining the Nordics had sliced the Rams' lead to 48-46.

But Roseau, after struggling at the free throw line all night, cut the Marshall County Central comeback short when Teresa Gotziaman sank two foul shots to close it out.

"We got down right away," noted Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We fell too far behind a good ball club."

Sara Lokstad, a 5-11 junior, kept the Nordics in the game with a strong 21-point game on the inside. Nelson finished with 10 points – all in the second half.

"Every time Sara got her hands on the ball something good happened," pointed out Mjelde. "She either got the basket or drew a foul. But we just didn't get the ball to her enough."

Gotziaman, a 5-3 senior, scored 19 points and 5-8 eighth grader Megan Taylor had 18 to form a strong 1-2 Roseau attack.

Marshall County Central shot 51 percent from the field (21/41), but the Nordics were just 2-for-7 at the free throw line and they wound up with 20 turnovers.

"We turned the ball over too many times," said Mjelde. "We were real tentative against their pressure defense. We should have been a lot more aggressive offensively."

Part of the problem, admitted Mjelde, was the Nordics' youth, with three freshmen playing prominent roles for the 13-10 squad that was ticketed for a season-ending Friday night third place matchup with Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

Roseau shot 43 percent from the field (22/51) and had a horrible 5-for-19 free throw night – until Gotziaman dropped those two in at the end. The Rams were out-

Amy Adams of Thief River Falls went up between Detroit Lakes' Missy Larsen (42) and Jodi Jost (50) during Tuesday's first round North Sub-Section 8AA girls high school basketball tournament game in the Lincoln gym. The Prowlers beat the Lakers 52-40.

Sara Rasmussen, a Franklin Middle School seventh grader, won championship honors in the girls ages 12-13 category at the 1993 Minnesota Elks Hoop Shoot state free throw shooting contest in Hutchinson, where she made 21 of 25 attempts. Rasmussen earlier won at the local level in Thief River Falls and at the district level in Crookston with identical 18-for-25 efforts. She will now advance to the regional level in Iowa City, Iowa March 20.

Lincoln girls win first round game

Duplicating their regular season-ending 54-43 win over Detroit Lakes five days earlier, the Thief River Falls girls advanced to the North Sub-Section 8AA high school basketball tournament semifinals Tuesday with a 52-40 first round victory over the Lakers.

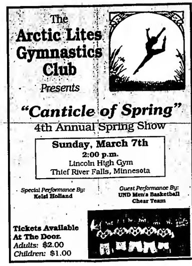
That final regular season win gave the No. 4-seeded Prowlers the home court playoff edge over the No. 5-seeded Lakers, and they made the most of the opportunity.

It was close through much of the game. A 9-9 first quarter tie was followed by 20-15 and 32-29 Thief River Falls leads at the next two breaks, but the Prowlers took over down the stretch while improving their record to 10-13.

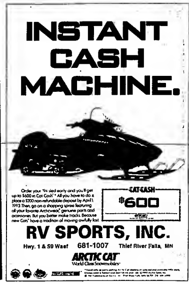
It wasn't a pretty win, admitted Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse after watching the two teams combine on 55 turnovers – 28 for the Lakers and 27 for the Prowlers.

"It was an ugly game," said Wiltse. "We were on a roller-coaster all night, where we would play well for a while, then lose our composure, play well, then lose our composure again."

Thief River Falls wound up winning it at the free throw line, where the Prowlers were 24-for-30, including a 16-for-19 fourth quarter. The 80 percent night at the line was a dramatic improvement for a team that came into the game shooting free throws at a 49 percent clip, noted Wiltse.



Neither team shot well from the field, where the Prowlers were 14-for-45 (31 percent) and the Lakers went 15-for-52 (24 percent). "We missed a bunch of lay-ups," said Wiltse. "We took 45 shots, and 39 of them came from in the paint."



But Thief River Falls compensated with the free throws, while Detroit Lakes had a quieter 7-for-11 night at the line.

Lisa Ulrich and Toni Chiodo scored 13 and 12 points, respective-

Gators lose semifinal decision to Wolfpack

■ Section 8A Sub-Section 4 girls

A 19-4 Badger/Greenbush-Middle River regular season record included a 62-50 win over Kittson Central in mid-February. But a post-season rematch went the other way Tuesday when the Wolfpack shut down the Gators 52-39 in the 1993 Section 8A Sub-Section 4 girls high school basketball tournament semifinals at Northland Community College.

A 13-for-43, 30 percent shooting night sabotaged the Gators' efforts against the defending Section 8A champion Wolfpack. Kittson Central had quarter leads of 8-4, 26-14 and 38-23.

"We played tight," pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer, whose front line starting trio includes two sophomores and a freshman. "We couldn't get anything down. We got enough good shots, but they just wouldn't go in."

Neibauer used eight players, but only four scored – freshman Krissi Super with 13 points, junior Sara Melby 12 and sophomore Jessica Borgen 10.

Wendy Dziengel and Karen Larson led the Wolfpack with 17 and 13 points, respectively. Dziengel, a 5-11 senior, became a member of the 1,000-Point Club in the process. Larson, who hit that figure earlier this winter, also had 18 rebounds, and helped the winners break the game open early by scoring eight points in the second quarter as they turned a four-point edge into a 15-point halftime spread.

In their first meeting, explained Neibauer, Kittson Central played a straight-up defense and Super had a big night offensively. Tuesday the Wolfpack gave her special defensive coverage, and the other Gators could not capitalize on the scoring opportunities they were afforded.

TRF season ends in loss to Cardinals

Alexandria used its defense to set up its offense Thursday as the No. 1-seeded Cardinals took care of No. 4-seeded Thief River Falls 62-37 in the semifinals of the 1993 North Sub-Section 8AA girls high school basketball tournament.

The Prowlers came up with a 10-9 first quarter lead, but fell behind 30-22 at halftime and trailed 45-30 through three quarters.

"Our defense played really well the whole game," reported Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse, "but offensively we struggled all night."

And the Cardinals' defense obviously had something to do with the Prowlers' problems on offense.

"They used a half-court trap that really gave us trouble," explained Wiltse. "It was a great 1-3-1. I haven't seen one that good all year. We turned it over a ton, and when we did set up, we couldn't get inside."

An Alexandria starting unit that did not have a player under 5-10 created a major hurdle for the Thief River Falls inside game. "It was like going up against a solid brick wall," noted Wiltse.

Thief River Falls shot 33 percent from the field (16/49) and went 4-for-7 at the free throw line. Host Alexandria shot 45 percent (25/56) and had a 7-for-12 free throw night. The Cardinals had a 28-19 rebound advantage.

"They (Alexandria) have a good ball club," acknowledged Wiltse. "Even though we lost, it was fun to play them."

Thief River Falls ended the year 10-14.

Eagles win opener

Scott Rindahl scored 20 points, including a final free throw with 4.8 seconds left to insure a 62-58 Grygla-Gatzke win over Tri-County Thursday in opening round Section 8A Sub-Section 4 boys high school basketball tournament action at Northland Community College.

The 12-11 Eagles had quarter leads of 14-10, 26-20 and 40-34.

"It was a pretty good basketball game," noted Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "I thought both teams played good defense. You had to work to get the shots."

Grygla-Gatzke shot 55 percent (23/42) to compensate for a tough 14-for-29 night at the free throw line. Tri-County shot 58 percent (21/37) and went 13-for-16 at the line. The Eagles out-rebounded the Wildcats 26-19.

who was coaching a hockey game in Crookston at the time. The bull roamed to The Patch Restaurant, roamed through the woods to the Olympic Arena ("Which is the second place I spend my most time"), roamed down the highway to Marvin's house and spent a week near his cousins' place. Marvin eventually caught up with the bull at his brother-in-law's farm.

A year later the bull did the same thing and became a menu item at The Patch.

The most stressful part of the job, Marvin said, is hauling the buffalo to three different parcels of land in the summer because the highway pasture isn't big enough for grazing. The calves remain in the highway pasture year around.

During the winter, Marvin feeds the adult buffalo bluegrass screenings and hay. The calves eat corn.

He separates the calves from the adult buffalo for the first winter. The calves are kept in a labyrinth of corrals. They ran away from Marvin as he gave a corral tour.

The corral's walls are covered with plywood and tin. The buffalo won't charge something they can't see through, Marvin explained.

The seven calves were eventually cornered in the last corral. Unsteady at the sound of a camera clicking, they ran round and round the corral, building up a loud momentum and running out of the gate like they were fired from a sling shot.

One of the biggest calves charged a metal gate separating the intruders and calves. The gate reverberated as skull met metal. "That's how they break their horns," Marvin said grimacing.

Marvin doesn't get that close to adult buffalo. For safety reasons he doesn't adopt any buffalo for pets. There are three specific occasions when Marvin said he sees their speed and danger: breeding season, calving, and butchering time. During breeding season, Marvin was riding his bike on the highway and a buffalo charged from over 100 yards away only to be stopped by the fence.

A one-year-old buffalo calf runs around its corral. Most calves are born in April, May or June and weigh 30 to 40 pounds at birth. A one-year-old weighs about 300 to 400 pounds. The average weight of a mature bull is 1,600 pounds.

During calving season the cows take their calves into the thin tree grove on the pasture if a human approaches.

They also become wary during butchering time. They remain huddled in the woods until night and their behavior becomes similar to a deer's behavior during hunting season, Marvin said.

Marvin usually butchers buffalo before they reach three years of age. Almost every part of the buffalo is edible, but Marvin said most of the meat he deals with are burgers, steaks and roasts.

Buffalo played a strong role in American Indian history. The buffalo was a staple of the Plains Indian diet and held strong spiritual significance. A Native American from the Red Lake Indian Tribe requested to be present when a buffalo was butchered. After the buffalo was killed, he took out the bladder, filled it with water and drank from it to "relive the experience," Marvin said.

Marvin said he would rather sell the animals for breeding stock to other area buffalo enthusiasts than butcher them. Marvin has sold animals to breeders in Karlstad and Bagley. "If someone eats the burger, they (buffalo) don't have any continuing value. You always sell your best animals, so someone is always seeing good animals."

Marvin has thought about expanding his buffalo operations. "But I'm really a cautious person....Now we're thinking, but that's as far as we'll go."

Enforcement of calendar parking ends for year

Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser announced Tuesday that the city would no longer be enforcing calendar parking.

Due to the warm weather, Chief Froschheiser said it didn't seem necessary to continue to enforce calendar parking. Normally, enforcement of calendar parking would end on March 15. Chief Froschheiser said however, that if the snowplows have to operate because of more snow, calendar parking will be enforced.

Chief Froschheiser asked for the public to cooperate in case more snow falls and calendar parking has to be enforced again.

Winger school to have new use

Winger — The city of Winger has completed the sale of its school building to a newly formed group, the International Journey of the Heart, a philanthropic group embarking on a pilot project. The new Project Winger, a good-will venture to bring people from the Ukraine, who had been exposed to the 1986 Chernobyl nuclear disaster, to visit the area and regain their health, was started in 1991. The plans are to renovate the school and to have board and lodging for about 40 Ukrainians, parents and children, to live in Winger for a year at a time. The program is the first of its kind in the country. A similar home is being considered for the city of Fisher and another in southern Minnesota. (Mahnomen Pioneer)

Oklee second-graders have new pen pals

Oklee — The second grade class at Oklee school is learning the basic skills and rewards of letter writing, as well as history and geography, through a project, in which the children signed up to be pen pals with children in Virginia Beach, VA. The two classes have already discovered that their class size is similar, while weather patterns for the winter at least are not. The class plans to correspond at least once a month. (Oklee Herald)

Police chief wants noise ordinance

Roseau — Roseau city Police Chief Curt Hauger has proposed a new noise ordinance to the Roseau city council which would give him legal grounds to stop noisy parties and disperse crowds in loud situations. The city council expressed concerns however that the wording of the proposed ordinance would make the county fair, Crazy Days and sporting events illegal. The matter is under consideration. (Roseau Times-Region)

Inter-County Council handles $3 million budget

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

An Oklee-based organization cuts through red tape to oversee about $3 million annually in federal, state and private grant monies.

The programs range from Head Start (preschool education for low income, disadvantaged and disabled children) to senior support programs.

Inter-County Community Council, a private, non-profit organization, operates over 15 services and employs 14 year-around workers. Throughout the year the council periodically employs another 41 workers.

Most of its programs cover the three and one-half county area of Pennington, Red Lake, eastern Polk and Clearwater counties.

"We do have a lot of need (for social services) because both Clearwater and Red Lake counties are on top of the chart in unemployment and poverty levels for this size of population," said Robert Melby, ICCC executive director and 15-year veteran of Inter-County.

The council began in 1965 with programs such as Head Start and youth employment programs. It gradually grew and included more and more programs.

As the number of programs increased, so did the paperwork. "Any time your work with government funds, there's a lot of paperwork, a lot of documentation," Melby said. State and federal monitors also regularly stop by.

Most grant money comes from the state. Federal money, with the exception of Head Start funds, is filtered through the state level before it reaches ICCC.

Melby said that the council experienced shrinking funds in the 1980s, resulting in smaller staff size and services.

For example, in the late 1970s and early 1980s the county served around 700 homes each year with weatherization. This program helps low income families make their homes energy efficient with items such as storm windows and attic insulation. Now funds allow for around 120 homes per year, with a waiting list of 400 qualified families.

Grant monies still fluctuate. The federal government previously allowed 10 per cent of energy assistance money to be used in block grants. This year, the 10 per cent must be used in energy assistance. This means an $80,000 shortfall in other areas.

28 LHS students enter National Honor Society

Twenty-eight students at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls were inducted into the Lincoln chapter of the National Honor Society and two students received special personal service hour awards at installation ceremonies Wednesday afternoon in the high school auditorium.

The group inducted includes 11 seniors, 10 juniors and seven sophomores and is added to the 27 members remaining from the 40 installed as the chapter was formed last year. There were 13 seniors among last year's inductees.

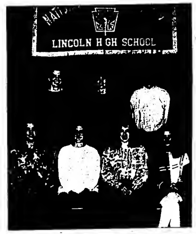
Receiving the personal service hours awards were Jared Goldesberry and Danae Dekkers. During the period from April 1, 1992 to March 1, 1993, Honor Society members reported just over 1,724 hours of personal service. Dekkers led the junior class with 294 hours and Goldesberry led the senior class with 168 1/2 hours. Deadline for turning in service hour reports was March 1.

Pat Johnson, who retired after last year as an LHS English teacher, did much of the groundwork for establishing the chapter and was made an honorary member. Linda Goulet serves as advisor to the chapter.

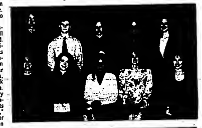
Application for membership in the society is available to all LHS juniors and seniors and to second semester sophomores who have a 3.5 or higher grade point average. Not all who apply are accepted into the chapter.

"Students who apply for membership are informed that not all will be selected," Mrs. Goulet said. "This year we had about 65 applicants from the three grades. It is important that they are able to complete all areas of their application form which cover co-curricular activities, leadership positions, community activities and work experience, recognition and awards.

"A five-member faculty advisory council then reviews the applications and selects qualified students to be inducted into the chapter," Mrs. Goulet said. "Neither I nor principal Terry Soine has a vote in the selection process.



"We have had some excellent scholastic students who were not granted membership in the chapter because their application forms did not indicate sufficient activity in all areas of the application form. Underclassmen who are not selected may apply again in future years if they remain scholastically eligible."



The chapter meets the first Monday of each month and its officers include Ingrid Morken, president; Maren Dyrud, vice president; Heather Thomson, secretary; Jason [illegible], treasurer; and Danae Dekkers, historian.

Among activities of the chapter during the past year have been serving of the appreciation dinner for school bond issue volunteers, sponsoring two blood donor drives and a Sadie Hawkins Day dance, selling tickets for the Freedom Jam concert and operating the concession stand for three home basketball games.

Coming activities will be making and distribution of May baskets

Neighbors oppose plan for new tennis courts in park

Neighbors to the proposed expansion of tennis courts in Engelstad park are opposed to the idea. Tuesday night they presented a petition to the Thief River Falls city council stating their opposition to the proposal.

Willard Fleegel gave a short presentation thanking the park board and Park and Recreation Director Mike Mongoven for putting in the time and effort to apply for a grant to improve the city. But, he said, when the news was announced that the money from the grant would be used for additional tennis courts, he contacted neighbors about the proposals.

In all 22 people signed the petition against the proposal; 14 were property owners. Fleegel said later that the main reasons the property owners are opposed to adding courts is that they would cause more traffic and noise problems. Drivers have been known to block driveways and boom boxes and car radios used mainly by teenagers and young college students are the main problems. Fleegel said property owners have contacted police about the noise in the past. They show up and the noise abates. They leave and the youngsters turn up the music.

They also oppose the proposal for the following reasons: that it will eliminate or take away from the ball diamond; would make a smaller playing area for younger children; the courts should be put in other areas of the city; the grant money could be used for a new warming house with restrooms open during park hours; and/or, the grant money could be used to plant trees to beautify the park.

Penny Seglem, also speaking for the opposition, said the park should be improved for the younger kids. Currently, she said, the park is mainly for older kids. She also added that the noise from radios is a real problem.

Those in favor of the proposal were not entirely without support. Tim Engelstad presented a letter to the council. His letter states that the proposal would benefit the entire community. "With the additions, more youth and adults will be able to use Engelstad Park. This was very important to my grandfather, Ole Engelstad. Recreation, especially for the youth, was so important. Over the years, Engelstad Park has provided a foundation for many kids, especially in our tennis program."

Engelstad added that he didn't feel the additions would be a nuisance to the neighborhood surrounding the park. He added that people should not assume that it will become a "drug spot". "Give the youth in our community opportunities to do activities which help them stay away from drugs," he wrote.

A number of the council members noted that more discussion is needed on the issue. Questions about whether the grant money can be used for other projects also needs to be determined. The issue was then tabled until March 23 when the city council meets again.

■ The council approved changes to its shade tree ordinance.

The council approved a revision of its shade tree ordinance. The new ordinances provides for the regulation of grass, weeds, and trees and streets. Provisions include sections on planting, permits to plant or remove, duty of property owners to cut grass and

Beltrami county sheriff's dept. may join in multi-county 911 system

Beltrami County — The Beltrami county sheriff's department may join with sheriff's departments in three neighboring counties to form a joint, centrally located 911 computerized emergency system. The present system operated by the county has no method of finding out the caller's address, except for calling U.S. West to get the address. This process can take from 10 to 12 minutes. A computerized system can show a caller's phone number and address and some systems can even show a map with the quickest route to the emergency. It is estimated that the present eight employees handle from 40,000 to 50,000 calls per month. (Bemidji Pioneer)

A portion of the money was also used to purchase a file server to connect the computers in the principals' offices to the computer in the superintendent's office. The school district staff is looking forward to using the new additions. (Messenger)

Fire steals Williams arena

Williams — Shortly after 8 a.m. February 26 the Williams community arena was destroyed by fire. It is believed that the cause of the fire, which started in the north end of the building, was a problem with the electrical circuits. The fire spread into the Zamboni room and into the rafters of the rink area. By the time the Williams and Baudette fire departments finished pumping over 4,500 gallons of water into the building, the entire north end had fallen in. The arena board is considering the possibility of rebuilding the structure. (Northern Light)

The workshop is sponsored by the Minnesota Motorcycle Safety Program—a project of the Minnesota Department of Public Safety—and is open to any motorcyclist, co-rider, parents of potential riders or others interested in learning about cycle riding. Class size is limited to 24. For information on enrolling call 681-8740.

Two Fertile men to face charges

Thief River Falls police have charged two Fertile men in connection with burglaries in Thief River Falls.

After receiving information from Polk county authorities police in Thief River Falls decided to charge Kevin Lee Halvorson, 20, route 1, Fertile, and Russell Brault, 43 route 1, Fertile, with two burglaries that occurred at the St. Hilaire Ag Service on Davis Avenue in Thief River Falls. The first incident occurred between June 26 and 29 in 1992. During that burglary, $543.60 in cash was reported taken and there was $200 damage. The second burglary also occurred at the at the St. Hilaire Ag Service on Davis Avenue. Only Brault faces charges in the second incident. During that incident on January 22, 1993, about $200 in cash was taken along with six pairs of gloves, 12 pairs of socks and one pair of rubber boots. There was $276 damage.

Halvorson faces charges of second degree burglary. Brault faces at least two counts of burglary in the second degree and one count of theft over $500.

On Friday, March 12, Pennington county sheriff's department reported that charges had been filed against Brault and Halvorson for a burglary reported at the St. Hilaire elevator in St. Hilaire on June 20. In that incident nothing was taken but damage was estimated at almost $2,000. Brault and Halvrson face charges of burglary and criminal damage to property in that incicent.

Brault also faces charges in Red Lake county. On January 21 the Red Lake County sheriff's department received a report of a stolen snowmobile. Brault was later charged with one count of theft over $500 in connection with that incident. He has already made his first appearance in court on the charge.

Other jurisdictions, principally Polk county, are also conducting investigations into the activities of the two men and reports of thefts and burglaries in their jurisdictions.

Two Fertile men to face charges

Thief River Falls police have charged two Fertile men in connection with burglaries in Thief River Falls.

After receiving information from Polk county authorities police in Thief River Falls decided to charge Kevin Lee Halvorson, 20, route 1, Fertile, and Russell Brault, 43 route 1, Fertile, with two burglaries that occurred at the St. Hilaire Ag Service on Davis Avenue in Thief River Falls. The first incident occurred between June 26 and 29 in 1992. During that burglary, $543.60 in cash was reported taken and there was $200 damage. The second burglary also occurred at the at the St. Hilaire Ag Service on Davis Avenue. Only Brault faces charges in the second incident. During that incident on January 22, 1993, about $200 in cash was taken along with six pairs of gloves, 12 pairs of socks and one pair of rubber boots. There was $276 damage.

Halvorson faces charges of second degree burglary. Brault faces at least two counts of burglary in the second degree and one count of theft over $500.

On Friday, March 12, Pennington county sheriff's department reported that charges had been filed against Brault and Halvorson for a burglary reported at the St. Hilaire elevator in St. Hilaire on June 20. In that incident nothing was taken but damage was estimated at almost $2,000. Brault and Halvorson face charges of burglary and criminal damage to property in that incident.

Brault also faces charges in Red Lake county. On January 21 the Red Lake County sheriff's department received a report of a stolen snowmobile. Brault was later charged with one count of theft over $500 in connection with that incident. He has already made his first appearance in court on the charge.

Other jurisdictions, principally Polk county, are also conducting investigations into the activities of the two men and reports of thefts and burglaries in their jurisdictions.

Group to form action plan to curb violence

Judge Russell A. Anderson, Chief Judge of the Ninth Judicial District, has formed a committee of area judges and other professionals to develop an action plan to reduce domestic violence in the 17 counties of the Ninth Judicial District.

Anderson's initiative is part of a statewide effort to enhance the responsiveness of the entire legal system to the issues of domestic abuse. Similar coordinating committees have been formed in Hennepin, Ramsey, Dakota and St. Louis counties. Anderson's committee is the first cross-county group of interdisciplinary professionals to start the planning process. The Minnesota Supreme Court has recently conducted a focus group to determine the need for a statewide conference to share information and effective approaches to reducing family violence.

"Family violence is a serious and growing problem that requires a coordinated and comprehensive approach on the part of all aspects of the community," said Anderson. "If we are to be successful in reducing domestic abuse, every element of the criminal justice system and the community must work together to root out this problem."

Anderson said the goal of the committee is to marshall community resources in a district-wide and ongoing prevention initiative. The counties in the Ninth District are: Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Beltrami, Koochiching, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Clearwater, Norman, Mahnomen, Hubbard, Itasca, Cass, Crow Wing and Aitkin.

Committee members appointed by Anderson are: Judge Paul Rasmussen, Bagley; Judge John Hawkinson, Grand Rapids; Judge Jay Mondry, Park Rapids; Desiree' Varner, director, Violence Intervention Project, Thief River Falls; Louise Seliski, director, Women's Center of Mid-Minnesota, Brainerd; Renae Whitbeck, LSW, Koochiching County Social Services, International Falls; Judge James Wilson, Roseau; Judge Fred Casey, Brainerd; William Scanlon, Polk County Court Administrator, Crookston; Beverly Warren, director, Northwoods Coalition for Battered Women, Bemidji; and Susan Rantala, Assistant Norman Co. Attorney, Ada.

Anderson cited the following statistics that illustrate the extent of the problem in Minnesota:

— An estimated 25 percent to 37 percent of all women experience battering — an estimated 382,000 to 566,000 women.

— The Minnesota Department of Corrections estimates at least 132,000 domestic assaults occur annually, based on police reports.

Anderson pointed out that the effects of family violence are pervasive throughout society and are carried from one generation to the next. He said the national Attorney General's Task Force on Family Violence in Washington, DC, in 1984, reported:

"Violence in the home strikes at the heart of society. Children who are abused or who live in homes where parents are battered carry the terrible lessons of violence with them in adulthood...To tolerate family violence is to allow the seeds of violence to be sown into the next generation."

The committee expects to put a district-wide system in place to help law enforcement, the court system and social service agencies coordinate their efforts to deal more effectively with family violence.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I regret the decision to call an end to responses to the letters of Ms. Hanson and myself. The ideas in letters to a newspaper help to formulate public opinion, but when such ideas are tested and refined by the thrust and parry of extended debate it becomes clear which ideas have substance and which do not. Perhaps the editor will agree to further debate with himself serving as a more active moderator, rejecting letters that are repetitive or lacking in substance.

In the event that such is not to be the case, let me speak generally:

Those who support abortion have differing motives for doing so. One motive is the desire of the abortion-seekers to hide wrong conduct or to avoid its consequences. Such persons are no different than King David of Bible times, who sought to hide his adultery with Bathsheba by killing her husband. Choosing to sacrifice helpless children is no less reprehensible.

Others are lured into the pro-abortion and feminist ranks because circumstances, usually during childhood, have left them with feelings of loneliness, bitterness and powerlessness. Sisterhood, harsh language and clenched fists are convenient antidotes, and the deaths of innocent children of no consequence.

Such persons are no different than the German people of World War II, who thought the lives of a few million Jews, Poles and gypsies a small price to pay for the feeding of their national ego. The substitution of a physician for a stormtrooper and a sterile surgery for the gas chamber does not render the killing any less painful for the killed or more honorable for the killers.

The Freedom of Choice Act is the illegitimate child of such thinking. It also fails because it is unconstitutional. Officials of the federal government have not been authorized by our agreement with them, the U.S. Constitution, to tell the legislature of any state that it cannot prohibit abortion. For too long we have allowed those officials to forget their oath to uphold that Constitution. It's time to remind them.

Sincerely,
Dale Blanshan
Warroad, MN

To the Editor:

Recommendations to President Clinton:

You did a masterful job of delivering your message to the Congress on Wednesday night, February 17, 1993.

I would like to have heard more about cuts of government spending as highlighted in the Graves Commission Report and less in the spending and the tax areas. The B.T.U. tax is not a well thought-out tax.

There is talk of more employment, which means more production, which means more products to be sold. To make something for sale takes people, row material, energy and transportation to put it into the market place. If you are not competitive in pricing you do not compete.

This tax hits those living in rural areas and the farmer particularly hard. Energy is used in growing the crop, seed bed preparation, planting, harvesting and marketing. There is energy used to make the fertilizer and chemicals and generating the electricity used by the farmer.

What does the B.T.U. tax add to each?

1) a 10 pound bag of flour;
2) a loaf of bread;
3) the average food basket at the supermarket;
4) every product we consumers buy;
5) your electric bill (Minnkota Cooperative says 6 per cent);
6) the Consumer Price Index.

The following quotes stimulate a person to think:

1) "An energy tax is a 'Marie Antoinette' tax. It doesn't hurt the upper crust, but slices significant dough out of the pockets of daily breadwinners".

2) "An energy tax would hit hardest those who are least able to afford the costs and least able to avoid the costs".

"Say what you mean and mean what you say". "Perception is everything" from Tom Peters. "KISS-Keep It Simple Sweetheart".

The B.T.U. tax is a substitute for an even worse tax, the carbon tax. The B.T.U. tax is not simple and my perception is that it will be more detrimental than beneficial. If you agree with me, please write to your congressman.

Sincerely,
Donald Barron

Porkbusters—A Growing Group Whose Time Has Come

Americans have been critical of their Congress—and rightly so—for its lip service to fiscal responsibility on the one hand and the doling out of unnecessary funds on the other. One of the problems with Congress has been the ability to expend funds for community or regional projects without full committee review by attaching amendments to popular legislation.

Now a bipartisan group of U.S. Senators and Representatives has been formed with a goal of ending the practice of pork barrel politics—the spending of tax dollars on questionable projects back home. Calling itself Porkbusters, the group now has some 68 members and is growing. Its organizers were Minnesota Congressman Tim Penny, a Democrat, and Congressman Harris Fawell, a Republican.

For the past three years the group has pushed legislation to cut the port out of appropriations bills. They point out that far too many spending projects get passed outside normal budget and congressional review procedures.

Porkbusters has devised a list of seven tests for wasteful spending. Any projects which fail at least three of these tests are deemed improper for federal funding. The seven tests include the following:

(1) A project that was never the subject of committee hearings; (2) A project never specifically authorized by Congress; (3) A project added at the last minute in an appropriation conference; (4) A project not related to the legislation which funded it or to the agency which administers the project; (5) A project "of purely local interest, without national or regional importance;" (6) A project non-competitively awarded; and (7) A project earmarked in violation of established law.

One would think that responsible statesmen would avoid initiating such pork barrel projects, but such is not the case. By applying these tests, Porkbusters identified 325 "pork projects" worth $1 billion in 1991 appropriations bills and 640 such projects, involving more than $1.5 billion in taxpayers' money, in 1992 appropriations.

What types of projects were identified as pork barrel in nature? Examples are $2 million for a waterfront park in Charleston, WV; $2.5 million for expanding the North Miami Center for Contemporary Art; $1.3 million to Western Michigan University to research recycling mixed office waste; and $2 million to develop and stimulate sales of native Hawaiian handicrafts, including replicas of war canoes.

Porkbusters originator Fawell is correct when he says, "The American people are rightly exasperated with a Congress which is wasting their hard-earned tax dollars on parking garages and theater renovations."

And to those who question whether the Porkbusters campaign will have any real effect on the deficit, Rep. Fawell replies: "If we cannot cut federal funding for studying the disposal of animal manure, what hope is there that we can make far tougher decisions, such as how to control the growth of entitlement spending? Does it not make sense to start by cutting pork or low-priority spending?"

While we applaud the efforts of Porkbusters, it must be noted that the group's efforts have been resisted by the rest of Congress. Those reluctant representatives and senators need to be advised that their constituents expect better of them.

Lincoln Students Again Were Impressive

Anyone who is critical of today's young people should have been in attendance Wednesday afternoon in the Lincoln high school auditorium for induction ceremonies of the Lincoln National Honor Society chapter. It would have been a lesson in restraint and respect.

Although the entire Lincoln student body was in the auditorium near the end of a school day, along with a sprinkling of parents or other relatives of inductees, and the announcement of selections to the society chapter was made on an individual basis, the students maintained courtesy and restraint which was a credit to them all.

Shouldn't we expect such behavior? Should students have to be specially commended for common courtesy and respect?

The answer is "yes" to both questions. Yes, we should expect such behavior from young adults. There is no reason why they should act in any other way. But in these times we must realistically recognize that young adults exude a greater degree of independence than in days past and this attitude may lead to a spontaneous comment or two.

And yes, students do need to be commended for displaying courtesy and respect. They need to recognize that their responsible actions are being observed and that they can take justifiable pride in being good citizens. Dr. Robert Duncan, superintendent of schools, expressed his compliments in brief remarks during the ceremonies and we know his thoughts were shared by most parents and other visitors in attendance.

What a distinct pleasure it is to see bright and active students receive recognition by acceptance into the National Honor Society. And what an added pleasure it is to witness an entire student body exhibit respectful silence and appropriate and sincere applause during a ceremony for these students.

We hope the students feel as good about themselves as we feel about them.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Across the United States, more than 21 million men and women who provide the food and fiber Americans depend on every day will be honored during the 20th anniversary of National Agriculture Week (March 14-20).

The 20th anniversary theme, "American Agriculture—Growing Better Every Day"—conveys the message that America's food and agriculture system is a progressive, forward-thinking industry that is continuously striving to improve its methods and better respond to consumer needs and trends.

National Agriculture Week is coordinated by the agriculture council of the American Education Foundation. The annual observance is designed to direct attention to the important contributions made by the food and agriculture industry.

"Without a national observance, it is too easy to forget the important role the American food and agriculture industry plays in our daily lives," says Keith Nelson, chairman of the Agriculture Council of America. "We tend to take for granted the very industry that puts food on our tables, clothes on our backs and shelter over our heads each day."

National Agriculture Week provides an opportunity for all Americans to take a moment and reflect upon the many ways agriculture touches their lives.

Daffodil Days set for March 17-19

Spring will soon be here and residents of Thief River Falls will see a preview of the coming season as hundreds of fresh daffodils arrive in local businesses next week for the annual Daffodil Days campaign of the American Cancer society. The society's Daffodil Days have become a popular event, celebrating the coming of spring and the hope that exists today in the fight against cancer. The fresh, field-grown daffodils, the society's symbol of hope, will be offered for donations during these days, and proceeds will benefit cancer research, education programs and services and rehabilitation programs for cancer in this community.

Local volunteers, led by Maxine McEwen and Sylvia Grindley, will be selling flowers at a variety of locations, including the Falls Mall, Pamida, Northern State Bank, Norwest Bank, Kmart and Northland Foods. The suggested donation is $4 for a bouquet of 10 daffodils.

Donating for daffodils is a wonderful way to celebrate spring. At the same time, you can know that you are helping the American Cancer society fight cancer.

Inter-County Council has $3 million budget

it's tough dealing with it even as you go along, because certain staff members start worrying about their jobs and it affects their morale a little bit," Melby said. "It's tough to deal with...especially when it has no relationship to how good a job the staff has been doing."

Different programs are run on money from different grants. "Every pot of money has different criteria for disbursement and usually quite a large (number) of rules and paper work to go with them, so we have to have a lot of program directors who are willing to do a lot of reading and memorizing," Melby said.

ICCC Services

One of the most popular programs, Melby said, is Head Start. "Most popular from the standpoint of people using the program and politically," Melby said.

Melby estimated that membership has grown 15 to 20 per cent with increased funding. He estimates that by 1997 the program will be able to serve all eligible children. Currently, he said, between 60 and 70 per cent can participate in the program.

ICCC also administers Small Cities Development Program grants. Last year Oklee received a $375,335 grant. This money can be used for an umbrella-type grant, financing housing rehabilitation, rental rehabilitation, demolition and clearance, sidewalk repair and commercial area repair.

Gonvick recently received a city grant along with 31 other Minnesota towns.

A weatherization program helps 120 homes become more energy efficient each year. A number of factors determine funding for each participant — whether they are elderly or physically disabled, and what income level they fall under.

The Energy Assistance program assists over 1,510 families in Pennington, Red Lake and Polk counties. It helps pay for a portion of their heating costs.

The summer youth program employs 340 youths and covers one of the council's largest areas. It extends north to Canada and west to North Dakota.

The program received $590,000 last year. The youth are 14 to 21 years old and work for public and private entities.

A senior employment program employs 15 workers who are 55 or older. ICCC also operates eight senior craft shops throughout the region. Participants set their own price on the crafts and Inter-County adds 20 per cent to cover operating costs and sales tax.

Between 2,100 and 2,500 households take part in the surplus commodities program, when Inter-County distributes surplus government food. The food is distributed three times each year.

"Cheese was evidently a big draw," Melby said, "because we don't give that out anymore and when we were giving it out, we were (hosting) well over 4,000 households." However, Melby said the guidelines for this program are the council's highest.

Three Inter-County employees work on the Outreach staff. Outreach works with individuals, community groups and local government. They help individuals apply for different programs and assist with property tax and rental refunds.

Inter-County also operates a number of smaller programs, such as an area food shelf.

Some programs are based on small grants, such as the homeless prevention grant. "We try to work with homeless individuals — either finding employment or finding suitable housing," Melby said. "We've had situations where people were living in cars and tents — things that a lot of people don't think may be happening here, but they do."

Thief River Falls animal control officer released his annual activity report to the city council Tuesday night. Speaking for the animal control officer, Police Chief Ken Froschheiser noted that the number of animals impounded in 1992 declined from the number impounded in 1991.

In 1992, 303 animals were impounded at the Thief River Falls animal pound. Of the animals impounded, 180 were dogs and 116 were cats. Seven other animals, such as skunks and raccoons, were also impounded. Last year, a total of 340 animals were impounded.

Of the 303 animals impounded 176 were disposed, 64 were returned to their owner and 50 were given away. The animal control officer also reported that there were 13 vehicle killed animals reported to his office. Last year, 172 animals were disposed, 50 given away and 91 released to the owner.

The number of citations issued for allowing an animal to run at large, and cruelty to animals, which required a court appearance, dropped from 40 in 1991 to 25 in 1992.

Animal pound fees taken in during the year totaled $2,950. In 1991 the office collected $2,082.35.

There were 60 dog and cat licenses sold in 1992 and $230.25 collected in license fees. In 1991, 51 dog and cat licenses were sold and $200 collected in license fees.

The number of calls or complaints handled by the animal control officer during the year totaled 680. In 1991, the animal control officer responded to 727 complaints.

LETTERS

To The Editor:
I regret the decision to call an end to responses to the letters of Ms Hanson and myself. The ideas in letters to a newspaper help to formulate public opinion, but when such ideas are tested and refined by the thrust and parry of extended debate it becomes clear which ideas have substance and which do not. Perhaps the editor will agree to further debate with himself serving as a more active moderator, rejecting letters that are repetitive or lacking in substance.

In the event that such is not to be the case, let me speak generally.

Those who support abortion have differing motives for doing so. One motive is the desire of the abortion-seekers to hide wrong conduct or to avoid its consequences. Such persons are no different than King David of Bible times, who sought to hide his adultery with Bathsheba by killing her husband. Choosing to sacrifice helpless children is no less reprehensible.

Others are lured into the pro-abortion and feminist ranks because circumstances, usually during childhood, have left them with feelings of loneliness, bitterness and powerlessness. Sisterhood, harsh language and clenched fists are convenient antidotes, and the deaths of innocent children of no consequence.

Such persons are no different than the German people of World War II, who thought the lives of a few million Jews, Poles and gypsies a small price to pay for the feeding of their national ego. The substitution of a physician for a stormtrooper and a sterile surgery for the gas chamber does not render the killing any less painful for the killed or more honorable for the killers.

The Freedom of Choice Act is the illegitimate child of such thinking. It also fails because it is unconstitutional. Officials of the federal government have not been authorized by our agreement with them, the U.S. Constitution, to tell the legislature of any state that it cannot prohibit abortion. For too long we have allowed those officials to forget their oath to uphold that Constitution. It's time to remind them.

Sincerely,
Dale Blanshan
Warroad, MN

To the Editor:
Recommendations to President Clinton:

You did a masterful job of delivering your message to the Congress on Wednesday night, February 17, 1993.

I would like to have heard more about cuts of government spending as highlighted in the Graves Commission Report and less in the spending and the tax areas. The B.T.U. tax is not a well thought-out tax.

There is talk of more employment, which means more production, which means more products to be sold. To make something for sale takes people, raw material, energy and transportation to put it into the market place. If you are not competitive in pricing you do not compete.

This tax hits those living in rural areas and the farmer particularly hard. Energy is used in growing the crop, seed bed preparation, planting, harvesting and marketing. There is energy used to make the fertilizer and chemicals and generating the electricity used by the farmer.

What does the B.T.U. tax add to each?

1) a 10 pound bag of flour;
2) a loaf of bread;
3) the average food basket at the supermarket;
4) every product we consumers buy;
5) your electric bill (Minnkota Cooperative says 6 per cent);
6) the Consumer Price Index.

The following quotes stimulate a person to think:

1) "An energy tax is a 'Marie Antoinette' tax. It doesn't hurt the upper crust, but slices significant dough out of the pockets of daily breadwinners".

2) "An energy tax would hit hardest those who are least able to afford the costs and least able to avoid the costs".

"Say what you mean and mean what you say". "Perception is everything" from Tom Peters. "KISS-Keep It Simple Sweetheart".

The B.T.U. tax is a substitute for an even worse tax, the carbon tax. The B.T.U. tax is not simple and my perception is that it will be more detrimental than beneficial. If you agree with me, please write to your congressman.

Sincerely,
Donald Barron

Porkbusters—A Growing Group Whose Time Has Come

Americans have been critical of their Congress—and rightly so—for its lip service to fiscal responsibility on the one hand and the doling out of unnecessary funds on the other. One of the problems with Congress has been the ability to expend funds for community or regional projects without full committee review by attaching amendments to popular legislation.

Now a bipartisan group of U.S. Senators and Representatives has been formed with a goal of ending the practice of pork barrel politics—the spending of tax dollars on questionable projects back home. Calling itself Porkbusters, the group now has some 68 members and is growing. Its organizers were Minnesota Congressman Tim Penny, a Democrat, and Congressman Harris Fawell, a Republican.

For the past three years the group has pushed legislation to cut the port out of appropriations bills. They point out that far too many spending projects get passed outside normal budget and congressional review procedures.

Porkbusters has devised a list of seven tests for wasteful spending. Any projects which fail at least three of these tests are deemed improper for federal funding. The seven tests include the following:

(1) A project that was never the subject of committee hearings; (2) A project never specifically authorized by Congress; (3) A project added at the last minute in an appropriation conference; (4) A project not related to the legislation which funded it or to the agency which administers the project; (5) A project "of purely local interest, without national or regional importance;" (6) A project non-competitively awarded; and (7) A project earmarked in violation of established law.

One would think that responsible statesmen would avoid initiating such pork barrel projects, but such is not the case. By applying these tests, Porkbusters identified 325 "pork projects" worth $1 billion in 1991 appropriations bills and 640 such projects, involving more than $1.5 billion in taxpayers' money, in 1992 appropriations.

What types of projects were identified as pork barrel in nature? Examples are $2 million for a waterfront park in Charleston, WV; $2.5 million for expanding the North Miami Center for Contemporary Art; $1.3 million to Western Michigan University to research recycling mixed office waste; and $2 million to develop and stimulate sales of native Hawaiian handicrafts, including replicas of war canoes.

Porkbusters originator Fawell is correct when he says, "The American people are rightly exasperated with a Congress which is wasting their hard-earned tax dollars on parking garages and theater renovations."

And to those who question whether the Porkbusters campaign will have any real effect on the deficit, Rep. Fawell replies: "If we cannot cut federal funding for studying the disposal of animal manure, what hope is there that we can make far tougher decisions, such as how to control the growth of entitlement spending? Does it not make sense to start by cutting pork or low-priority spending?"

While we applaud the efforts of Porkbusters, it must be noted that the group's efforts have been resisted by the rest of Congress. Those reluctant representatives and senators need to be advised that their constituents expect better of them.

Lincoln Students Again Were Impressive

Anyone who is critical of today's young people should have been in attendance Wednesday afternoon in the Lincoln high school auditorium for induction ceremonies of the Lincoln National Honor Society chapter. It would have been a lesson in restraint and respect.

Although the entire Lincoln student body was in the auditorium near the end of a school day, along with a sprinkling of parents or other relatives of inductees, and the announcement of selections to the society chapter was made on an individual basis, the students maintained courtesy and restraint which was a credit to them all.

Shouldn't we expect such behavior? Should students have to be specially commended for common courtesy and respect?

The answer is "yes" to both questions. Yes, we should expect such behavior from young adults. There is no reason why they should act in any other way. But in these times we must realistically recognize that young adults exude a greater degree of independence than in days past and this attitude may lead to a spontaneous comment or two.

And yes, students do need to be commended for displaying courtesy and respect. They need to recognize that their responsible actions are being observed and that they can take justifiable pride in being good citizens. Dr. Robert Duncan, superintendent of schools, expressed his compliments in brief remarks during the ceremonies and we know his thoughts were shared by most parents and other visitors in attendance.

What a distinct pleasure it is to see bright and active students receive recognition by acceptance into the National Honor Society. And what an added pleasure it is to witness an entire student body exhibit respectful silence and appropriate and sincere applause during a ceremony for these students.

We hope the students feel as good about themselves as we feel about them.

To The Editor:
Across the United States, more than 21 million men and women who provide the food and fiber Americans depend on every day will be honored during the 20th anniversary of National Agriculture Week (March 14-20).

The 20th anniversary theme, "American Agriculture—Growing Better Every Day"—conveys the message that America's food and agriculture system is a progressive, forward-thinking industry that is continuously striving to improve its methods and better respond to consumer needs and trends.

National Agriculture Week is coordinated by the agriculture council of the American Education Foundation. The annual observance is designed to direct attention to the important contributions made by the food and agriculture industry.

"Without a national observance, it is too easy to forget the important role the American food and agriculture industry plays in our daily lives," says Keith Nelson, chairman of the Agriculture Council of America. "We tend to take for granted the very industry that puts food on our tables, clothes on our backs and shelter over our heads each day."

National Agriculture Week provides an opportunity for all Americans to take a moment and reflect upon the many ways agriculture touches their lives.

Daffodil Days set for March 17-19

Spring will soon be here and residents of Thief River Falls will see a preview of the coming season as hundreds of fresh daffodils arrive in local businesses next week for the annual Daffodil Days campaign of the American Cancer society. The society's Daffodil Days have become a popular event, celebrating the coming of spring and the hope that exists today in the fight against cancer. The fresh, field-grown daffodils, the society's symbol of hope, will be offered for donations during these days, and proceeds will benefit cancer research, education programs and services and rehabilitation programs for cancer in this community.

Local volunteers, led by Maxine McEwen and Sylvia Grindley, will be selling flowers at a variety of locations, including the Falls Mall, Pamida, Northern State Bank, Northwest Bank, Kmart and Northland Foods. The suggested donation is $4 for a bouquet of 10 daffodils.

Donating for daffodils is a wonderful way to celebrate spring. At the same time, you can know that you are helping the American Cancer society fight cancer.

Coast Guard recreational vessel fee is amended

Legislation phasing out the recreational vessel fee which applied to boats operating on Minnesota waters of Lake of the Woods was signed into law by the President Nov. 2, 1992 and is retroactive to Oct. 1, 1992.

Under the amended act, the fee will apply only to boats more than 21 feet in length until Oct. 1, 1993, and to boats 37 feet or more in length from Oct. 1, 1993 until Oct. 1, 1994. The vessel fee program ends Oct. 1, 1994.

For the 1993 boating year on Minnesota waters of Lake of the Woods, there will be no fee for boats 21 feet or less in length. The fee will be $35 for boats more than 21 feet but less than 27 feet, $50 for boats 27 feet but less than 40 feet and $100 for boats 40 feet or longer.

The fee applies only on the territorial seas of the United States, internal waters subject to tidal influence, internal waters from which a powered vessel over 16 feet with a displacement-type hull can travel to tidal waters by connecting waters, canals, locks, etc., during most of the boating season and to the specific waters of Lake of the Woods (MN), Lake Roosevelt (WA), Lake Tahoe (CA, NV), the Colorado river between Headgate Rock Dam and Davis Dam, Lake Havasu and the Parker Strip (AZ, CA).

Recreational vessel fee decals may be ordered from U.S. RVF, P.O. Box 740169, Atlanta, GA 30374-0169 or by calling toll-free 1-800-848-2100. General information is available by calling 1-800-368-5647.

The Coast Guard has been delegated the responsibility of implementing and enforcing the amended RVF law. By statute, those who are required to display RVF decals and are cited for noncompliance may be assessed a civil penalty not to exceed $5,000. Generally, penalties have been assessed at two to four times the face value of the decal.

Boat owners who purchased RVF decals on or after Oct. 1, 1992, and have boats that are no longer required to display decals, will be eligible for full refunds and will be automatically notified by mail.

Ruth White speaks in planned series at college club

Ruth Meliby White, 84, whose father was an early doctor in Thief River Falls, recently was the first speaker in a planned series of reports by members of the College Club in Boston, MA.

White has a BA degree from St. Olaf College and an MA degree in music from Columbia University.

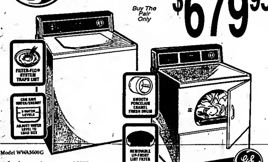
"In my hour-long talk I started with memories of northwestern Minnesota and growing up in Thief River Falls," she said. "(I recalled) the cold, winter sports, railroad and lumber industry and farming. My father, a country doctor, kept a team at the livery stable since it was frequently impossible to get to a farm house with a car.

"He delivered babies and operated on farm kitchen tables and seldom lost a life. He was a healer, as Rev. G. Thompson said, 'because he first examined the body, then the heart, then the mind.'

"I described the prairie, the pioneer conditions when I was small, born in 1908. My doctor in Boston and friends marvel at my health. I say (that results from) Norwegian genes and growing up in a healthy climate, pure air, winter sports, mostly law abiding decent people. Neighbors helped each other in time of need; there was a community spirit.

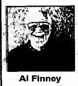
"College Club members were curious about my birth place of Thief River Falls, so in a way I put it on the map in Boston. The name always piques people's curiosity so I tell the Indian legend about the natural falls in the Thief river."

Weight Loss Mystery Baffles Scientists



WASHINGTON – Scientists are baffled by a natural food ingredient that caused people to lose weight even though they were instructed not to alter normal eating patterns.

Although other scientists and studies may not agree, a study published in The British Journal of Nutrition found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, can cause significant weight loss. Several explanations for the weight loss are suggested, but the most likely according to scientists in a Finnish study, is that colloids seem to decrease the intestinal absorption of calories. However, universal acceptance of this theory will depend on further study.



National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the research and development of nutritional solutions to world-wide health problems, has successfully isolated and incorporated a series of colloids into a unique food tablet called Food Source One. A significant breakthrough in nutritional weight control, Food Source One provides a scientifically designed method for weight loss. Food Source One replaces high calorie fats with lower calorie nutrients, thereby providing optimum nutrition with a minimum number of fat calories. According to a study in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, you do not need to restrict the amount of food you eat to lose weight, just the fat.

Food Source One is unlike any other product on the market and is available immediately because it is not a drug and only contains natural ingredients already known to be safe. Physicians and pharmacists are praising Food Source One as a natural, drug free alternative for confronting obesity.

Lead levels in water supply prompts warning

Following the announcement that lead levels in a recent sample taken from residences in Thief River Falls exceed allowances, the water department has been scurrying to meet state and federal requirements. The most recent step taken involved mailing notices to all of the residents in Thief River Falls.

As explained in a recent article in The Times, more than 10 per cent of the homes tested were above the EPA "action level" for lead in drinking water.

Forty homes in Thief River Falls that are at high risk to lead and copper in their drinking water were tested for copper and lead. Some of these homes exceeded the Federal Action Level of 15 parts per billion for lead. None of the homes exceed the action level for copper.

The method in which the test was taken and at which residences explains why the levels exceeded requirements. The residences included in the test were most likely to exceed lead levels. Water used in the test came directly from taps. Purging the water lines before the test was not allowed.

The brochure sent to residents explains that lead usually gets into water after it leaves the water treatment plant. The most likely source of lead is lead pipe, lead solder, or brass fixtures. Water at the local water treatment plant does not contain lead.

The brochure sent to residents also explains who is most at risk by lead in water, how to reduce lead in drinking water, how to tell if there is too much lead in the water, whether water treatment devices help, and what the local water supplier is doing about lead.

There is a simple solution. To eliminate the lead, let the water run. Flushing the kitchen and bathroom faucet for 30 to 60 seconds removes any lead or copper that has been absorbed by the water standing in the fixture and pipes.

For more information, please contact the Water department at 681-3809.

weeds and maintain trees and shrubs. It also allows for the city to order the work done.

A new ordinance pertaining to shade tree disease control and prevention was also adopted. Provisions in that ordinance include definitions, inspection and diagnosis, abatement of nuisance, and procedure for removal of infected trees and wood. According to law, the ordinance will be published in its entire form in the public notice section of The Times. Anyone interested in learning more about the new ordinance is also encouraged to contact the city forester.

In other business, the council: received the annual police report; discussed a lead abatement brochure sent to residents; approved a resolution authorizing proceeding with city recertification for star city status; approved a recommendation to call for bids on garbage bags; approved the purchase of a tandem axle truck and box and hoist; tabled discussion of the Teamsters and police contracts for 1993 and 1994; approved the addition of sewer and water extension to serve Pioneer court and Gene Hanson's to the 1993 Sidewalk and Utilities Improvement project; renewed the car rental agreement between the city and Tunberg Motor company for four vehicles at the airport for 1993; renewed the contact with the Fixed Base Operator at the airport; approved a recommendation to proceed with an advertising program for services offered at the Regional Airport in Thief River Falls; and approved the purchase of a trencher for the electric department.

MN Road weight restrictions begin

Spring weight restrictions for northern and central Minnesota begin Monday, March 15. Northern and central zones include all state highways north of Highway 12.

Weight restrictions in southern Minnesota and the metropolitan area go into effect Friday, March 12.

About 14 percent, or 240 miles of the 1,727 miles of state highway in northwest Minnesota, will be restricted to seven tons axle weight this spring. All other state highways in the area will remain at the normal 10 ton axle weight limit.

Restrictions are based on gross axle weight, which includes the weight of the vehicle and its load.

No permits for overweight axle loads exceeding legal or posted axle weights will be issued.

Signs will indicate the allowable weight at the end of restricted roadways. Restrictions are in effect as long as signs remain.

During the period when signs are in place or road restrictions are in effect (approximately March 20 through May 15) any county or township road is restricted to five tons gross weight per axle except as otherwise signed. If no signs are erected, the five ton gross weight provisions shall apply.

All rural bituminous Pennington County State Aid Highways will be posted at seven tons gross weight. Exceptions posted at ten tons gross weight per axle are:

• CSAH 17 from CSAH 3 to 1st Street in Thief River Falls.

• CSAH 3 from TH 32 to TH 59.

Exceptions posted at nine tons gross weight per axle are:

• CSAH 20 from CSAH 3 to TH 59.

• CSAH 3 from the Polk County line to TH 32.

Roads posted at seven tons gross weight per axle are:

• CSAH 8 from Polk County line to TH 1.

• CSAH 13 from TH 1 to CSAH 7.

• CSAH 7 from CSAH 13 to CSAH 12.

• CSAH 12 from CSAH 7 to CSAH 3.

• CSAH 10 from CSAH 3 to Red Lake County line.

• CSAH 12 from CSAH 3 to Red Lake County line.

• CSAH 17 from CSAH 3 to Red Lake County line.

• CSAH 3 from TH 59 to CSAH 27.

• CSAH 23 from CSAH 3 to Red Lake County line.

• CSAH 27 from TH 1 to Red Lake County line.

• CSAH 28 from Marshall County line to TH 1.

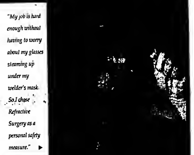
Refractive Surgery Can Dramatically Enhance Your Eyesight, So You're Much Less Dependent on Glasses or Contacts.



For Some Jobs and Hobbies, Glasses and Contacts are a Hassle. Some occupations can be more dangerous and difficult when you depend on corrective lenses. So, if you're tired of wearing glasses or contacts because of job concerns or sports limitations, Refractive Surgery may be worth looking into.

Richard L. Lindstrom, M.D.
Consultative Ophthalmology, Refractive & Laser Surgery

Refractive Surgery Works to Correct the Cause of Vision Problems. Refractive Surgery has been designed to correct nearsightedness. The precise microsurgery works by changing the shape of the cornea, thus correcting the way the eye focuses light. The 20 minute outpatient procedure can correct vision to 20/40 or better in 90% of the cases, and it's virtually painless. In fact, most patients return to work in two to three days. Even more reassuring is the fact that nearly 1,000,000 surgeries have been performed nationwide.

"My job is hard enough without having to worry about my glasses steaming up under my welder's mask. So I chose Refractive Surgery as a personal safety measure."

A World-Renowned Refractive Eye Surgeon in the North Country. Dr. Richard L. Lindstrom is widely regarded as a leader in corneal, cataract, refractive, and laser eye surgery. And now, select Eye Specialists in northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota are able to offer Dr. Lindstrom's world-class Refractive Surgery services to their patients.

Is Refractive Surgery Right for You? To find out more about Refractive Surgery, you or a family member may want to attend a free information seminar. This eye-opening presentation lasts about one hour. Of course, there's no obligation, and free literature will be available. Space is limited, so call the phone number listed here today and let us know you'll be attending.

State forest road use curtailed

State forest roads will be restricted or closed to vehicle use during the spring breakup in the Lost River State Forest and the Beltrami Island State Forest. Restrictions will be coordinated to coincide with all county road restrictions, adjacent to the forest road.

Special permission will be granted on an individual basis upon request when weather or road conditions allow it.

Most forest roads are not engineered to carry traffic during spring breakup without receiving serious damage. In many cases lighter vehicles with narrow tires cause more damage than large logging vehicles. Therefore, it has been decided to completely close forest roads in the western portion of the Beltrami Island State Forest and the Lost River Sate Forest to vehicle use, except by special permit.

State forest roads connecting with county roads that will be closed to use except by written permit as well as all interior roads include Norlond, Thompson, Roosevelt – Norris, Dick's Parkway, Tangness, Bednar, Winner, Rapid River, Moose River, Bemis Hill, Ditch 10, Tofte, and Morehouse.

Donations on tax forms aid state's wildlife programs

As Minnesota taxpayers fill out their W-2 forms they are reminded by the Department of Natural Resources to help wildlife by donating to the Nongame Wildlife Checkoff.

This year the famous "loon line" is on line 10 of Minnesota's M-1 property tax refund forms, on line 3 of the M-1A short form, and line 16 of the M-1 PR property tax refund form.

More than 100 different wildlife conservation projects are funded by donations to the Nongame Wildlife Checkoff. Bluebirds, trumpeter swans, peregrine falcons, bald eagles, turtles, butterflies, and many other species all benefit from donations.

For tax year 1990, about 6.8 percent of all taxpayers donated an average of $6.47 each to the checkoff. A total of $948,000 was raised for conservation. This was down $12,000 from the previous year.

Biologists in the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) said they are hoping the current upward economic trends will be reflected in more donations for wildlife in 1993.

DNR has set a goal of $1 million in donations for this year, according to Carrol Henderson, supervisor of the DNR Nongame Wildlife Program. "Taxpayers can help us reach that goal by giving generously at tax time. Even a dollar or two will help ensure the continuing success of this exceptional wildlife conservation program."

DNR Conservation Corps applications are available for '93

Applications are now being accepted for corps members of the Department of Natural Resources' Minnesota Conservation Corps (MCC). Sixty corps member positions are open for youths between the ages of 15 and 18 to work on seven-member conservation crews.

The work is labor-intensive. Participants build trails, clear campsites, construct erosion control projects, and do a variety of work projects in state parks, in forests and on trails.

MCC corps members work outdoors and learn environmental and conservation skills. In addition MCC offers career development through classes on topics such as careers in natural resources, life skills, career education planning and job interviewing. On weekends MCC members canoe, hike and enjoy other high-adventure activities, including a challenge ropes course.

Corps members work 35 hours a week and earn $4.25 per hour. Hark said applicants should enjoy working and living in a rustic outdoor setting.

The camp will run from June 27 through August 20. Youth applications are due in the St. Paul office no later than May 3.

MCC hires an equal number of female and male corps members, and encourages minority youth applicants.

To receive a Conservation Corps application, contact the Minnesota Conservation Corps, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4004; call toll free 1-800-766-6000 (ask for Minnesota Conservation Corps).

Kruta earns praise

Jodi Kruta, a 5-4 Northern Montana College freshman guard from Thief River Falls, scored a career-high 21 points to lead the top-seeded Skylights past defending national champion Northern State of Aberdeen, SD 70-68 in the championship game of the NAIA District 12 women's basketball tournament.

"I just love to watch her when she gets the ball in her hands because she can beat three people to the basket," Northern Montana coach Sherry Winn told Daniel T. Ferguson of the Havre Daily News. "That's why we're all screaming 'go' when she gets the ball."

It was the fifth consecutive district title for NMC, advancing the 31-3 Skylights to the NAIA Division II national tournament in Monmouth, Oregon.

Kruta's offensive talents are complemented by her work on defense, pointed out Ferguson in his game story. "Jodi was excited for this game all day," Winn told the paper. "She knew she would have to step up and play. She made some key baskets, and some big steals."

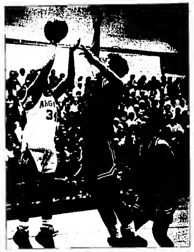
Swimmer has TRF ties

University of North Dakota swimming standout Shelly Ebbighausen, a junior from Burnsville, is the granddaughter of Orace Ebbighausen and Olga Engevik of Thief River Falls.

Shelly and her UND teammates are in Ashland, Ohio this week for the NCAA Division II national meet.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ebbighausen of Burnsville, Shelly was named UND MVP a year ago when she earned All-America status while winning the 100 butterfly at the NCAA Division II meet, a feat she repeated Thursday. The previous day she swam the lead leg on a fifth place UND 200 medley relay team.

Meetings...



■ Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association meeting will be held Monday, March 15, at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln High School cafeteria.

■ Fourtown/Grygla Sportsmen's Club will meet Tuesday, March 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the Family Bowl in Thief River Falls.

Bergland sent down

National Hockey League's Tampa Bay Lightning sent Thief River Falls' Tim Bergland to its minor league team in Atlanta earlier this week.

Bergland started the 1992-93 season at Atlanta, but was called up to the NHL level about a month ago.. His professional hockey career has been charted in The Times through a column written by Jeff Storhaug.

High school basketball returns to Northland Community College tonight (Saturday) with the finals of the 1993 Section 8A Sub-Section 4 boys tournament. Northland's expanded facility was selected for the first time this year to host all 22 Sub-Section 4 boys and girls tournament games, often testing the announced seating capacity of 1,500. Tonight's doubleheader finale includes an Argyle vs. Stephen third place game at 6:30 p.m. and a Marshall County Central vs. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River championship match-up at 8. This action in Monday's semifinale saw Billy Holum of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River trying to block a shot by Shawn Anderson of Argyle, with the Gators' John Sparby looking on. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River won 51-48 in overtime.

Otters beat Prowlers 85-63

■ Fast start carries Fergus Falls past TRF boys

Fergus Falls beat Thief River Falls out of the starting blocks Thursday, running up a 16-0 lead in the first five minutes en route to an 85-63 home court win in opening round 1993 North Sub-Section 8AA boys high school basketball tournament play.

The loss ended a 4-19 season for the No. 6-seeded Prowlers. The No. 3-seeded Otters advanced into the semifinals against second-seeded Bemidji. No. 4 Alexandria beat No. 5 Detroit Lakes 73-63 in Thursday's other first round game, gaining the Cardinals a semifinal berth against top-seeded Moorhead.

"We just weren't ready at the start," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke, whose team faced a 21-2 deficit before beginning a comeback effort. "We came out flat and dug ourselves a hole. Once we got into the flow of things we played well. I was real proud the way they came back – we worked hard, we tightened up defensively and we put the ball in the basket."

The turnaround brought the Prowlers to within 41-38 at halftime. But what might have gone down as one of the best comebacks ever faltered down the stretch as the Otters re-opened a 61-48 third quarter gap while out-scoring the Prowlers 44-25 in the second half.

"It took a lot out of us just to get back in the game," noted Brekke. "We fell too far behind and had to spend too much energy coming back."

In the end, it was the Prowlers' defense that let them down, according to Brekke. "We gave them too many points," he said. "We're not going to win very many games giving up 85 points. We just don't score that many ourselves."

Ryan Retzlaff led the Otters' scoreboard assault with a 36-point show. "We couldn't stop him," said Brekke. "He just ate us up inside. He made some outstanding shots."

Fritz Skinner joined Retzlaff in double figures for the winners with 15 points. Seniors Tony Greene and John Gunstad closed out their Thief River Falls basketball careers with 20 and 17 points, respectively, while freshman Kyle Sanden had 12.

Thief River Falls shot 54 percent from the field, hitting 26 of 48, but Fergus Falls shot 55 percent on a 38-for-68 showing. The Prowlers were 6-for-9 at the free throw line, where the Otters were 4-for-8.

Fergus Falls finished with a sizeable 36-18 rebound advantage, and Thief River Falls topped the turnover charts 13-9.

It was the third Fergus Falls win over Thief River Falls this winter, with the Otters winning 74-58 and 76-53 regular season decisions.

Prowlers' relay teams compete in state meet

Two sets of Thief River Falls relay teams participating in the 1993 Minnesota boys state high school swim meet did not come up with anything in the way of memorable season-ending performances – other than the fact they were state meet performers – according to Prowlers coach Ryan Lokken.

The meet was held March 5-6 at the University of Minnesota Aquatic Center in Minneapolis. Friday prelims qualified the top eight finishers for Saturday's championship finals, while the ninth-through-16th place prelim finishers moved into the second-day consolation finals.

A 400 freestyle relay unit featuring Daryl Kiesow, Brad Kragness, Matt Carlson, and Brad Cota, did qualify for the consolation finals, but wound up with a 16th place 3:25.67 clocking Saturday, some three seconds off their best time of the year. Minnetonka won the race in 3:12.82.

Kiesow, Matt Carlson, Cota, and Adam Jacobson formed a Thief River Falls 200 freestyle relay team that wound up 19th in Friday's prelims with a 1:35.37. Albert Lea won the race in 1:27.11.

"It wasn't good," said Lokken in describing the Prowlers' state meet showings. "We got a break the first day and made it into the 400 consolation finals, but then didn't swim very well Saturday. The 200 had some real problems with the walls – the turns."

Coto is a junior; the other Thief River Falls state meet participants were seniors.

Poole part of NJCAA title-winning team

Corey Poole of Thief River Falls was a member of the University of Minnesota-Crookston team that captured its first National Junior College Athletic Association hockey tournament title over the weekend in Bottineau, ND.

Poole scored twice in the Trojans' 8-2 win over North Country (NY) Community College to kick off the four-team, round-robin affair.

UMC then shut out host NDSU-Bottineau 4-0 and finished with a title-clinching 3-2 victory over Erie (NY) Community College.

The Trojans, who have won back-to-back Minnesota Community College Conference state titles, finished the 1992-93 season with a 24-3 record.

Nordics, Gators meet at Northland Community College...

Sub-sectional finals are set

University of Minnesota-Crookston will play host to the 1993 Section 8A boys high school basketball tournament Thursday and Friday, March 18 and 19.

First-night semifinals match Sub-Section 1 vs. Sub-Section 2 at 6:30 p.m. and Sub-Section 3 vs. Sub-Section 4 at 8:15.

Finals March 19 include the third place game at 6:30 p.m. and championship game at 8:15.

Sub-sectional finals were scheduled today (Saturday) at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls, Bemidji State University and the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

The Section 8A Sub-Section 4 doubleheader finale at Northland features Argyle vs. Stephen in the 6:30 p.m. third place contest, followed by Marshall County Central vs. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River in the 8 p.m. championship game.

It'll be the third meeting of the year between the North Border Conference rivals, who split a pair of home court decisions. The 22-2 Gators won 77-61 Jan. 19, while the 17-7 Nordics pulled out a 60-58 overtime victory a month later.

Marshall County Central will be looking for its first Section 8A Sub-Section 4 title (formerly District 32) since 1990, when the Nordics beat Middle River in the finals.

This is the first year for the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River combination. Middle River last won a post-season crown with a District 32 title in 1981. Greenbush hasn't won a championship trophy since 1936, and Badger's last title came in 1934.

Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland's starting tournament line-up has included three seniors – 6-2 Jeremy Talium, 6-1 Tim Olson and 5-10 Shane Borg, along with two juniors – 6-1 Scott Zak and 6-0 Jake Rantanen. Ivan Hirst, a 6-3 senior who missed much of the season because of a knee injury, rejoined the team for post-season play and has been effective in spot duty off the bench. Travas Knutson, a 5-9 senior, and Brandon Borg, a 5-11 sophomore, are also top reserves.

Eldon Sparby, who served as head coach at Middle River before inheriting the pairing/cooperative B/G-MR program, takes advantage of the Gators' depth by employing a two-platoon system.

It starts with 6-2 seniors John Sparby and Ryan Rislov, 5-9 senior David Blazek, 6-2 junior Billy Holum, plus 6-5 sophomore Matt Kuznia. Midway mark of each quarter usually produces five new faces – 6-3 David Nelson and 5-11 Daniel Koehmstedt, along with 5-8 Jason Simmons, Rick Wappula, and Trent Wahl. They are all seniors.

Goodridge man pleads guilty

In a Ninth District courtroom Tuesday, Glen Limesand pled guilty to one count of second degree assault. The 38-year-old man from Goodridge, is expected to be sentenced to 36 months in Stillwater State prison.

Refusing earlier plea bargin offers, Limesand appeared in court Tuesday seeking a plea bargin. In doing so he pled guilty to one count of second degree assault. Originally, he faced five counts of second degree assault, and one count of fifth degree assault.

The charges against Limesand stem from a drive-by shooting that was reported on November 27, 1991. In the criminal complaint filed in Ninth District court, Limesand is alleged to have driven by a trailer house in Greendale Manor and fired several shots from a 30.06 hunting rifle in to the trailer. The assault charges were filed because there were several people in the house at the time including some young children. Fortunately, there were no injuries.

After first appearing in court on the charges, Limesand left the state. In January of 1993 he was caught in Altus, Oklahoma. He was returned to Thief River Falls to face the charges.

Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy ordered a pre-sentence investigation, but as a result of the plea bargin worked out in court Tuesday, Limesand will probably be sentenced to 36 months in Stillwater State prison. The maximum sentence for second degree assault is seven years, and a $14,000 fine or both.

Prosecutor Al Rogalia, assistant to the county attorney, said he will continue to clamp down on gun related incidents in the county and any drive-by shootings that take place.

Limesand was represented in court by Don Aandal, assistant public defender. The other charges against Limesand were dismissed.

Varsity and novice speech year starts

by Connie Stock
Varsity Speech Coach

Early Saturday morning bus rides, students talking to walls, practice sessions week after week, cheers and loud applause when a team member finally wins that ribbon or medal...wait a minute, this doesn't sound like baseball, tennis or golf! No, but the speech season is officially underway for the Thief River Falls Speech Team as they enter their third meet of the year at East Grand Forks this Saturday.

The first Saturday bus trip found them in Fosston on February 27. No team trophies were given at that meet, but several individuals received ribbons. Blue ribbon winners at the varsity level included Beth Natvik in Extemporaneous Reading, Andrea Campbell in Creative Expression and Ellie Lowell in Discussion. Red ribbon winners included Tyler Anderson in Creative Expression and Rachael Marshall and Jami Fremstad in Serious Poetry Interpretation.

Several novice team members also placed individually. Receiving first place medals were Megan Browning in Humorous Interpretation, Lana Rodahl in Poetry and Kate Ihie in Serious Prose Interpretation. Emilie Fayette received a second place medal in Poetry, and Gretchen Batalden received a red ribbon in Serious Prose Interpretation.

Crookstan was the dertination on Saturday, March 6, where the team won a second place trophy as well as a Spirit Award. Receiving medals on the varsity level for first place were Beth Natvik in Extemporaneous Reading and Rachael Marshall in Serious Poetry Interpretation. In second place was Kiki Goddard in Humorous Interpretation and winning a third place medal was Ben Schmitz in Creative Expression.

Ribbon winners included: Fourth place-Meagan Miller in Humorous Interpretation and Tyler Anderson in Creative Expression; fifth place-Chris Tsukichi in Discussion; and sixth place-Angie Hasnedl in Storytelling and Andrea Campbell in Serious Prose Interpretation.

Airport key to area development

City of Thief River Falls undertakes advertising campaign to promote airport and commercial flights

A Northwest Airlink airplane prepares for takeoff in front of the Thief River Falls Regional Airport terminal. Mesaba Aviation's Airlink lands in Thief River Falls 18 times per week. The city recently began a campaign to increase awareness of the Airlink and the airport.

On the advent of sizeable changes to the Thief River Falls Regional Airport, the city has embarked on an advertising campaign to promote the airport and Northwest Airlink commercial flights.

Thief River Falls city officials said they hope the advertising will educate the public and clear up misunderstandings which send some potential customers to the Grand Forks airport.

"This commercial air service in the region is very, very important to us from an economic development standpoint," said Don Stewart, community development director. "In terms of the Northwest Airlines system we're toward the bottom of the totem pole and we've got to be sensitive to that."

Thief River Falls Regional Airport hit its peak in 1979 when 13,492 passengers boarded commercial aircraft. The numbers dropped dramatically to 3,163 in 1983, and rebounded again only to be stilted by high airfares. "The city — we don't fly like we used to," Stewart said.

In 1992, 5,657 passengers boarded Mesaba Airlines in Thief River Falls, 148 more than 1991.

People who do not travel a lot, Stewart said, particularly non-business travelers, hear about high flight prices and assume all airfares out of Thief River Falls are high.

"If you plan ahead, you book early and you're flexible, you can get very, very good rates out of here if you're flying some distance," said City Clerk Jerry Wigness, who just flew to Biloxi, MS, and back for $264.

A round-trip ticket bought immediately before a trip to the Twin Cities currently costs around $400. "It (the price) makes it very difficult for the business traveler who usually has less notice," Stewart said.

However, tickets reserved far in advance are cheaper. A leisure excursion ticket to New York, via the Cities from Thief River Falls currently costs $399. (A leisure excursion ticket must be purchased 14 days in advance of the trip and the ticket holder must stay over a Saturday night.)

There are also leisure excursion tickets to the Cities for $223 and a 3-day-advance weekend airfare of $203. (Prices subject to change).

Stewart said the airlines have told him they are more interested in long fights than shorter commuter flights and their marketing and pricing structure reflect this interest.

"People have to be educated enough to ask the right questions (about airfares)," Stewart said.

Some people fly out of Grand Forks with the belief that they will fly to Minneapolis in larger airplanes, such as 747s, Stewart said. However, often the Grand Forks airplane is the same model as the Thief River Falls airplane — the 19 passenger Fairchild Metro III.

Advertising which promotes the airport will take the form of five ads in both The Times and Northern Watch over a 10-week period. Local radio stations will air 1,000 airport ads over a 13-week period.

Ads currently in The Times and Northern Watch showcase the airport's free parking (something not available at Grand Forks or Fargo), free winter plug-in service and 18 landings/takeoffs per week Airlink flight schedule.

Airport promotion has been brought up with the city council for several years and was most recently discussed at meetings with SEH, the engineering firm which designed the new airport master plan.

The ad campaign costs $5,000 with the city paying $2,500 and the remaining price split between Northwest Airlink, Thief River Aviation, Inc., and two local travel agencies.

Airlink sales manager Eric Hanson said Thief River Falls was the only place where Mesaba Aviation, (the Northwest Airlink) was investing money in this type of advertising. Mesaba is investing money due to large numbers of drive-overs to the Grand Forks airport, Hanson said.

Wigness said eventually the advertising could take the form of other diverse media such as place mat trivia games and billboards.

Airport Renovation and Construction

In the next few years the Thief River Falls Regional Airport could undergo major renovations, including a crosswind runway, new taxiways and a new hangar.

The airport master plan, released in late January, outlines tentative changes to the airport over the next 20 years. "A master plan is good for 20 to 25 years," said Ron Lindberg, Thief River Falls engineering technical service director.

The master plan will travel a chain of approvals before accepted, including a safety commission, the

Several attend public hearing on improvements

Citizens expressed concerns about the sidewalk and utilities improvement project

Citizens voiced concerns over plans for the city's sidewalk and utilities improvement project scheduled to begin this summer at a public hearing Tuesday night. Between 40 and 50 property owners attended a public hearing before the city council in council chambers.

The total cost of the 1993 sidewalk and utilities improvement project was estimated at $1,752,000. Almost $1 million of the total cost will pay for a water line out to the airport. The main reason for the project is to provide the required fire flows for the new elementary school and the technical college program at the airport.

Ron Lindberg, director of city technical services and engineering, explained that the water line project was broken down into three phases. Phase I involves looping the system on Mark Boulevard (County road 61) instead of replacing the existing eight-inch line on Pennington avenue.

Looping the line instead of replacing the line on Pennington avenue, although more expensive, provides future benefit to Oak Haven and properties between Pennington avenue and Highway 32. In the near future, Basswood Mobile Home Park owners are going to have to bring their well water system into compliance with the Safe Drinking Water Act.

For some property owners looping the line was not seen as a benefit, but Lindberg argued that a looped system provides increased reliability, improved fire protection, and circulation of water. Those already on the water line can expect to pay $100 per residential home, $35 per apartment and $1,000 per major industrial unit to pay for that looping benefit.

Lindberg made it clear that properties lying outside of the corporate limits would have to be annexed prior to connection to the water main. Of course, properties lying outside of the corporate limits cannot be assessed.

Annexation involves a process that can take from two to six months. Property owners wishing to become annexed should contact the Municipal Board (612) 296-2428 for information and requirements involved in annexation.

Phase II involves extending a 12-inch water main along the east side of Pennington avenue from County road 61 to the regional airport.

Property owners located along the east side of Pennington avenue expressed the concern that their property was just torn up so that a natural gas line could be installed.

Airport Renovation and Construction

In the next few years the Thief River Falls Regional Airport could undergo major renovations, including a crosswind runway, new taxiways and a new hangar.

The airport master plan, released in late January, outlines tentative changes to the airport over the next 20 years. "A master plan is good for 20 to 25 years," said Ron Lindberg, Thief River Falls engineering technical service director.

The master plan will travel a chain of approvals before accepted, including a safety commission, the

Several attend public hearing on improvements

Citizens expressed concerns about the sidewalk and utilities improvement project

Citizens voiced concerns over plans for the city's sidewalk and utilities improvement project scheduled to begin this summer at a public hearing Tuesday night. Between 40 and 50 property owners attended a public hearing before the city council in council chambers.

The total cost of the 1993 sidewalk and utilities improvement project was estimated at $1,752,000. Almost $1 million of the total cost will pay for a water line out to the airport. The main reason for the project is to provide the required fire flows for the new elementary school and the technical college program at the airport.

Ron Lindberg, director of city technical services and engineering, explained that the water line project was broken down into three phases. Phase I involves looping the system on Mark Boulevard (County road 61) instead of replacing the existing eight-inch line on Pennington avenue.

Looping the line instead of replacing the line on Pennington avenue, although more expensive, provides future benefit to Oak Haven and properties between Pennington avenue and Highway 32. In the near future, Basswood Mobile Home Park owners are going to have to bring their well water system into compliance with the Safe Drinking Water Act.

For some property owners looping the line was not seen as a benefit, but Lindberg argued that a looped system provides increased reliability, improved fire protection, and circulation of water. Those already on the water line can expect to pay $100 per residential home, $35 per apartment and $1,000 per major industrial unit to pay for that looping benefit.

Lindberg made it clear that properties lying outside of the corporate limits would have to be annexed prior to connection to the water main. Of course, properties lying outside of the corporate limits cannot be assessed.

Annexation involves a process that can take from two to six months. Property owners wishing to become annexed should contact the Municipal Board (612) 296-2428 for information and requirements involved in annexation.

Phase II involves extending a 12-inch water main along the east side of Pennington avenue from County road 61 to the regional airport.

Property owners located along the east side of Pennington avenue expressed the concern that their property was just torn up so that a natural gas line could be installed.

Arctco offers three-for-two stock split

Arctco Inc. has announced that its board of directors has approved a three-for-two split of its common and Class B stock. Shareholders of record as of April 2, 1993, will receive an additional one-half share for each share owned on that date. Fractional shares will be paid in cash. In addition, the board increased the number of authorized shares of common stock from 20 million to 30 million shares to accommodate the split.

Christopher Twomey, president and chief executive officer, stated, "This action was taken in recognition of Arctco's continuing growth and with the expectation of increasing the outstanding float and broadening the stockholder base."

As of March 17, 1993, Arctco Inc. had 9,588,691 share of common stock and 3,360,000 shares of Class B stock outstanding.

Arctco Inc. designs, engineers, manufactures and markets a full line of snowmobiles under the Arctic Cat brand name, and a personal watercraft under the Tigershark brand name, as well as related parts, garments and accessories.

Many wondered why tho lino couldn't be put in on the west side of the road instead of the east side. The line would have to cross fewer access points if it was on the west side.

Lindberg pointed out that if in the future, property owners wished to connect their water line to tho city's water line, it would be much more expensive to bring tho lino underneath Pennington avenue. Lindberg also pointed out that there are as many service lines on the west side of the road as there are on the east side. Ho also said contractors will be required to provide access to residences for property owners and grade and seed the area after completion of the project.

Phase III involves installing a ground storago reservoir at the airport to increase fire flow and improve circulation. A significant portion of the cost will be paid for by the Technical College system. In an interview after the meeting, Lindberg was asked why the pipeline was necessary if a reservoir was being built? He said the pipeline is necessary becauso the reservoir would have to be about the size of the lagoons in order to comply with state requirements.

Thief River Falls began a sidewalk replacement project in 1990. Ever since the first sidewalk condition survey in 1989, surveys have been conducted every year. From the condition of the sidewalks, priorities were established. The project proposed for this year includes replacement of an estimated 57,000 square feet of sidewalk in the following areas: 2,000 lineal feet on Conley avenue from First street to Nora street; 2,940 lineal feet on St. Paul avenue from First street to Annie street; 2,550 lineal feet on Tindolph avenue from First street to Nora street; 760 lineal feet on Merriam avenue from First street to Hughes street; and 2,100 lineal feet on Kneale avenue from First street to Nora street.

Prior to the sidewalk replacement tho water department will inspect and repair any defective house servico shutoff valves and relocate the riser pipes so they do not fall in the new sidewalks. Property owners are also encouraged to determino if they have any sewer problems and plan on repairing those sewer service lines before the sidewalk is replaced.

Under the assessment formula used in tho past, property owners would be assessed 80 per cent of the project cost per front foot of installation plus 100 per cent of the cost of driveway and private entrance walk installations. The city will pay 20 per cent of the cost per foot for frontages and 100 per cent of the cost of side street sidewalks, excluding private driveway entrances, for those properties having sidewalk along two sides of the property. The historical cost of such projects has been around $10 per lineal foot. Based upon project estimates, the cost would be $11.30. Tho council will bo reviewing its policy regarding benefited rates.

Problems experienced during the past three projects including matching existing grades, final cleanup and turf establishment procedures. Lindberg has established some policies in an attempt to avoid problems. He is very willing to work with property owners regarding these problems.

Lindberg said property owners have the option of doing the project on their own. By ordinance, the ultimate responsibility for sidewalk maintenance and repair lies with the property owner. Once the city has inspected the sidewalk and notified the property owner of unsafe sidewalk conditions, the property owner has 90 days to repair or replace the deficient sidewalk or 10 days in the case of emergency repairs, or have the city accomplish the repairs and bill the services to the property owner.

Another part of the project will be an extension of sanitary sewer and water main looping to Country Lake foods on Highway 32 south. Most of tho cost of the project will be borne by Country Lake Foods, however, there are some water main looping benefits. Again the benefit is estimated at $100 per residential home, $35 per apartment and $1,000 per major industrial unit.

Other parts of the project discussed Tuesday evening included a sanitary sewer extension on Baken street, a storm sewer extension from the river to Oakland Park road; a sanitary sewer to serve occupational Development Corp. property; sanitary sewer and water main extensions to Pioneer court; and wastewater pond piping repairs and outlet improvements.

Tho council received the report and listened to the concerns of citizens. The project has yet to be fully approved. Comments and concerns from citizens will have an impact on the final approved project. Changes in scope and breadth of tho project may occur. Anyone with questions is encouraged to contact Ron Lindberg, director of technical services and engineering at 681-8506.

Reward offered for Information on wolf and elk kill in Marshall Co.

Discovery of an elk and a timber wolf that had been shot has resulted in an offer of $500 for information.

Tony Arhart, conservation officer for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, said an elk that had been shot and left was discovered about two weeks ago in Veldt township in Marshall County. A timber wolf that had been shot and left was discovered also in Veldt township about three to four weeks ago. Arhart said he hopes the reward being offered will be enough to encourage someone with information about the shootings to come forward.

There are roughly 20 elk in the area near Grygla, Arhart said, and only a few of the federally protected timber wolves. Contrary to some rumors, Arhart said, no one has been transplanting timber wolves to the area.

The time of the death of the elk and timber wolf is still undetermined and the case remains under investigation.

Anyone with information is encouraged to contact Arhart at 449-3711.

If someone does not wish to talk to him they can also call the Turn-In-Poachers hotline, which is 1-800-652-9093.

Phase III involves installing a ground storage reservoir at the airport to increase fire flow and improve circulation. A significant portion of the cost will be paid for by the Technical College system. In an interview after the meeting, Lindberg was asked why the pipeline was necessary if a reservoir was being built? Property owners are also encouraged to determine if they have any sewer problems and plan on repairing those sewer service lines before the sidewalk is replaced.

Under the assessment formula used in the past, property owners would be assessed 80 per cent of the project cost per front foot of installation plus 100 per cent of the cost of driveway and private entrance walk installations. The city will pay 20 per cent of the cost per foot for frontages and 100 per cent of the cost of side street sidewalks, excluding private driveway entrances, for those properties having sidewalk along two sides of the property. The historical cost of such projects has been around $10 per lineal foot. Based upon project estimates, the cost would be $11.30. The council will be reviewing its policy regarding benefited rates.

Problems experienced during the past three projects including matching existing grades, final cleanup and turf establishment procedures. Lindberg has established some policies in an attempt to avoid problems. He is very willing to work with property owners regarding these problems.

Lindberg said property owners have the option of doing the project on their own. By ordinance, the ultimate responsibility for sidewalk maintenance and repair lies with the property owner. Once the city has inspected the sidewalk and notified the property owner of unsafe sidewalk conditions, the property owner has 90 days to repair or replace the deficient sidewalk or 10 days in the case of emergency repairs, or have the city accomplish the repairs and bill the services to the property owner.

Another part of the project will be an extension of sanitary sewer and water main looping to Country Lake foods on Highway 32 south. Most of the cost of the project will be borne by Country Lake Foods, however, there are some water main looping benefits. Again the benefit is estimated at $100 per residential home, $35 per apartment and $1,000 per major industrial unit.

Other parts of the project discussed Tuesday evening included a sanitary sewer extension on Baken street, a storm sewer extension from the river to Oakland Park road; a sanitary sewer to serve occupational Development Corp. property; sanitary sewer and water main extensions to Pioneer court; and wastewater pond piping repairs and outlet improvements.

The council received the report and listened to the concerns of citizens. The project has yet to be fully approved. Comments and concerns from citizens will have an impact on the final approved project. Changes in scope and breadth of the project may occur. Anyone with questions is encouraged to contact Ron Lindberg, director of technical services and engineering at 681-8506.

Reward offered for information on wolf and elk kill in Marshall Co.

Discovery of an elk and a timber wolf that had been shot has resulted in an offer of $500 for information.

Tony Arhart, conservation officer for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, said an elk that had been shot and left was discovered about two weeks ago in Veldt township in Marshall County. A timber wolf that had been shot and left was discovered also in Veldt township about three to four weeks ago. Arhart said he hopes the reward being offered will be enough to encourage someone with information about the shootings to come forward.

There are roughly 20 elk in the area near Grygla, Arhart said, and only a few of the federally protected timber wolves. Contrary to some rumors, Arhart said, no one has been transplanting timber wolves to the area.

The time of the death of the elk and timber wolf is still undetermined and the case remains under investigation.

Anyone with information is encouraged to contact Arhart at 449-3711.

If someone does not wish to talk to him they can also call the Turn-In-Poachers hotline, which is 1-800-652-9093.

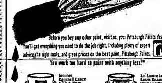
School buys two mini-buses



Fertile-Beltrami — The Fertile-Beltrami school board learned a lot in the process of purchasing two mini-buses. Bids were received from six companies for buses in four different catagories. These ranged from gasoline engine with daul rear wheels to diesel engines with single rear wheels and all possible configurations in between. Total price of the two which were finally selected was $52,761. Each bus will seat approximately 20 students. (Fertile Journal)

RLF couple comes within two hours of death

Red Lake Falls — Milt and Shirley Sando were two hours from death early Monday morning. The two had noticed they were feeling jumpy, forgetful and agressive for the past two weeks, but had chalked it up to cabin fever and the flu. In addition, they noticed blotches on their skin and chapped hands and, after realizing that she couldn't remember what she'd made for supper the previous day, Shirley called the poison control contor listed in the telephone book. Sheriff Alan Morken was dispatched to the couple's home and they were taken to the hospital by ambulance. Hospital personnel told them they were two hours from death by carbon monoxide poisoning. Drinking coffee throughout the two weeks had saved them from falling asleep and dying. (Gazette)

Celebrating Agriculture—Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow

GUEST EDITORIAL
by Rhanda Amundson
Member Penn-Mar-Red Chapter
Minnesota Agri-Women

As we celebrate National Ag Day, March 20, we realize that we are celebrating for different reasons. Some are celebrating the way agriculture used to be—family farms, a way of life for more than 90 per cent of Americans in 1790. Some are remembering the beginning of mechanization with the invention of the cotton gin in 1793 and the steel plow by John Deere in 1837 or the development of the first light tractor in 1926.

Some Americans are celebrating agriculture as it is—high quality and quantity of food products produced by two per cent of the population. Today, each farmer produces enough food to feed about 120 people. These farmers are also listening to the consumers by producing products they demand, such as leaner meat, lower cholesterol oils, a wider variety of vegetables and fruits.

Agriculture is feeling the impact of internationalization, not only as a market for products, but in the exchange of research and development. Input sources such as fertilizer, machinery and financial support are also coming from foreign countries. Some people are celebrating this.

Value added is also a key concept in agriculture today. New uses for the same old crops have been developed. These new developments have been marketed so the consumer is aware of alternatives such as ethanol vs. gasoline.

In times past, the value added went almost unnoticed. Many people do not know that the gelatin from a cow has been used in making marshmallows or its fatty acids contribute to certain insecticides and shaving creams. Value added will continue to be a major focus of agriculture as Americans struggle to use renewable, biodegradable resources.

Finally, agriculture today respects acronyms like CRP, GATT, ACP and EPA as talking points for many ag and non-ag people. These and other policy-based issues will continue to play an important role in the structure of agriculture.

Other Americans are celebrating the future of agriculture. They see the changes happening as exciting and challenging. Cooperative efforts will fuel the change and keep agriculture strong. With less than two per cent of the population employed as farmers, a united effort to tell the story of agriculture is more important than ever.

Cooperative efforts between farmers will not be just in commodity promotion, however. Actually working together to use their fixed resources more efficiently will be the key to success. A community dairy in Idaho is proving that fact now. This dairy is turning the economy of a small rural town bright again as the people work together developing networks among the businesses to meet the needs of the dairy.

Celebration of technology will also continue. Modern technology will be responsible for more efficient plants such as the genetic wonder of a plant yielding tomatoes on the vine and potatoes on the roots in the same growing season. Plants that are resistant to diseases, more competitive with weeds and able to withstand drought are now available.

Technology will also make input use more efficient. Fertilization will be based on soil tests from square feet of land rather than fields and fertilizer applied accordingly. Pest control will follow. Economically threatening populations of weeds, insects or diseases will be controlled in sections of fields rather than a blanket application.

With more modern technology and mechanization, fewer man hours will be needed to farm and therefore the diversification of farms will continue....diversification, not in the old sense of crops and livestock, but diversifying with on and off-farm employment.

We are in the information transfer age of which all farms, big and small, can take advantage. Information transfer is size neutral because it requires less capital than the mechanical and capital technology of the past. Smaller and larger farms will exist in the future.

The future does not foretell of the farmer's extinction, but of changes that will make him or her able to produce the same high quality products that consumers use today. On March 20, celebrate National Ag Day by looking at the accomplishments of the past, patting the back of the farmer today, and dreaming about what can happen in the future.

Where There Are Rules, There Are Exceptions

Leave it to the government to yield to pressures and make all kinds of rules, only to find that they are frequently unworkable and require exceptions to function at all. Among the prime areas for that type of activity is the establishment of various "rights" for some which typically trample on the "rights" of others.

A case in point is the rental (and sometimes the sale) of property. Federal Fair Housing Laws have been passed to protect the "rights" of people seeking housing, only to find that common sense was lacking and general exceptions had to be made.

In general, federal law prohibits discrimination in advertisements for the rental or sale of housing on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, handicap (including AIDS as long as others in the building are not put at risk) and people with children. But the government has also been persuaded that exceptions are necessary.

It is now O.K. with the government for religious organizations to specify in their ads that religious preference is a requirement to buy or rent from that organization. Private clubs not open to the public can limit the sale or rental of housing to their members only.

Amazingly, the government permits a person seeking a house mate or roommate to share living quarters to indicate sexual preference—but only where living quarters are shared. And the owner of property of four units or less may discriminate if the owner lives in one of the units—but may not advertise the discrimination. And owners of housing property for older persons can discriminate against families with children only if housing is intended for and occupied by persons 62 and older, or if 80 per cent of the complex is intended for persons over 55 and has significant facilities and services (such as medical, dining, transportation, etc.) for this age group.

Although it is generally in violation of the Federal Fair Housing Act to discriminate against families in housing, "it would not prohibit a preference to favor of persons domiciled with children under 18," states Harry D. Carey, assistant general counsel for the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

He explained that the Act prohibits advertising that indicates an intent to exclude families with children but permits advertising intended to encourage such families to apply for housing. O.K., that is convoluted thinking but we can understand where it is coming from to some degree. But Carey then concludes with this:

"...the phrases 'kids welcome' and 'great family neighborhood' clearly encourage applications from families with children. On the other hand, the phrase 'families OK' seems to be lukewarm encouragement at best to those families (more like 'toleration'), and we believe that it could raise questions in connection with a complainant alleging that a housing provider discouraged an applicant with children or attempted to steer such an applicant to other housing."

Now who knows what is in compliance and what is not?

Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to say "thank-you" to all who took time to write letters to the editor, expressing your views of the Freedom of Choice Act. We need to educate, yet not let our comments turn personally on or at each other, nor should we try to outwit each other with our words.

We need to work together to educate and help pass bills to improve life. A bill in the Health and Human Services committee now is the "Women's Right to Know" law (HF 290 and SF 266). Women—especially young girls—need to know the status of their babies before they make the traumatic decision to terminate their lives.

Again, thanks to all who exercised the freedom of press and speech. We must remember we may differ, but we must love one another and keep that love in perspective.

Sincerely,
Dorothy Pederson

To The Editor:

What is to be done with kids getting into people's mailboxes? It's a federal offense. It was reported and the law went over there and asked who is doing this and no truth came out of it; one blames the next one.

As a kid if we would have done that our rear ends would have been warmed up and our pride hurt, but we would have had it coming. A spanking for doing wrong is a good thing because it's done because they love you and don't want you in trouble.

My dear aunt and uncle raised 11 children and my brother and I were there a lot also, and it was a house full of love. If the children didn't mind, they knew why they got a spanking.

I'll never forget when I was living in Bemidji and these cousins were all playing and getting into what they shouldn't, the parents spanked their kids and this one girl didn't get a spanking. She came in crying real hard and she looked at the grownups and said. "They don't love me; they didn't spank me."

There is a lot of truth in those words; that's why parents correct their kids. A spanking isn't abuse. I know abuse because I had it from my dad at age four, and that's why I have a damaged spine now.

I hate broken homes and divorce; it's a living hell. When my parents divorced when I was eight, us kids had to give up the only two things dad ever gave us—a pony and a real small dog—plus losing dad was enough. Dad loved us also. When I saw him 15 years later we hugged and cried and he said he was sorry. I forgave him and loved him. I'd rather been at home than in an institution for unwanted kids; it was worse there than home was. There's a big difference in a spanking and an abusive beating.

Sincerely,
Betty Murphy

To The Editor:

The other day, on the news, I noticed that a "Gay Bus" is touring the country drumming up support to lift the ban on gays in the military. The "Immoral (but wealthy) Minority" is at it again......and their behavior is an insult to the history and integrity of our nation!

The dictionary defines perversion as a deviant sexual practice, and pervert as one who practices sexual perversion. These definitions are perhaps from the Latin word "pervertere," meaning "to turn the wrong way. I just hope some wealthy Christians oppose this movement, and load up a few buses of their own.....and transmit an honorable message to our beloved President!

In my opinion, President Clinton ought to respond to this issue, like Yeltsin—give this "hot potato" over to the voice of the people. After all, it was on that platform he was elected, and if Mr. President is indeed interested in letting the people run the government, rather than vice-versa, then he should respect the folks in the military and let them vote. This is a big enough issue to give our country some real headaches!

Let those in the military vote! Who knows, perhaps the immoral minority is bigger than we think. The results would be interesting, don't you think? If the homosexuals was to "bash" the beliefs of most God-fearing Americans, I double-dare them to ask for an all-military vote on lifting the ban. Then the President and the rest of us can see how small this group really is. Go for it, Clinton!

Sincerely,

Central Marshall Project Future receives ideas

Ideas are pouring in as members of the Central Marshall County Project Future Committee meet with area community groups, according to Susan Skadsem, vice chair of the CMCPFC.

Rev. Lilette Johnston met with the Newfolden Women's Club and Ministerial Association and said "the response has been very positive." Committee members Dennis Maurstad and John Bjorsness also met with the Lions club and Brian Rokke with the Newfolden Fire Department, all with favorable responses.

Chairman David Strandquist of the CMCPFC presented the committee with an update March 9, reviewing the suggestions and ideas received during the community engagement meetings. Community members had been asked to list the strengths and weaknesses of the Newfolden, Holt and Viking areas.

Strengths noted by a number of residents were School District No. 441, churches, people, raw farm materials, available/inexpensive land, transportation (highways and railroad) and good water.

Weaknesses listed include the lack of good jobs, decent streets and street signs, health facilities, youth activities, cultural events, public transportation connections and professional services, along with distance from major markets and the water system.

"When asked to list the five things that we could accomplish as a community that would most significantly improve our future quality of life, many people said that jobs was number one," Skadsem said.

"Also listed were street improvements; a youth center; accommodations such as motel, bed and breakfast, camping and mobile home park; housing, including owned, rental and senior intermediate care; EMS-ambulance; an airport; mini medical mall; industrial park; golf course; promote education; support local new and existing businesses; and an agricultural processing plant."

Skadsem said that many other meetings with area community groups are scheduled and intended to reach as many area residents as possible. In an effort to reach even more people, a suggestion box will be placed at the Nu Moon Cafe and Sethre's Hartz Store. Ideas can also be submitted to any committee member or at the regular CMCPFC meetings. Next meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday, April 13, at 7:45 p.m. in the ITV room at Marshall County Central high school.

Head Start in area gets $484,505

Inter-County Community Council in Oklee has been awarded $484,505 by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services for the council's Head Start program, according to Congressman Collin Peterson.

Rep. Peterson said he supports full funding for Head Start and that "it's crucial that kids in the Seventh District have every chance for the future, and early childhood education is the place to start."

Fire destroys pickup

Fire destroyed a pickup in the Arctco parking lot Thursday morning.

Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman said the fire department has responded to a number of fire alarms in the past couple of days including false alarms at the hospital, and the airport. The fire department also responded to a report of a burned out ballast at the Franklin Middle school pool and two vehicle fires. One of the vehicles was considered a total loss.

Chief Bjorkman said the fire department responded to a report of a vehicle fire in the Arctco parking lot at 7:13 a.m. A 1988 Ford F150 owned by Roger Johnsrud was destroyed by fire. Chief Bjorkman said he believes the fire started in the dash area of the vehicle.

Airport key to development

city council, the state and, ultimately, the Federal Aviation Administration. The plan will probably be on the city council agenda in April.

If approved, construction on the 5,200 X 100-feet crosswind runway is initially slated for 1996, although the date is extremely flexible.

A number of issues prompted the airport renovations. Mesaba has complained about the lack of a crosswind runway, Lindberg said.

Pilots use crosswind runways so their planes' orientation is aligned with prevailing wind. Airlink planes can not land with crosswind velocity over 20 knots (about 23 miles per hour), sometimes causing flight delays and cancellations.

Other airport construction would move the existing hangars southeast of the terminal buildings, giving the Aviation Mechanics school more room for expansion. The new hangar location would create separate controlled access for pilots. The fuel facility would also be relocated southeast of the terminal buildings.

The plan also calls for:
- constructing a new fixed base operator building.
- new aprons (paved area around hangars).
- new general aviation parking lot and access road.
- new airport signage.

The existing terminal building will be left as-is. "It's a first class terminal. There won't be anything done with it this time," Lindberg said.

The estimated cost of the runway is $1,895,026. The 10-unit hanger is estimated at $155,000, which could be funded by a state hangar loan program, payable with no interest over ten years.

Other renovations separate from the master plan include resurfacing the runway and pumping city water to the regional airport. The aviation school required more fire protection for its new hangar and classrooms than wells could provide.

The airport has its own sewage stabilization ponds. Because of the availability of water and sewage treatment, the city has unused airport property with potential industrial use. Jerry Wigness, city clerk, said with the nearby aviation students and instructors, a spin-off industry would be a natural progression for developing the area.

With a crosswind runway, the land surrounding the airport will be re-zoned. The new runway would require the purchase of 78 acres of land and an easement payment on 50 acres of land. Studies show that the new airstrip will not affect the planned elementary school.

If approved, the Federal Aviation Administration, state and other entities would fund 90 per cent of the project costs and the city would pay 10 per cent of the costs.

The total amount estimated in the capital improvement plan is $5,221,010, of which the FAA would pay $3,531,781; the state would pay $601,206; and the city would pay $703,023. Other programs would pay $385,000 of the cost.

Airport Services

In addition to the Airlink, another business, Thief River Aviation, Inc., provides a variety of services at the airport.

It owns two aircraft which are available for rental. Thief River Aviation also provides flight instructions and crop dusting.

Other services provided by Thief River Aviation include aircraft maintenance, aircraft refueling and car rental. Brian Barth, Thief River Aviation owner and air base operator, said the car rental service is available to airline travelers as well as the general public.

Thief River Aviation provides catering service to air passengers and Barth said he hopes to obtain a six or eight passenger aircraft for charter flights to meet the varied needs of area businesses.

Airport Facts and History

The airport rests on 856 acres of land and houses 19 based aircraft. The airport manager reported 28,428 private and commercial aircraft operations from June 1991 to June 1992.

Christ Kierk possessed Thief River Falls' first privately-owned airplane in April 1929. He formed a corporation with three other people and acted as manager and overseer of the airfield. The Barzen farm hosted the airfield.

In 1944 the city purchased land where the airport is currently located and built a landing strip. Kierk was appointed manager in 1950 and held the post until 1957. Kierk's wife Clara ran an airport cafe and his two daughters also flew airplanes.

The first airline, Wisconsin Central, flew out of Thief River Falls in 1953. Wisconsin Central begat North Central which begat Republic which begat the regional airport's current sole airline, Mesaba.

Original runway lengths of 2,500 and 2,100 feet and two hangars were constructed in 1946. The city eventually extended the main runway until it reached 6,503 X 150 feet.

The city has always owned the airport exempting 1972 to 1976 when the state maintained control and constructed the terminal, maintenance building and runway extension. The state invested $4 million in airport improvements before the city regained control.

Bedard sees Lightning

Charlie Bedard's sense of timing was just about perfect. Bedard left Thief River Falls for Tampa, Florida earlier this month to watch Tim Bergland and the Tampa Bay Lightning play a pair of National Hockey League games.

Bedard was in the Florida State Fairgrounds Expo Hall for a Saturday, March 6, Tampa Bay-Calgary game and a Tuesday, March 9, Tampa Bay-Winnipeg contest.

Bergland played regularly both nights, noted Bedard, centering Chris Kontos and Mikael Anderson against Calgary, then skating with Kontos and Danton Cole vs. Winnipeg.

The following day Bergland, the former Lincoln High School and University of Minnesota hockey captain, was sent down to Tampa Bay's minor league Atlanta Knights, where he started the 1992-93 season.

Bedard made the trip to visit relatives, take advantage of the opportunity see Bergland play at the NHL level, and to satisfy his curiosity about how Flordians view hockey. Bergland played well, he said, and the fans filled the 10,000-seat arena both nights.

Bergland did not pick up a point in either game, but according to Bedard, it wasn't for lack of effort. "I would have liked to see Tim get a goal or an assist, but I noticed whenever he finished a shift, he was tired, so you could see he was trying hard," he said.

Still, the following day Bergland was headed for Atlanta. "I read Tampa's sport page that he was sent down," noted Bedard. "I'm really surprised. I thought he played an outstanding hockey game against Calgary. I think he deserves to be on the team."

Others sharing Bedard's disappointment in the roster move were a number of Thief River Falls fans who were planning a trip to Winnipeg for a Sunday, March 14 Jets game against Tampa Bay. They were looking forward to seeing Bergland play an NHL game – only to discover he was no longer on the Lightning roster.

Warren defenders Tony Paul (21) and Mike Roux made it tough for Marshall County Central shooter Ivan Hirst during Thursday's Section 8A boys high school basketball tournament semifinal game at the University of Minnesota-Crookston. Looking on were the Ponies' Steve Sedlacek (33), along with the Nordics' Jake Rantanen (24) and Tim Olson (right).

Cold-shooting MCC drops Section 8A semifinal to Warren...

Ponies beat Nordics 53-39

Marshall County Central picked a poor time to have a poor shooting performance Thursday, struggling through a 14-for-42, 33 percent night from the field in a 53-39 Section 8A boys high school basketball tournament semifinal loss to Warren at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

To make matters worse for the ice cold Nordics, the Ponies were hot – hot like in a 21-for-40 (53 percent).

"We couldn't shoot; they couldn't miss," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland in a short, but right-to-the-point post-game assessment of the doubleheader nightcap that advanced Warren into Friday's state tournament-qualifying Section 8A finals against defending champion Clearbrook-Gonvick-Trail. The Bears held off Ada-Borup 72-69 in the opener.

Warren led from start to finish. The Ponies had a 9-2 lead 3:48 into the game and were challenged only briefly. Marshall County Central came back with an 8-2 response, pulling within 11-10 with 55 seconds left in the first quarter on back-to-back baskets by Ivan Hirst – first on an inside move in traffic, then on a long jumper from the side.

It was 13-12 at the first break, but Chad Kujava came up with a four-point play by hitting a three-pointer and a free throw to kick off an 18-4 game-deciding second quarter for the Ponies.

Only Marshall County Central field goal of the second quarter was a long jumper by Jake Rantanen that kept the Nordics within 19-15 with 5:18 to play. It was 11-1, Warren, the rest of the way, including a three-pointer by Kujava with three seconds left to cap a final-shot possession to make it 31-16 at intermission.

The Nordics were just 6-for-21 at that point; the Ponies were 13-for-22.

"We didn't play a poor first half," said Ueland. "We did a pretty good job with our offense, and we had just one turnover. But we just didn't make the shots. That shot Kujava made at the end of the half was a real back-breaker. He hit three of them in the first half, and we were on him each time. He's just that tough."

Marshall County Central was never able to put together a second half surge. It was 43-25 through three quarters, and in fact, the Nordics did not close that 15-point halftime spread until Hirst came up with a three-point basket with 2:42 left that made it a 13-point, 47-34 game.

It might have been a little closer if Marshall County Central could have converted free throw opportunities into points. But the Nordics' poor night from the field carried over to the line, where they went 10-for-25.

"The free throws might have helped," acknowledged Ueland, "but we couldn't make those, either."

Kujava, a 6-0 senior, led all scorers with 17 points. Tim Olson, a 6-1 senior, and Hirst, a 6-3 senior, were the Nordics' leading scorers with 15 and 11 points, respectively.

Warren was 7-for-13 at the line. The Ponies finished with a 28-26 rebound edge, although they were out-boarded 10-5 on the offensive end. The turnovers over even at 10-apiece.

The loss sent the 18-8 Nordics into Friday's third place game against Ada-Borup. Warren went to 23-3.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Warren	13	8	12	10	53

MCC - Tim Olson 15, Jeremy Tallum 6, Jake Rantanen 2, Ivan Hirst 11, Travis Knutson 2, Brandon Borg 3.

Bears out-score Cougars

Clearbrook-Gonvick-Trail out-scored Ada-Borup 72-69 in the Section 8A boys high school basketball semifinal doubleheader opener Thursday at the fan-packed University of Minnesota-Crookston Lysaker Gymnasium.

The defending Section 8A champion Bears ran up an early 28-12 lead, but led just 35-33 at half-time and fell behind 58-51 in the third quarter before putting together a strong finishing kick.

Four Bears hit double figures, led by Perry Togerson with 21 points. Dallas Everson of Ada-Borup led all scorers with 24 points.

Lighting is key ingredient in any decorating scheme

When it comes to redecorating, homeowners sometimes spend hours picking out carpeting, draperies, wallpaper and furniture, yet give very little thought to lighting.

But lighting is the crowning touch to any decorating scheme, enhancing fine architectural features, and bringing oll the colors, fabrics, fumishings and textures to life.

A creative and well thought-out lighting scheme is the essential key to successful decorating anywhere in the home.

Lighting adds beauty and drama to a room. It can make o small room look open and airy, and a large room appear cozy and inviting. Lighting can create o stimulating atmosphere for a night of entertaining, or a quiet feeling of relaxation after a long, tiring day.

How creatively you use lighting in your home is limited only by your imagination and your budget.

You can give a room the illusion of greater depth or scale by adding plenty of ambient lighting, according to experts from the American Lighting Association (ALA). Ambient lighting, also known as fill light, creates an illusion of spaciousness that visually expands the boundaries of a room.

For example, if you want to make your living room appear larger, use wall sconces, freestanding torchiers or inverted pendants to bounce indirect light off the ceiling. This approach will "open up" your space and produce o warm, inviting atmosphere that will draw family and friends to the room.

On the other hand, to create a feeling of intimacy in a large room, ALA experts suggest that you punctuate your ambient lighting with task and accent lighting.

For instance, in a large living room with a high ceiling, use floor lamps, such es unobtrusive pharmacy lamps, to provide task lighting next to couches ond chairs. Use recessed adjustable accent fixtures to illuminate points of interest such as a coffee table, o bookcase, or an attractive plant. Positioned property, these figures will also emphasize the texture of a stone fireplace or luxurious draperies.

Also, mounting translucent wall sconces at a height of seven or eight feet will reduce a high ceiling to a more human scale, while providing a sufficient amouot of ambient lighting.

Besides producing these space-altering illusion, lighting con also create a variety of moods within o room.

In the dining room, for example, o chandelier helps create a comfortoble atmosphere for dining. When this decorative fixture is dimmed, it produces a soft glow similar to candlelight.

Avoid glare by balancing the illumination from the chandelier with wall sconces of freestanding torchiers. This will provide needed ambient light ond create the illusion that oll the illumination is coming from the chondelier, according to ALA experts.

Another idea is to install recessed adjustable accent fixtures on each side of the chandelier. This woy, you can highlight the table, while leaving the chandelier at a soft glow. For best results, aim these fixtures toward opposite sides of the table.

RV wars: Towables versus motorized

The RV wars rage on. Owners of recreational vehicles are arguing obout the relative merits of towables versus motorized recreational vehicles, and an early resolution of the conflict doesn't seem immioent. The only point both battalions defialtely agree upoo is that recreational vehicle camping costs only half as much as other vacations and provides more close-to-nature flexibility. From there on the two contingents diverge.

Although more campers buy towables thon motorized vehicles, it might be argued that this doesn't prove the ultimate popularity of towables, because they tend to be less expensive than motorized vehicles. In fact, many people start out in a camping trailer and then move up to larger, more expensive motorized vehicles.

Coachmen Recreational Vehicle Company, o full line manufacturer of recreotional vehicles, offers the following information for those still trying to make up their minds which side of the conflict to support.

• Folding camping trailers – Purist insist that this type of recreational vehicle, the least expensive and oflen the first recreational vehicle purchased by a family, is what camping is all about.

• Truck camper – The truck camper is an inexpensive recreational vehicle which fits in the bed of a pick-up truck. This recreational vehicle is especially popular with fishermen and other outdoor sportsmen and women, because the truck can be unhooked at the campsite and serve as rugged backwoods transportation.

• Van camper – With raised roofs and driving comfort, van campers are often used on a daily basis as comfortable transportation around town, to cart the Little League team to the championship ball game, or take a group of Girl Scouts to a museum.

• Travel trailer – The mainstay of the recreational vehicle industry, the travel trailer can be ordered in lengths from 18 to 35 feet. Depending on its size, the travel trailer can be pulled behind a car, van or pickup truck. The tow vehicle can then be unhitched at the campground and used as transportation.

The towable versus motorized controversy will probably never be solved, but manufacturers such as Coachmen Recreational Vehicle Company offer such an endless variety of recreational vehicle choices that everyone can be happy.

Guaranteed spring bass action this season

The months of March, April and May provide the best opportunities for anglers to catch largemouth bass. The warming days of spring bring out both anglers and bass that have been "hibernating."

Spring bass fishing is constantly changing as bass migrate from their deep water habitat to forage and spawn in the shallows. Although bass catching seems easiest at this time, to be consistently successful requires a strategy to match the ever-changing conditions, according to the Mercury Outboards' fishing experts.

Start Planning Now

The first sunny days in early spring start the process. The north side of lake coves and bays are the best spots because the sun's rays penetrate and warm these shallows. Bends in the creek channels of main lake tributaries also serve as bass magnets. Spinner-baits, pig-and-jig, and deep diving crankbaits are best lure choices with water temperatures below 50 degrees. A slow, steady retrieve seems best. Average depth to fish is five to 20 feet.

When the nights, as well as the days, begin to warm, more bass head to the shallows. The first spring rains also flush warmer water into the lakes and bass activity increases steadily. Spinner baits and crankbaits are still productive, and may be fished faster.

Pig-and-jig also is still effective around heavy cover and during cold fronts. Topwater baits also come into action at this time. Backs of coves, main lake points, and shallow creek channels all are good structure, at five to 15 feet. Depending on water clarity, fish deeper or tighter to brush, etc., in clear water.

Where To Look

As water temperatures reach 60-65 degrees, bass begin spawning and can be found in a couple of feet to 10 to 12 feet, depending on lake clarity. Look for bass around pea gravel points, sides of coves, weed beds with gravel bottoms, and 45 degree chunk rock banks. Best lures are plastic worms or salamanders, grubs and topwaters.

Immediately after the spawn, females forage heavily in shallow water and gradually drop back to deeper water. Males stay with the nests for about eight to 10 days, and after the eggs hatch, they strike out on their own to deeper water. Pig-and-jig, deep-running crankbaits, and plastic worms are best throughout the mid-day hours with topwater, spinner-baits and plastic worms best early in the morning and late in the evening.

Map out your strategy now. With a topographical map of your favorite lake, mark the potential spots for spring bass, then head out for some exciting action. Match the lure choice, retrieve speed and depth to the time of the season, and get ready to set the hook.

Find out the four rules for painting perfection

Many of us have fond childhood memories of "painting by the numbers." But did you know that, figuratively speaking, you can do the same thing to get great exterior painting results?

Here are tips on how to proceed, courtesy of the Rohm and Haas Paint Quality Institute:

1. Properly prepare the surface. Even the best quality exterior paints can fail if applied to a dirty or unsound surface, so don't cut corners on surface preparation.

You can clean soon-to-be-painted surfaces with rented power-washing equipment or by scrubbing with a long-handled brush using plain soap and water.

Afterwards, remove loose flaking or peeling paint by scraping or wire-brushing. Feather back round paint edges by sanding. If you are repainting a glossy surface, also be sure to sand the area – this will permit the paint to adhere better.

Brush off any dust or particles left from the scraping the sanding. Then sand and spot-prime any areas where bare wood shows.

2. Purchase top quality exterior paint. To get the best-looking and longest-lasting paint job, be sure to buy the highest grade of paint. Top quality acrylic latex paint is excellent for most exterior applications.

According to the Paint Quality Institute, top quality acrylic latex paint has superior adhesion. As a result, it will grip and tenaciously hold onto a properly prepared surface. And that helps prevent paint failure like blistering, flaking and peeling.

Top quality latex paint also is very flexible, so it can expand and contract with the surface below when temperatures rise or fall dramatically. This, too, adds to the life of the paint job.

3. Use high quality brushes and tools. To get the best results with your top quality paint, be sure to apply it with quality tools and accessories. They'll make the work more effortless and help you apply a thicker, more uniform coat for a better-looking paint job.

Many homeowners choose to speed their work with power washing and spray painting equipment. (These are available at many paint outlets and tool rental centers.) If you are among them, be sure to follow the manufacturer's recommendations for safe and proper operation.

Should you use brushes and rollers, make certain that you have the right type of applicator for the paint you are applying. Use synthetic-bristle brushes and synthetic-cover rollers for latex paints, and brushes and rollers made of either natural or synthetic fibers for oil-based or alkyd paints.

Finally, when choosing brushes, favor those that are tightly packed, well-balanced and springy.

4. Paint under the right weather conditions. Once you have your top quality paint and tools in hand, be sure to do your painting on a mild day – when temperatures are between 60 and 85 degrees and when there is little or no wind. Under these conditions, your paint will form a highly protective paint film that will last for years.

The Paint Quality Institute also recommends that you avoid painting directly in hot sun, since the surface of your house can be 10 or even 20 degrees hotter than the air temperature.

Zippel Bay Park impact on area studied

Lake of the Woods County — Zippel Bay state park, northeast of Williams, means over $100,000 in extra out-of-the-area income for Lake of the Woods county, according to a study released by the Minnesota department of natural resources recently. The study also estimated that state parks generated $17.6-million in area income from out-of-state visitors in 1991. Approximately 34,000 people visited Zippel Bay state park in 1991, with about 20 percent of them from outside Minnesota. (Baudette Region)

St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator volume sets new record

Total sales at a record $67 million and a net margin of $800,000 will be reported to the membership of the St. Hilaire Cooperative Elevator Association at its annual meeting Friday, April 2, at 10:30 a.m. in the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls.

Two directors will be elected for three-year terms with the terms of Donald Mosbeck and Jerry Hasnedl expiring.

An "early bird" drawing will be held for $50 at 10:30 a.m. sharp and the guest speaker—in addition to personnel from Harvest States Cooperative—will be humorist Jack Lamier of Brainerd.

Manager Bob Miller termed 1992 as "another exciting and successful year" for the cooperative with both sales and margins up from the previous year.

"Even with grain prices down and inputs steady the total dollar sales are a record at over $67 million," Miller said. "Bushels handled are also a record at over 20 million bushels and net margins after expenses, including patronage refunds, are just a little over $800,000.

"This may sound like a lot of dollars and bushels, and it is," he added, "but the net margins on the local earnings are less than one per cent of gross sales. This tells you how competitive a business agriculture is today. Farming is the same, with high dollar sales and costs and low dollar margins."

Miller emphasized that the core business of the cooperative has always been grain and until 1976 anything other than grain was just a small sideline. With expansion into fertilizer, chemical and seed sales and more acres being planted to specialty crops, especially sunflowers, the main profit centers of the cooperative are beginning to change. With the development of value-added divisions such as manufacturing feed, processing roaster and dehull nutmeat sunflowers, volume sales and application of fertilizer and chemicals, grain margins

Pennington county's Valley Farmer and Homemaker award winner through the Red River Valley Winter Shows in Crookston are Kermit and Marian Finstad of rural Thief River Falls.

Gerald Moe, new sheriff for Pennington county, was sworn in by Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy. After a lengthy search for candidates to fill the vacated position, Moe was offered the position by the Pennington County board. Moe was the sheriff in Pope county. He is in his 24th year as a law enforcement officer.

Finstads are county farmer, homemaker

by Marvin Luodio
Times Editor

Pennington county's Valley Farmer and Homemaker for 1993, Kermit and Marian Finstad, have farmed most of their lives in Rocksbury township southeast of Thief River Falls, raised five children there and contributed service to the community.

Kermit is the third generation of the Finstad family to farm in the area. His grandfather, Knudt, homesteaded two miles south of the present farmstead in the early 1880s. His father, Carl, took over the farm and Kermit and Marian acquired the farm from him when he retired.

Marian's parents, Victor and Tilda Nelson, farmed west of Thief River Falls. She has a brother, Gene, who farms at Viking and three sisters, Mrs. Vernon (Juno) Scholin and Mrs. Don (Betty) Olson of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Wilbert (Phyllis) McGregor of rural Warren.

Kermit's younger brother, Ronald, was killed in Korea in 1952. His only sister, Mrs. Donald Perkins, lives in Montana.

While growing up on their respective farms, Kermit and Marian were active in the 4-H club program. Marian carried sewing and cooking projects and Kermit had primarily poultry, sheep and beef, although dairying was one of the family's main enterprises until 1978.

The five Finstad children were all active in what is now the Happy Acres 4-H club and in activities at Lincoln high school.

The Finstads own 355 acres and have rented an additional 200 acres or more for a number of years. They raise about 200 acres of alfalfa hay which they put up in round bales and feed about 65 per cent of the crop to their beef cattle herd. The remainder of the land is in small grains and corn for silage. This year they plan on reducing the total operation to about 400 acres.

Kermit has been involved in the community in a number of ways. He has been treasurer of Rocksbury township for 38 years. He served two nine-year stints on the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committee, including three years as chairman his first term and all nine years the last term.

A township representative from Pennington county on the Northwest Regional Development Commission, he is also on the commission's advisory board on aging. He served for several years on the board of the Farmers Home Administration, has been a member of the Red Lake Electric Cooperative board for the past eight years, served two terms on the Redeemer Lutheran church council and is on the Pennington county fair board.

Marian has been employed at several places in the community, dating back to work at the Falls and Avalon Theatres, both long since closed. She worked at First Federal Savings and Loan association, the county ASCS office and was an

Maple sugaring tradition still alive

Mike Kolden of the Erskine area merges hobby and business "by doing a lot of hands-on type stuff"

Mike Kolden uses a gas-powered drill to make tap holes in hard maple trees. Mike and Debbie Kolden are the owners of Kolden Farms near Erskine, which produce maple syrup. The tree in the picture at right has been tapped annually for about 30 years. Some of the healed tap holes are visible at about drill height in the picture.

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Bright fluorescent blue bags radiate through the forest, each collecting a maple tree's lifeblood, drop by drop.

Armed with a gas-powered drill, hatchet and tool belt filled with stainless steel taps, Mike Kolden prepares to attach 850 more taps to join the 400 already draining sap from hard maple trees. His neighbor and coworker Jeff Nornes follows, preparing and hanging the bags.

Kolden and Nornes move at a pace of 100 to 145 taps per hour and when they are done, 3,000 taps will collect maple sap.

Harvesting maple syrup, or maple sugaring, is a life-long venture for Kolden. His father was in the syrup business for 20 years. "It's sort of a tradition. You learn it by doing a lot of hands-on type stuff," Kolden said. "You don't have training sessions or seminars or anything like that."

Mike and Debbie Kolden have run Maple Landing Preserve, near Erskine, for about nine years.

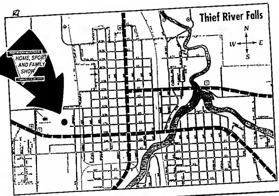
The Koldens use Maple Landing Preserve as a maple syrup farm in the spring and a hunting preserve — stocked with pheasants, chukar and wild turkey — in the fall. "It's called eking out a living," joked Kolden, who is also a farmer.

The syrup harvest moves frantically. Sap usually starts running the last week of March. When trees bud, the sap develops an off-flavor taste so harvest may last a week to four weeks. Freezing nights and thawing days make for a good harvest, Kolden said.

Because of the soil's clay composition, Kolden said rain or drought have had little effect on the maple syrup production.

Kolden taps trees on three different tracts of land, 145 acres combined. Taps drain two to three per cent of a tree's entire sap supply and trees repair themselves around the tap hole.

The slow-growing maple tree may reach ages of 200 years. These older, larger trees can hold two to three taps. A tap on any age tree would produce sap.



Kolden has gradually increased the number of taps, from 1,500 in 1991 to 3,000 in 1993. "It's an economy of scale. It's part hobby and part business, but you have to keep at it," Kolden said.

Once trees are tapped workers empty the blue bags every day or every other day. Kolden's father, Randy, drives the Allis Chalmers tractor through numerous forest paths. Two people on each side of the path spread into the forest, empty the 18-quart blue bags into their five-gallon buckets and dump the sap into a 1,800-gallon tank hauled by the tractor.

Nornes has helped with the syrup crop since Kolden began the business. "It's the first thing you do in the spring. It's kind of nice that way — finally getting outside."

People tend to get nostalgic when they hear about maple syrup, Kolden said, but "wallowing through knee-deep snow with a

Zippel Bay Park impact on area studied

Lake of the Woods County — Zippel Bay state park, northeast of Williams, means over $100,000 in extra out-of-the-area income for Lake of the Woods county, according to a study released by the Minnesota department of natural resources recently. The study also estimated that state parks generated $17.6-million in area income from out-of-state visitors in 1991. Approximately 34,000 people visited Zippel Bay state park in 1991, with about 20 percent of them from outside Minnesota. (Baudette Region)

St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator volume sets new record

Total sales at a record $67 million and a net margin of $800,000 will be reported to the membership of the St. Hilaire Cooperative Elevator Association at its annual meeting Friday, April 2, at 10:30 a.m. in the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls.

Two directors will be elected for three-year terms with the terms of Donald Mosbeck and Jerry Hasnedl expiring.

An "early bird" drawing will be held for $50 at 10:30 a.m. sharp and the guest speaker—in addition to personnel from Harvest States Cooperative—will be humorist Jack Lanner of Brainerd.

Manager Bob Miller termed 1992 as "another exciting and successful year" for the cooperative with both sales and margins up from the previous year.

"Even with grain prices down and inputs steady the total dollar sales are a record at over $67 million," Miller said. "Bushels handled are also a record at over 20 million bushels and net margins after expenses, including patronage refunds, are just a little over $800,000.

"This may sound like a lot of dollars and bushels, and it is," he added, "but the net margins on the local earnings are less than one per cent of gross sales. This tells you how competitive a business agriculture is today. Farming is the same, with high dollar sales and costs and low dollar margins."

Miller emphasized that the core business of the cooperative has always been grain and until 1976 anything other than grain was just a small sideline. With expansion into fertilizer, chemical and seed sales and more acres being planted to specialty crops, especially sunflowers, the main profit centers of the cooperative are beginning to change. With the development of value-added divisions such as manufacturing feed, processing roaster and dehull nutmeat sunflowers, volume sales and application of fertilizer and chemicals, grain margins

Pennington county's Valley Farmer and Homemaker award winner through the Red River Valley Winter Shows in Crookston are Kermit and Marian Finstad of rural Thief River Falls.

Gerald Moe, new sheriff for Pennington county, was sworn in by Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy. After a lengthy search for candidates to fill the vacated position, Moe was offered the position by the Pennington County board. Moe was the sheriff in Pope county. He is in his 24th year as a law enforcement officer.

Finstads are county farmer, homemaker

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Pennington county's Valley Farmer and Homemaker for 1993, Kermit and Marian Finstad, have farmed most of their lives in Rocksbury township southeast of Thief River Falls, raised five children there and contributed service to the community.

Kermit is the third generation of the Finstad family to farm in the area. His grandfather, Knudt, homesteaded two miles south of the present farmstead in the early 1880s. His father, Carl, took over the farm and Kermit and Marian acquired the farm from him when he retired.

Marian's parents, Victor and Tilda Nelson, farmed west of Thief River Falls. She has a brother, Gene, who farms at Viking and three sisters, Mrs. Vernon (June) Scholin and Mrs. Don (Betty) Olson of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Wilbert (Phyllis) McGregor of rural Warren.

Kermit's younger brother, Ronald, was killed in Korea in 1952. His only sister, Mrs. Donald Perkins, lives in Montana.

While growing up on their respective farms, Kermit and Marian were active in the 4-H club program. Marian carried sewing and cooking projects and Kermit had primarily poultry, sheep and beef, although dairying was one of the family's main enterprises until 1978.

The five Finstad children were all active in what is now the Happy Acres 4-H club and in activities at Lincoln high school.

The Finstads own 355 acres and have rented an additional 200 acres or more for a number of years. They raise about 200 acres of alfalfa hay which they put up in round bales and feed about 65 per cent of the crop to their beef cattle herd. The remainder of the land is in small grains and corn for silage. This year they plan on reducing the total operation to about 400 acres.

Kermit has been involved in the community in a number of ways. He has been treasurer of Rocksbury township for 38 years. He served two nine-year stints on the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committee, including three years as chairman his first term and all nine years the last term.

A township representative from Pennington county on the Northwest Regional Development Commission, he is also on the commission's advisory board on aging. He served for several years on the board of the Farmers Home Administration, has been a member of the Red Lake Electric Cooperative board for the past eight years, served two terms on the Redeemer Lutheran church council and is on the Pennington county fair board.

Marian has been employed at several places in the community, dating back to work at the Falls and Avalon Theatres, both long since closed. She worked at First Federal Savings and Loan association, the county ASCS office and was an

Mike Kolden of the Erskine area merges hobby and business "by doing a lot of hands-on type stuff"

Mike Kolden uses a gas-powered drill to make tap holes in hard maple trees. Mike and Debbie Kolden are the owners of Kolden Farms near Erskine, which produce maple syrup. The tree in the picture at right has been tapped annually for about 30 years. Some of the healed tap holes are visible at about drill height in the picture.

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Bright fluorescent blue bags radiate through the forest, each collecting a maple tree's lifeblood, drop by drop.

Armed with a gas-powered drill, hatchet and tool belt filled with stainless steel taps, Mike Kolden prepares to attach 850 more taps to join the 400 already draining sap from hard maple trees. His neighbor and coworker Jeff Nornes follows, preparing and hanging the bags.

Kolden and Nornes move at a pace of 100 to 145 taps per hour and when they are done, 3,000 taps will collect maple sap.

Harvesting maple syrup, or maple sugaring, is a life-long venture for Kolden. His father was in the syrup business for 20 years. "It's sort of a tradition. You learn it by doing a lot of hands-on type stuff," Kolden said. "You don't have training sessions or seminars or anything like that."

Mike and Debbie Kolden have run Maple Landing Preserve, near Erskine, for about nine years.

The Koldens use Maple Landing Preserve as a maple syrup farm in the spring and a hunting preserve — stocked with pheasants, chukar and wild turkey — in the fall. "It's called eking out a living," joked Kolden, who is also a farmer.

The syrup harvest moves frantically. Sap usually starts running the last week of March. When trees bud the sap develops an off-flavor taste so harvest may last a week to four weeks. Freezing nights and thawing days make for a good harvest, Kolden said.

Because of the soil's clay composition, Kolden said rain or drought have had little effect on the maple syrup production.

Kolden taps trees on three different tracts of land, 145 acres combined. Taps drain two to three per cent of a tree's entire sap supply and trees repair themselves around the tap hole.

The slow-growing maple tree may reach ages of 200 years. These older, larger trees can hold two to three taps. A tap on any age tree would produce sap.

Kolden has gradually increased the number of taps, from 1,500 in 1991 to 3,000 in 1993. "It's an economy of scale. It's part hobby and part business, but you have to keep at it," Kolden said.

Once trees are tapped workers empty the blue bags every day or every other day. Kolden's father, Randy, drives the Allis Chalmers tractor through numerous forest paths. Two people on each side of the path spread into the forest, empty the 18-quart blue bags into their five-gallon buckets and dump the sap into a 1,800-gallon tank hauled by the tractor.

Nornes has helped with the syrup crop since Kolden began the business. "It's the first thing you do in the spring. It's kind of nice that way — finally getting outside."

People tend to get nostalgic when they hear about maple syrup, Kolden said, but "wallowing through knee-deep snow with a

Landfill near Park Rapids may be leaching arsenic

Park Rapids — The closed Pickett landfill near Park Rapids may be leaching arsenic into the ground water and contaminating a nearby residential well, according to a news release from the Minnesota Pollution Control agency. Since the ground water near the landfill moves toward the southeast, several other households in the area are not affected so far. The water samples also showed several voatile organic compounds, but at levels within state guidelines. Money from the state superfund will be used to provide the household with bottled water. By this summer the agency expects to begin preparing plans for a permanent alternate water supply for any affected residences. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Crookston — The International Sogarbeet Institute committee has tentatively decided to move the 1994 show to the Fargo Dome, instead of holding it in the Red River Valley arena as in the past. Landfill near Park Rapids may be leaching arsenic

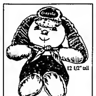
Park Rapids — The closed Pickett landfill near Park Rapids may be leaching arsenic into the ground water and contaminating a nearby residential well, according to a news release from the Minnesota Pollution Control agency. Since the ground water near the landfill moves toward the southeast, several other households in the area are not affected so far. The water samples also showed several veatile organic compounds, but at levels within state guidelines. Money from the state superfund will be used to provide the household with bottled water. By this summer the agency expects to begin preparing plans for a permanent alternate water supply for any affected residences. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Northwest Mental Health center dedication held



Crookston — The Northwestern Mental Health center in Crookston celebrated the dedication of its new facility March 26 with an open house and tours of the new center. The building dedication program featured sen. Roger Moe and James Stoebner, assistant commissioner for Community Mental Health and Regional treatment center services. The new facility is located at 603 Bruce street, near the previous building. The new building includes rooms for group treatment, special construction features to insure privacy of consulting room-and, a room for children for assessment and treatment. (Crookston Daily Times)

Crookston Sugarbeet Institute could move to Fargo

Crookston — The International Sugarbeet Institute committee has tentatively decided to move the 1994 show to the Fargo Dome, instead of holding it in the Red River Valley arena as in the past. The annual event, which will be in the 32nd year, attracted over 4,000 people this year. The committee says that the show will return to Crookston in 1995 and after that, there is no commitment. A photo cutline in Saturday's edition of the Northern Watch indicated that the Thief River Falls MATHCOUNTS team had finished 11th in competition at the University of Minnesota—Crookston. The information supplied by UMC was incorrect. The team placed second in the division for larger schools in the competition and Reid Frolland of Thief River Falls won the countdown round in addition to placing third overall.

Can enzyme regimen end obesity?

WASHINGTON – A nutritional research organization says that a special enzyme regimen can promote extremely fast, yet safe weight loss.

National Dietary Research, an organization whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, says that the regimen called the Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System utilizes biological information often overlooked in diet programs. With the Metabolase Plus System, you consume at least 6 meals a day from a wide variety of foods followed by the enzymes to overcome the body's natural resistance to weight loss.

To demonstrate the effectiveness, NDR sponsored a promotion where free samples were given to 50 people. The results found that women following the regimen lost over a pound a day and men lost over two pounds a day. The director of research and development at NDR cautions that these results may not necessarily be indicative of what the average consumer could expect because the rate of weight loss for individuals varies.

A firm located in Tampa, Florida has exclusive distribution rights to the enzyme regimen. The Metabolase Plus Thermogenic Weight Loss System is available through physicians, pharmacies, and health food stores without a prescription. However, because of the overwhelming demand, quantities are sometimes limited.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I know I'm old fashioned but sometimes being like that isn't all that bad. For instance, I don't think kids should be allowed to use calculators in school until their senior year. One time I asked someone who was taking engineering at NDSU, "If you had to solve a problem and didn't have your calculator, could you do it on paper?" The answer was, "No. I'd be lost without it."

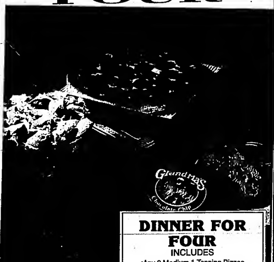
There is nothing so complicated about a calculator that the kids can't learn in just their senior year and until then they should be taught to do everything on paper first, as sooner or later they're going to need the know-how.

I have just finished reading the book, "Educating for the New World Order." I ask you, do you know what the think tanks have done to our public schools? How have they been able to push this trash curriculum off on us without us knowing about it?

Recently the local TV channels had programs on about teenage suicides. I have always thought if they could rid this country of illegal drugs that would pretty much solve that problem, but it seems that psychiatrists and psychologists had a big role in re-writing the present day curriculum and tests. With them messing around with young, healthy minds, no wonder there's so many suicides. They could send anyone crazy.

And now we have a psychologist from Thief River Falls spending half a day a week at our school here in Fosston. Isn't that like leaving the fox to guard the chicken coop? Is it mandatory to have a psychologist visit our school? Who picks the kids who have to see him? Is it the school superintendent, principals, teachers, parents or the kids themselves or is the computer data bank that holds the results of all these freakish tests the kids have to take?

Have you ever wondered why your one-year-old has to have a Social Security number? Well, this is one of the reasons. It's put into the computer and that information will follow them the rest of their lives, be it good, bad or misleading.



I've known for a long time that something was wrong with public education but couldn't figure out what it was. When a kid goes through 12 years of school and can't read or write there has to be something wrong. After reading the book, I see what has happened to education in this country and why so many schools are having to consolidate.

If you want to read the book, you can order it from Liberty Library, 300 Independence Ave. SE, Washington, DC 20003. It has 291 pages and cost me $21.95.

Opinions

Marvin Lundin
Editor

Editorial opinion published on this page, whether locally written or re-printed from other sources is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Opinions espressed by the editor are his own and not necessarily those of other staff members. Opinions espressed in items from other publications may be contradictory to the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Legislation Of The Hour

One of the reasons there is a glut of proposed legislation to be considered at each session of the legislature is that elected Senators and Representatives have a tendency to believe passing a law will solve societal ills. And much of the legislation is proposed as a knee-jerk reaction to some problem of the hour.

Such is the case with House File 178 which is co-authored by Representatives Carruthers, Skoglund, Dawkins, Mariana and Lynch and has been referred to the Judiciary committee. The bill deals with a current violent crime fad—drive-by shootings.

A summary of the bill in the League of Minnesota Cities Bulletin notes that it would "make it a felony for anyone to recklessly discharge a firearm when the person is in a passenger vehicle if the shot is toward another passenger vehicle or a dwelling. Penalty would be up to three years or a fine of up to $6,000, or both, with a maximum penalty of five years or $10,000 or both if the vehicle or dwelling is occupied."

Drive-by shootings are senseless, stupid, irresponsible acts and those who commit them should certainly be liable for substantial penalties if apprehended. We would be surprised, however, if there are not presently laws under which such violators could be charged and we fail to understand why the conditions of the shooting covered in the bill are any worsa than other irresponsible firearms use.

For instance, what if the shot or shots are fired from a motorcycle, moped, ATV, bicycle, semi-trailer tractor or by a pedestrian? Are they more dangerous if they come from a passenger vehicle? What if they are not directed at another passenger vehicle or a dwelling but at a shopping center, supermarket, school or police station?

Should there be a sliding scale of penalties beyond the variance proposed if the vehicle or dwelling is occupied, perhaps based on accuracy of the shooter? This could be modeled after the sign posted in some auto repair shops: "Labor, $20 per hour. If you watch, $30. If you help, $40." It could be: "Drive-by shooting, three years or $6,000. If dwelling or vehicle is occupied, five years or $10,000. If dwelling or vehicle is hit, seven years or $15,000. If person is injured, 10 years or $20,000. If person is killed, life without pardon."

This is not to make light of a very dangerous and frightening act of violence that seems to be the crime of the moment in some areas. But it is the act itself, not how or when it is committed, that is deserving of the penalty. And one can expect that its rate of incidence will decrease as there is increasing recognition of how stupid an act it is.

But don't bet that the bill won't get a good hearing and probably be passed. Legislators love a high visibility issue where they can pass a law and tell their constituents that they have done something about the problem, even if the results will probably be negligible. The law probably wouldn't hurt anything, but it probably won't help rouch, either.

Impressive Part Of Life In The United States

There are so many things that we take for granted as residents of the United States that we are amazed when people from foreign lands find some of them to be unusual.

For instance, we read of a foreign journalist visiting here who became increasingly nervous as last fall's national election approached. In his country, a change in national leadership meant civil discontent, rioting and bloodshed. He expected the same here and could not believe that the transition was orderly, peaceful and even cordial. Such a transition, which we have come to expect, was beyond his comprehension until he witnessed it for himself.

Government, however, is only one area where the United States is a marvel to visitors. Elmer L. Anderson, former Minnesota governor and now publisher of the ABC Newspapers in Anoka, gives another example in a recent editorial. He writes as follows:

A young man, a displaced person from Europe who had not been in the United States very long, was asked what impressed him the most about this country during a coffee break at his place of employment. He thought for a moment and then replied, "This may surprise you, but I believe what impresses me most about the United States is the American grocery store.

"I am sure it is hard for you to imagine," he went on, "what it means to someone who never had it before, to go into a store where there is abundance, variety, wholesome quality, and purchase limited only by your means. I look around in awe every time I enter a supermarket—I can hardly believe my eyes. I am so thankful to be here."

His fellow workers were quiet and thoughtful. Each was probably thinking how much they took food supply in the United States for granted. We are tremendously well served by the many-faceted food industry—the producers on the farms, ranches, produce and fruit producing units who do the front line job of generating the basic supply. Then the processors who generate the quantities we consume, in the form we prefer, and of the quality we expect. Researchers are constantly working to develop new and better varieties, new techniques of preparation and preservation, such as freezing not so long ago, packaging in improved and more convenient ways.

Government agencies and workers play a role in establishing quality standards and processes, more informative labeling, inspection services and producer support. The transportation industry plays a vital role in moving food products from distant places of the world to be available fresh at the local store. Government and private agencies, and the generosity of many people, fill food shelves for those without sufficient resources to buy all they need.

Wholesalers and distributors do an incredible job of logistics to bring together the quantities that are needed and deliver them to the points of demand and with a minimum of waste and spoilage. Then there are the retailers who coordinate the desires of diverse customers with knowledge of the availability of new and fascinating products and have what people want when they want it, and in adequate quantities.

Finally, Americans spend less of their work time earning the money to pay for their food than any other people on earth. Food is a bargain when you stop to consider all the effort and investment, all the dedication of thousands upon thousands of people, so we can walk down the aisles and choose from the infinite variety of fine food that is available to us. There are a great many blessings the way of life in the United States has brought to its people but surely it is true that a modern grocery store is one of the most impressive.

To The Editor:

A pro-life bill, the Woman's Right To Know Act, has been introduced in the Minnesota State Legislature. It would give women contemplating abortion the right to know the medical risks of abortion and its alternatives and accurate scientific facts about the growth of her unborn child before making a decision either way. A poll taken in January of 1992 found that 86 per cent of the people support this kind of legislation.

This bill requires that 24 hours before a contemplated abortion a woman must be given this information:

(1) The name of the person performing the abortion;

(2) The medical risks associated with abortion and with carrying the child to term and the gestational age of the unborn child;

(3) That medical assistance may be available and that the father is liable for the child's support;

(4) The woman has a right to review information on fetal development, abortion procedures and alternatives to abortion.

Another bill authored by Sen. Bill Luther attacks the tax exempt status of Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life (MCCL) and demands that government agencies investigate and revoke the tax-exempt status.

A pro-abortion minority must not be allowed to stop pro-lifers from using the MCCL committee for the election of pro-life legislators. The First Amendment supports the right of citizens to organize through PACs.

Write or call your legislators and request them to: (1) Support the Woman's Right to Know Act (SF 266 and HF 290) and ask Sen. Roger Moe and Sen. Dee Long to bring the bill to the Senate and House floor for a vote and (2) oppose laws that take away pro-lifers' rights to be involved in the political process through MCCL's state PACs.

Address for state representatives is the State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155 (phone 1-800-657-3550 or 612-296-2146). Address for Senators is State Capitol, St. Paul, MN 55155 (phone 612-296-0504).

ECFE invites dolls and teddy bears to hospital visit

Northwest Medical Center and Early Childhood Family Education, learning readiness program, will sponsor a doll and teddy bear clinic hospital visit for children eligible to start kindergarten in the fall of 1993. The hospital and clinic visit will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. on March 30 at the ECFE center.

The purpose of the clinic is to make a visit to the clinic or hospital more familiar for the child and to meet the people who work there.

Parents and their children who are eligible to start kindergarten in the fall of 1993 are invited to bring their favorite doll or teddy bear to visit the pretend clinic at the ECFE center. Staff members from Northwest Medical Center will set up a pretend clinic complete with some of their equipment. The dolls and teddy bears will have a complete check up which includes check-in, height, weight, temperature and blood pressure measurements. X-rays will be on display along with a handwashing demonstration, an ambulance, a police car and other activities. There will also be handouts for children and parents.

The clinic is free, but individuals interested in participating in the clinic are asked to make an appointment at 681-8670 by March 29. Appointment times will be 6:30, 6:45 or 7 p.m. The clinic will take about one hour.

Everybody's Favorite Snack and Dessert—Cookies.

Simple to make bar cookies, but delicious to eat:

PEANUT BUTTER BARS
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons peanut butter
1 cup margarine
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup oatmeal

Blend all ingredients together (use your hand if you want).

Press out on ungreased cookie sheet, making flat as possible. Bake for 25 minutes at 325 degrees.

Sprinkle a 12-ounce package of chocolate chips over and spread evenly over surface. If necessary, return to oven to melt chips.

Cool and cut.

NO-ROLL SUGAR COOKIES
1 cup shortening, part butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
2 cups flour

Cream sugar and shortening. Add egg and vanilla and beat well.

Sift dry ingredients together and add to above.

Drop by teaspoonfuls and press with sugared glass or fork.

Bake at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes, until cookies are set, but not brown.

HONEY APPLE COOKIES
1/2 cup shortening, or butter
3/4 to 1 cup honey, sorghum or molasses
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup grated apples
1 cup nuts, if desired
1 cup raisins
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
2 1/2 cups flour

Mix shortening, honey, egg and vanilla. Add apples, nuts and raisins.

Mix dry ingredients and add to shortening mixture, mixing well.

Drop by teaspoonful on greased cookie sheet and bake at 350 degrees for 8-10 minutes, until browned. Watch closely, as these cookies burn easily.

SNAPPY TURTLE COOKIES
3 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar, packed
3 eggs
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
walnut halves

Sift flour, salt and soda.

Cream butter and brown sugar well. Add eggs and beat well. Blend in vanilla and dry ingredients, mixing thoroughly.

Make dough into balls and place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes.

When cool, frost with white or chocolate powdered sugar frosting and top with a walnut half.

Another good old fashioned recipe:

OATMEAL COOKIES
1 cup shortening, part butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
3 cups oats
1 cup coconut

Cream shortening and sugars. Beat in eggs and vanilla.

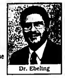
Sift together flour, salt and soda and stir into creamed mixture. Add oats and coconut.

Form into small balls and place on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes, or until light brown.

[1 cup of chocolate or butterscotch chips may be added.]

Reviewer praises evening of dance

by Michelle Duffy



Tuesday, March 9, Concert Series members were treated to an evening of multi-cultural music and dance. The Tamburitzans, from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, PA, presented a colorful program rich in tradition from countries such as Croatia, Serbia, Bulgaria, Hungary, Armenia, and Russia. The company consisted of 40 talented musicians and dancers. Throughout the evening they entertained concert goers with a variety of songs, dances, and instrumental selections. Set to a backdrop of beautiful and brightly colored costumes, the Tamburitzans displayed a unique style of athletics and intricate footwork. Props, such as scarfs, ribbons, flowers, wreaths, and finger bells, were used in many of the folk dances.

The many musical instruments that accompany the Tamburitzans definitely set the mood for this folk production. In fact, the "tambura", a lute-like instrument, is where the Tamburitzans get their name. The exceedingly rich and intriguing music with its rhythms is created through a variety of instruments including pastoral flutes, single and multi-stringed bowed instruments, and drums of various shapes and sizes. Even the accordion player has a place among Tamburitzans, with his technical improvisations of simple folk melodies from the Ukraine, Russia, and Armenia.

However, the integration of the instruments, songs and dances was the most impressive. Each served to enhance the other within a format that displayed the deep emotions and wonderful skills characteristic of the Tamburitzan folk art.

Once again, hats off to the Thief River Falls Concert Association for providing their members with the quality of performance and artistry that the Tamburitzans exemplified.

Nieland named top wrestler

Lee Nieland, the lone senior on the 1992-93 Thief River Falls wrestling team, walked off with most of the individual honors during the Prowlers' recent awards banquet.

Nieland was named most valuable and was presented with the Irv Wilson Memorial Award as the team's most dedicated wrestler. He also received a captain's plaque and was recognized for leading the Prowlers in take-downs, pins and wins.

Steve Burslie was selected as the hardest worker, while Philip Nelson was given the Oil Can Award for his perseverance and positive attitude. Burslie and Nelson are both sophomores.

Awards were also given to the top finisher in each grade, 7-through-12, for the Prowlers' mid-season Poor Man Trials, a series of eight different conditioning drills over a 90-minute span covering agility, strength and stamina. The winners were Josh Stinson, seventh grade; Luke Davis, eighth grade; Billy Fogarty, freshmen; Dusty Eddleman, sophomores; and Nieland, juniors/seniors.

A young Thief River Falls team, which many times had four eighth graders, four freshmen and four sophomores in the line-up, went just 3-18-1 in dual meet competition this winter. However, Prowlers coach John Anderson did not dwell on the won-loss mark in assessing the recently-completed season.

"It's more fun to win," he acknowledged. "The meets got kind of long at times. But in spite of the record, it was one of the most enjoyable seasons I've ever had because of the type of kids we had on the team. It was a fun group of kids to be with. They worked hard. They gave it a 100 percent effort all year long. They gave us everything they had every time they took the mat."

Athletic letters were presented to Nieland; juniors Robby Bakken and Jon Parish; sophomores Jason Homme, John Davis, Burslie, Eddleman, and Nelson; freshmen Nick Dee, Matt Lawrence, Kyle Miller, and Fogarty; eighth graders Kevin Bakken Luke Davis, Ryan Hible, and Sam Lane; along with student managers Mandy Sjaahcim and Curt Eckstein.

Participation certificates went to freshman John Elizondon; eighth graders Darwin Klemetson, Jeremy LaCoe, Billy Lubitz, Chris Scholin, and Jamen Tanner; along with seventh graders Michael Freeman, Josh Hagen, David Hoglo, Jacob Maynard, Jay Radniecki, Chad Skeim, Josh Stinson, Eric Thayer, and Ryan Viktora.

Poor shooting hampers Lincoln girls in 10-14 season

It's the 31 percent shooting figure from the floor that grabs your attention, and mostly explains why the Prowlers slipped from a 14-10 finished in 1991-92 to 10-14 in 1992-93.

"We had shooting problems," acknowledged second-year Thief River Falls head coach Sally Wiltse. "You're not going to win a lot of varsity games with that kind of shooting."

And a habit-forming penchant for poor third quarter play wound up costing the Prowlers several times. Opponents out-scored Thief River Falls 1,226 to 1,068 for the year, which included a decided 108-point edge in the third quarter.

Because of their poor shooting, the Prowlers averaged just 44.5 points per game. Throw in an average of 17 turnovers per game, and you have the makings of a losing record.

Some of that might be attributed to the absence of Jodi Kruta, who graduated last year as the Prowlers' all-time leading scorer.

"I think we struggled trying to learn to play without Jodi," explained Wiltse. "Everybody had new roles, new duties to fill. Several different kids tried to step up and take over like Jodi did, but nobody could do it on a consistent basis for the whole year."

Best numbers come from 5-10 senior forward Amy Adams, an All-North Sub-Section 8AA pick who led the Prowlers with 15.3 points and 10.2 rebounds per game.

The lone senior on the team, Adams finished as the career rebound leader and No. 3 all-time scorer in Thief River Falls girls high school basketball history. Her 744 rebounds tops the previous high of 703 set by Michelle Puetz from 1983-1986, and her 974 points rank only behind the 1,771 scored by Kruta from 1988-92 and 1,062 by Michelle Olson from 1981-85.

"Amy contributed to the program in a number of ways, both on and off the court," noted Wiltse. "She got her points and her rebounds, and she also provided that senior leadership you need with a young team. We'll miss her."

The other four Thief River Falls starters were all juniors – 5-5 Toni Chiodo and 5-6 Jamie Dehnert at the guards, 6-0 Lori DeLap at center, and 5-9 Lisa Ulrich at the other forward. Three sophomores – 5-7 forward Lisa Rendulich, 5-11 center Carrie Lawrence and 5-5 guard Kelly Skeim – were the top reserves.

"I think we'll be really competitive next year," offered Wiltse. But the question of just how competitive will rest with the Prowlers and their willingness to put in the time to improve their game, particularly their shooting. "They need to work on their shooting in the off-season," said Wiltse. "They have to get that work ethic back if they want to be successful next winter."

Although the end result was less than hoped for, the 1992-93 season was hardly a loss, stressed Wiltse. "We didn't win has many ball games as we did last year," she conceded, "but we still have a lot of fun. It was a good group of kids. I think we developed a lot of good relationships between the players and between the players and coaches during the year. I enjoyed it."

Few turn out for hearing on local schools

Eleven people, mostly city council members, showed up for School District 564's public hearing on the proposed closing of Knox, Northrop and Washington elementary schools. Two of the people in attendance provided testimony at the hearing.

Mike Mongoven and Rufus Olson, both residents near Northrop elementary school, asked that Northrop and the area around Northrop elementary school be converted to some form of public park. Both said that area of the community is ill served by community parks.

Proposals under consideration at the public hearing included closing the schools and offering them for sale. Washington would be closed and converted to an education service center and the current school district service center would be offered for sale.

The rationale used for closing Northrop and Knox is that inadequacies of the buildings and construction of the new elementary complex eliminated any use for the schools.

The school board will discuss the issue again at its next school board meeting.

Local man arrested in St. Louis Co.

St. Louis County officials (Duluth), executed warrants on March 22 for the arrest of a local man accused of six violations.

Steven Joseph Jones, 29, Thief River Falls, was arrested in St. Louis county on Monday. Jones was wanted in Pennington county on the following charges: fifth degree assault, aggravated driving while intoxicated, two counts of open bottle, possession of a controlled substance in the fifth degree, and theft under $250. Jones was taken into custody and is now being held in a Pennington county law enforcement center jail cell awaiting formal court appearances.

five-gallon bucket isn't what most people would consider fun."

Kolden keeps snowshoes in back of his truck in case the snow is too deep. "It's a lot of plain bull work," Kolden said.

The fun part of the work, Kolden said, is processing the sap. Kolden converted a barn to meet state regulations as a sugarhouse.

The sap is poured into a 1,000 gallon tank and travels by tube to the evaporator.

The evaporator currently awaits the first onslaught of syrup. Kolden predicts it will be fired up next week.

The 6 X 18, Vermont-made, 30-year-old evaporator holds 150 gallons and processes 275 gallons of sap each hour. Kolden stokes the evaporator with four-feet cord wood every 15 to 20 minutes, heating syrup to 211 degrees.

Only one gallon of maple syrup is produced for every 40 gallons of sap. About 97 per cent of the sap is water. The remaining product is 65 to 67 per cent pure sugar.

The sap travels through a series of trays, gradually losing water and constantly pushed by new sap entering the evaporator. Eventually syrup empties into a container after filtering through flannel cloth.

Before boiling, Kolden heats the syrup again and pumps it through a pressure filter which removes any additional "sugar sand," or mineral sediment.

The first week of tapping produces sap about the same color as apple juice. As the days progress, sap becomes darker. The sap is mixed together for a consistent color.

Last year, Kolden farms processed 500 gallons of maple syrup. Kolden fills each bottle, bottle by bottle — "One of the limiting factors," Kolden said. The containers vary in size from one-half pint to one gallon. The syrup is packaged at 200 degrees.

The bottles are labeled and sent to supermarkets, co-op stores and health specialty stores around Northwest Minnesota. Tourist shops in Itasca State Park provide one of Kolden's biggest markets. "We've been at it quite a few years and you kind of develop a market," Kolden said.

Kolden's sons Travis, 9, and Tyler, 11, are still too young for some of the labor involved maple sugaring, but Kolden said, "It gets in your blood. I'm genetically disposed to tapping and processing maple syrup."

This evaporator sits idle, but soon will process thousands of gallons of maple syrup. The evaporator removes water from sap. Only one gallon of syrup is produced for every 40 gallons of sap.

are not king any more, the manager said.

"Yes, this year wheat was our largest commodity and did still generate the largest margins," Miller said. "That was a result of excellent yields and high volume. Second in line was sunflowers, third was barley and then fertilizer and feed. This year nearly 4,000 carloads of all grains, mostly wheat, moved out of St. Hilaire-operated facilities."

Miller said that the largest happening of the year was the lease of the East Grand Forks Farmers Elevator. Despite a fire which caused extensive damage to the East Grand Forks facilities on February 12, the board believes the lease to be one of the best moves the cooperative has made.

"Fire losses were covered by insurance," Miller said. "The volume of business is beyond our expectations and with the enthusiasm of its owners and management we think good things will happen there. Grain volume the first seven months is over three million bushels. Spring sales in fertilizer and chemicals also look good.

"Many more things are happening in the grain business. We have seen five elevators in our trade territory change hands in the last three weeks. So far, we at your cooperative are taking a cautious approach rather than moving too fast."

Miller said the cooperative is adding a new blender to the fertilizer station at St. Hilaire that will make it two to three times faster for trucks to load. He said all other operations of the cooperative at Thief River Falls, Grygla, Hazel, Plummer and Fertile are performing satisfactorily and "with the help of all your employees and a dedicated board of directors" will continue to expand and grow.

Dinner and door prize drawings will follow the meeting.

School board considers cuts and kids at casino

School District 564 board of education adopted a resolution directing administration to make recommendations for K-12 program and position reductions at its regular meeting Tuesday evening at the school district service center.

The resolution states that the financial condition of the school district dictates that the school board must reduce expenditures immediately and the reduction must include discontinuance of K-12 positions and discontinuance or curtailment of programs.

Noting that a determination must be made as to which teachers' contracts must be terminated and not renewed and which teachers may be placed on unrequested leave of absence without pay or fringe benefits, the resolution directs the superintendent and administration to consider the discontinuance of programs and positions and make recommendations to the school board.

Supt. Robert Duncan said that reductions totaling $300,000 had been discussed earlier but the situation has improved and it is not expected that the cuts will be that severe.

Discussion was held regarding the presence of high school students at the River Road Casino during school hours. The administration was directed to contact the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians, operator of the casino, and possibly schedule a time for a meeting to discuss curtailing that situation.

Lincoln senior Amy Adams was recognized for her selection to the Region 8AA All-Region basketball team and Amity scholar Ana Maria Labrador of Spain presented information on the educational system in her home country.

Supt. Duncan noted that about 25 people have committed to attending a retreat in June to work on a five-year strategic plan for the school district. He also reviewed the post-secondary enrollment options agreement with the Northwest Technical College system and said the administration is still working with Northland Community College on a similar agreement.

Knox, Northrop and the School District Service Center were discussed as being unused properties when the school district's building projects are completed. Possibilities for the sale and proposed use of these buildings were discussed. A joint meeting of the board with the Thief River Falls city council has been set for April 5 at 5 p.m. to discuss this and other issues of mutual concern.

Carl Clark reported that the negotiations team had held its first meeting with the TRFEA and will meet again April 15.

Time for the next regular meeting of the board Monday, April 12, was changed from 7 p.m. to 5 p.m. with a meet and confer session with the TRFEA scheduled for 4:45 p.m.

Travel offer no prize winner

Following the Home, Sport and Family Show held last weekend at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls, a number of phone calls have been received by The Times and local law enforcement center regarding a travel package promotion by A&E Travel of Tampa, FL.

Callers have questioned the legitimacy of the promotion, said they had been told by telephone solicitors that they had won vacation trips, been treated rudely by the callers, pressured to purchase the vacation package and asked for their credit card numbers immediately to "guarantee" their package.

From what The Times and local law enforcement personnel have been able to determine, it would appear that the company uses deceptive and high pressure marketing tactics but does provide what the language of the package says will be provided. We do not know if what will be provided is what the phone solicitors promise or the purchaser expects to receive.

Rick Kezar of Thief River Falls, who operated the booth at the show, was hired through Job Service by L & G Marketing. He said the information he was provided by the company to describe the tour package was different from what was offered by the phone callers. For instance, he was told the package included stays at the Airport Hilton in Florida, Sun Club Resort in the Bahamas and cruising on the Viking Princess. Callers used other lodging facilities. Transportation to and from Florida was not included in the package.

Price generally quoted for the package was $199 per person with a push for two people at $398. The callers led persons who had signed registration slips at the show to believe that they had been "winners," or specially selected, and insisted on immediate reservations or the "opportunity" would be passed on to someone else.

Information on the back of the registration slips used at the show booth states: This fantastic 6 day/5 night vacation in Florida and the Bahamas will be offered to selected registrants based upon their demographics. If you are selected, you will be given the opportunity to take advantage of our vacation offer at up to 70 per cent below the retail value. This promotion does not involve Time Share drawings nor does anyone win! On occasion we do give our trip away in conjunction with various promotions...."

In general, our investigation leads us to believe:

(1) The promotion is legal although of questionable value;

(2) The company is cleared by the Better Business Bureau (phone 813-854-1154 and use code 813-872-6339 for recorded response) in the Tampa area;

(3) People should NEVER give their credit card number over the phone unless they have initiated the call and placed an order to be charged to the card.

Incidentally, Kezar said he has not yet been paid for his work at the show. Neither has he returned the show booth materials that were shipped to him (other than the registration slips which were shipped by Federal Express Monday at the company's expense). He says he told the person who arranged for his employment that the booth materials will be shipped when the payment for service is received.

Area state parks are preparing for visitors

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Splashes of green grass, popping buds, and chirping birds have already invaded Northwest Minnesota. Lake Bronson, Old Mill and Hayes Lake State Parks are preparing for this onslaught of wildlife and the visitors who will follow.

Park employees are busy flattening roads, fixing picnic tables, painting, bleaching water lines, cleaning and, in Lake Bronson's case, filing lakes.

Parks are open year-around, but the numbers of visitors start increasing on the fishing opener and remain fairly consistent until Labor Day, in early September.

In 1992, 152,244 people visited Northwest Minnesota State Parks, including Old Mill, 27,150; Lake Bronson, 98,094; and Hayes Lake, 37,000.

"People are getting anxious," said Hayes Lake park manager Dan Fischer who took off the snow plow this week. "This is the slowest time of the season," Fischer said. "The snow is gone (no skiers or snowmobilers) and it's too early to camp."

Fischer recently received his first reservation from a group of Boy Scouts for a late April campout.

Rustic campsites, with no showers and pit toilets are open year-round. Sanitation buildings, with flush toilets and showers, open in mid-May.

Lake Bronson tentatively plans to reopen their sanitation building by the fishing opener; Hayes Lake, May 22, and Old Mill, May 10 (Victoria Day) or 15. Old Mill park manager Chris Weir-Koetter said opening sanitation buildings on Canadian holiday Victoria Day puzzles park officials in southern parts of the state.

However Canadian tourists compose a large percentage of visitors and campers at Northern Minnesota state parks. At Lake Bronson 20 to 25 per cent of the total visitors are from Canada and 55 per cent of the campers are from Canada.

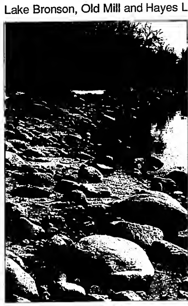
State parks don't hibernate in the winter. Thousands of skiers and snowmobilers frequent the parks. People also hike, snowshoe, slide and birdwatch in the winter. Some people occasionally camp during the winter.

Weir-Koetter said a few people held winter barbeques and potlucks in the heated Old Mill picnic shelter.

Lake Bronson

Lake Bronson was drained after Labor day last year for the first time in its 56-year history to kill undesirable fish, such as suckers.

The undesirable fish swam along the bottom of the lake, killing plants and eating spawn. After draining the lake to a low level, it was treated with a toxicant to kill the fish.



The lake bottom held a few surprises for park manager Garry Barvels. Tree stumps with cross-cut saw and ax blade marks still littered the ground. They were originally cut in 1936 by Works Progress Administration workers who built the lake.

Barvels said they found scores of fishing lures (the older brass and copper lures were in better shape than the newer steel lures).

They also found a 15-year old outboard motor, many bottles and cans, tackle boxes, a few rods and reels and remnants of an old boat.

The park remodified the dam's

Exposed shoreline of Lake Bronson quickly vanished as the lake filled to its original level. Lake Bronson State Park drained the lake last fall so it could treat it with toxicants to kill undesirable fish. Runoff filled the lake in five weeks.

Ice and water lap up against the Lake Bronson dam last Wednesday. The lake level was down four feet, but had filled by Thursday. It was drained last fall and treated with a toxicant to kill undesirable fish. Lake Bronson State Park also repaired the dam, a job which previously would have required divers. The park began filling the lake March 8.

Travel offer no prize winner

Following the Home, Sport and Family Show held last weekend at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls, a number of phone calls have been received by The Times and local law enforcement center regarding a travel package promotion by A&E Travel of Tampa, FL.

Callers have questioned the legitimacy of the promotion, said they had been told by telephone solicitors that they had won vacation trips, been treated rudely by the callers, pressured to purchase the vacation package and asked for their credit card numbers immediately to "guarantee" their package.

From what The Times and local law enforcement personnel have been able to determine, it would appear that the company uses deceptive and high pressure marketing tactics but does provide what the language of the package says will be provided. We do not know if what will be provided is what the phone solicitors promise or the purchaser expects to receive.

Rick Kezar of Thief River Falls, who operated the booth at the show, was hired through Job Service by L & G Marketing. He said the information he was provided by the company to describe the tour package was different from what was offered by the phone callers. For instance, he was told the package included stays at the Airport Hilton in Florida, Sun Club Resort in the Bahamas and cruising on the Viking Princess. Callers used other lodging facilities. Transportation to and from Florida was not included in the package.

Price generally quoted for the package was $199 per person with a push for two people at $398. The callers led persons who had signed registration slips at the show to believe that they had been "winners," or specially selected, and insisted on immediate reservations or the "opportunity" would be passed on to someone else.

Information on the back of the registration slips used at the show booth states: This fantastic 6 day/5 night vacation in Florida and the Bahamas will be offered to selected registrants based upon their demographics. If you are selected, you will be given the opportunity to take advantage of our vacation offer at up to 70 per cent below the retail value. This promotion does not involve Time Share drawings nor does anyone win! On occasion we do give our trip away in conjunction with various promotions...."

In general, our investigation leads us to believe:

(1) The promotion is legal although of questionable value;

(2) The company is cleared by the Better Business Bureau (phone 813-854-1154 and use code 813-872-6339 for recorded response) in the Tampa area;

(3) People should NEVER give their credit card number over the phone unless they have initiated the call and placed an order to be charged to the card.

Incidentally, Kezar said he has not yet been paid for his work at the show. Neither has he returned the show booth materials that were shipped to him (other than the registration slips which were shipped by Federal Express Monday at the company's expense). He says he told the person who arranged for his employment that the booth materials will be shipped when the payment for service is received.

Area state parks are preparing for visitors

Lake Bronson, Old Mill and Hayes Lake State Parks were host to 152,244 people during their 1992 operations

Exposed shoreline of Lake Bronson quickly vanished as the lake filled to its originol level. Lake Bronson State Park drained the lake last fall so it could treat it with toxicants to kill undesirable fish. Runoff filled the lake in five weeks.

Staff Writer

Splashes of green grass, popping buds, and chirping birds have already invaded Northwest Minnesota. Lake Bronson, Old Mill and Hayes Lake State Parks are preparing for this onslaught of wildlife and the visitors who will follow.

Park employees are busy flattening roads, fixing picnic tables, painting, bleaching water lines, cleaning and, in Lake Bronson's case, filing lakes.

Parks are open year-around, but the numbers of visitors start increasing on the fishing opener and remain fairly consistent until Labor Day, in early September.

In 1992, 152,244 people visited Northwest Minnesota State Parks, including Old Mill, 27,150, Lake Bronson, 98,094; and Hayes Lake, 37,000.

"People are getting anxious," said Hayes Lake park manager Dan Fischer who took off the snow plow this week. "This is the slowest time of the season," Fischer said. "The snow is gone (no skiers or snowmobilers) and it's too early to camp."

Fischer recently received his first reservation from a group of Boy Scouts for a late April campout.

Rustic campsites, with no showers and pit toilets are open year-round. Sanitation buildings, with flush toilets and showers, open in mid-May.

Lake Bronson tentatively plans to reopen their sanitation building by the fishing opener; Hayes Lake, May 22, and Old Mill, May 10 (Victoria Day) or 15. Old Mill park manager Chris Weir-Koetter said opening sanitation buildings on Canadian holiday Victoria Day puzzles park officials in southern parts of the state.

However Canadian tourists compose a large percentage of visitors and campers at Northern Minnesota state parks. At Lake Bronson 20 to 25 per cent of the total visitors are from Canada and 55 per cent of the campers are from Canada.

State parks don't hibernate in the winter. Thousands of skiers and snowmobilers frequent the parks. People also hike, snowshoe, slide and birdwatch in the winter. Some people occasionally camp during the winter.

Weir-Koetter said a few people held winter barbeques and potlucks in the heated Old Mill picnic shelter.

Ice ond water lap up ogoinst tho Lake Bronson dam last Wednesday. The lake level was down four feet, but had filled by Thursday. It was drained last fall and treated with a toxicant to kill undesirable fish. Lake Bronson State Park also repaired the dam, a job which previously would have required divers. The park began filling the lake Match 8.

Lake Bronson

Lake Bronson was drained after Labor day last year for the first time in its 56-year history to kill undesirable fish, such as suckers.

The undesirable fish swam along the bottom of the lake, killing plants and eating spawn. After draining the lake to a low level, it was treated with a toxicant to kill the fish.

The lake bottom held a few surprises for park manager Garry Barvels. Tree stumps with cross-cut saw and ax blade marks still littered the ground. They were originally cut in 1936 by Works Progress Administration workers who built the lake.

Barvels said they found scores of fishing lures (the older brass and copper lures were in better shape than the newer steel lures).

They also found a 15-year old outboard motor, many bottles and cans, tackle boxes, a few rods and reels and remnants of an old boat.

The park remodified the dam's

Improvements planned for Piney Pinecreek airport

Piney, MB — Canadian and American officials met recently at Piney Pinecreek border airport, the world's only combinational airport. The facility, which is jointly owned and operated by the state of Minnesota and the local government of District of Piney, Manitoba, has received $750,000 to make improvements. The runway will be tarred and lengthened, which will allow the airport to be used as a check-off point, relieving the pressure on the Winnipeg airport. An average of 30 mostly small twin-engine planes per month use the airport from the U.S. side alone. (Greenbush Tribune)

No one was injured, but the situation dramatizes the need for extreme caution on the ice this time of year, according to the Lake of the Wood sheriff's office. (Baudette Region)

Natvik elected district rep in volunteer forum

Barbara Natvik of rural Thief River Falls was elected Northwest District Representative when she and Tawnya Morkrid, also of Thief River Falls, recently represented Pennington county at the Minnesota 4-H Volunteer Forum at Cragun's conference center near Brainerd.

Theme of the conference was "Key to 4-H Success" and it challenged volunteers attending through speakers and workshops to find their own personal key to success in their role as 4-H volunteers.

Keynote speakers during the conference were David Horsager and John Behrends. Horsager, a 12-year 4-H club member, former state Ambassador and Minnesota 4-H Federation president, was the 1993 state winner in the Communication Arts contest. He stressed the importance of a positive attitude, setting worthwhile goals and taking action on those goals.

Behrends, Mankato educator and freelance motivational speaker, presented his approach to developing effective leadership.

Delegates received information on appreciating the importance of volunteerism in an era of change and focused on volunteer leadership skills that would enable participants to utilize the forum experience in strengthening the 4-H program in their own club and county.

Workshops and skill sessions included such areas as volunteer roles on county and state levels, single families and non-traditional families in 4-H, international youth exchange programs, youth entrepreneurs, Cloverbud programs, legislative awareness, citizen politics, chaperones, Community Pride, state and county fair guidelines, environmental stewardship and natural resources, shooting sports, gardening, livestock and home economics projects training, demonstration helps, crafts, clowning and others.

Volunteers also had an opportunity to share ideas with fellow 4-H volunteers from across the state through interaction at district caucuses, mealtime and visual displays of new projects and activities.

The eighth annual forum was planned and conducted by the Minnesota 4-H Adult Volunteers Association in cooperation with Minnesota Extension. Annual business meeting with election of officers was held in conjunction with the forum.

Investment income was $34,470 and increase to policyholder equity was $34,702. Total admitted assets are now $502,856. There were 106 policyholders in attendance at the meeting.

Wilbur Hallstrom and Vernon Plante were reelected to the board of directors and Norrie Thune was elected to succeed Silas Hanson who declined to run for reelection.

Chairman Norman Dufault presided at the meeting and minutes of the previous annual meeting were read by secretary Charles Naplin.

Speakers were Cliff Hanson of North Star Mutual and Bruce Lillevold of the Reinsurance Association of Minnesota. Bray-Gentilly Mutual has recently purchased a combustible gas detector to check homes for gas leaks.

Early bird drawing for $20 went to Donald Mosbeck, $10 drawing to Louis Plante and $5 prizes to Joyce Carlson, Xavier Payment, Stella Nesland, Carl Larson, Dorine Trudeau, George Genereux, Tom Huotari, Virginia Dufault, Ted Amiot and Orlan Stoiaas.

Improvements planned for Piney Pinecreek airport

Piney, MB — Canadian and American officials met recently at Piney Pinecreek border airport, the world's only combinational airport. The facility, which is jointly owned and operated by the state of Minnesota and the local government of District of Piney, Manitoba, has received $750,000 to make improvements. The runway will be tarred and lengthened, which will allow the airport to be used as a check-off point, relieving the pressure on the Winnipeg airport. An average of 30 mostly small twin-engine planes per month use the airport from the U.S. side alone. (Greenbush Tribune)

The committee is looking for color photos in the following categories: a place to live, worship, learn, play, shop and be served; a place for business, industry; and a place where people help people. Snowmobiles sink on Lake of the Woods

Baudette — The worsening condition on parts of Lake of the Woods was dramatized early last Sunday morning when two snowmobiles carrying four people went down just west of Pine Island. No one was injured, but the situation dramatizes the need for extreme caution on the ice this time of year, according to the Lake of the Wood sheriff's office. (Baudette Region)

Crookston community theatre plans musical revue

Crookston — The Crookston community theatre has announced plans for "Seasons of Song," its spring musical revue dinner theatre. Narrator for the production will be Ray Frydenlund. Ruth and Annette Wilder will be accompanists with Mary Noel in charge of choreography. The revue will be presented in the evening May 13-15 at the Northland Inn with a matinee performance on May 16. (Crookston Daily Times)

Natvik elected district rep in volunteer forum

Barbara Natvik of rural Thief River Falls was elected Northwest District Representative when she and Tawnya Markrid, also of Thief River Falls, recently represented Pennington county at the Minnesota 4-H Volunteer Forum at Cragun's conference center near Brainerd.

Theme of the conference was "Key to 4-H Success" and it challenged volunteers attending through speakers and workshops to find their own personal key to success in their role as 4-H volunteers.

Keynote speakers during the conference were David Horsager and John Behrends. Horsager, a 12-year 4-H club member, former state Ambassador and Minnesota 4-H Federation president, was the 1993 state winner in the Communication Arts contest. He stressed the importance of a positive attitude, setting worthwhile goals and taking action on those goals.

Behrends, Mankato educator and freelance motivational speaker, presented his approach to developing effective leadership.

Delegates received information on appreciating the importance of volunteerism in an era of change and focused on volunteer leadership skills that would enable participants to utilize the forum experience in strengthening the 4-H program in their own club and county.

Workshops and skill sessions included such areas as volunteer roles on county and state levels, single families and non-traditional families in 4-H, international youth exchange programs, youth entrepreneurs, Cloverbud programs, legislative awareness, citizen politics, chaperones, Community Pride, state and county fair guidelines, environmental stewardship and natural resources, shooting sports, gardening, livestock and home economics projects training, demonstration helps, crafts, clowning and others.

Volunteers also had an opportunity to share ideas with fellow 4-H volunteers from across the state through interaction at district caucuses, mealtime and visual displays of new projects and activities.

The eighth annual forum was planned and conducted by the Minnesota 4-H Adult Volunteers Association in cooperation with Minnesota Extension. Annual business meeting with election of officers was held in conjunction with the forum.

Bray-Gentilly Mutual meeting

Income of $411,119, expenses of $114,644 and net loss payments of $163,910 for the 1992 operating year were reported at the annual meeting of the Bray-Gentilly Mutual Insurance company Monday, March 29, at the Red Lake Falls community center.

Investment income was $34,470 and increase to policyholder equity was $34,702. Total admitted assets are now $502,856. There were 106 policyholders in attendance at the meeting.

Wilbur Hallstram and Vernon Plante were reelected to the board of directors and Norrie Thune was elected to succeed Silas Hanson who declined to run for reelection.

Chairman Norman Dufault presided at the meeting and minutes of the previous annual meeting were read by secretary Charles Naplin.

Speakers were Cliff Hanson of North Star Mutual and Bruce Lillevold of the Reinsurance Association of Minnesota. Bray-Gentilly Mutual has recently purchased a combustible gas detector to check homes for gas leaks.

Early bird drawing for $20 went to Donald Mosbeck, $10 drawing to Louis Plante and $5 prizes to Jayce Carlson, Xavier Payment, Stella Nesland, Carl Larson, Dorine Trudeau, George Genereux, Tom Huotari, Virginia Dufault, Ted Amiot and Orlan Stolaas.

Other prize winners were Gerald Bregier, blanket; Adolph Brule and William Larson, lightning surge protectors; Arlo Schalin, G. H. Anderson and Sharon Reindeau, flashlights; Cecelia Suprenant, toy tractor; and Laina Eskeli, fire extinguisher.

To The Editor:

To protect the habitat of the Spotted Owl, cutting logs on millions of acres of timberland in the Pacific Northwest has been curtailed. Twenty thousand workers in the timber industry have lost their jobs, a severe lumber shortage has resulted and the price of lumber has skyrocketed.

Why all this fuss about the Spotted Owl? The controversy is only about one subspecies that differs only slightly from other owls. The evidence that this owl is endangered is far from being proven. Because of replanting (tree farming), the nation's forest land is about the same as it was 50 years ago. Anyone who flies over that area must wonder what the fuss is all about.

In the Spotted Owl controversy, there are losers and winners. The losers are the workers who lost their jobs and the people who must now pay $5,000 to $8,000 more for a new home.

The winners are the environmentalists who have won political power and they want to use it to roll our lifestyles back to the horse and buggy age. At the heart of their movement is an attack on private property. They feel that they know best how things should run, and that decisions on property use should be taken away from the owners.

To The Editor:
Watching the media coverage of how President Bill Clinton got his budget through the Senate is appalling. What we have occurring is not democracy in action but a dictatorship manipulating our senators to give total unquestioning support through political blackmail.

This is the same pattern of behavior that children use: "It's my game, play by my rules or you can't play." The difference is that is the federal treasury, funded by our taxes, being used. Government policy being passed by coercion of its members is repugnant.

Things have not changed one bit in Washington. The "pork barrel" is rolling downhill full speed for those willing to sell out their own integrity and that of the public who voted for them. For those willing to do what they feel is fiscally responsible and morally right the guillotine has been rolled out. As they vote for issues on the basis of what is actually right for the country as a whole instead of what is "politically correct" they sacrifice their futures.

It's time we tell Bill Clinton and all of our Senators and Representatives we want our country run with integrity and common sense. How can he or any of them work together properly unless it is done with mutual respect instead of manipulation? Send them this message or the federal deficit will continue to grow and our children's future will not be!

Sincerely,
Gary Lund

To The Editor:
I was shocked as I listened to the news on KTRF this morning when I heard an eight-year-old boy brandished a knife at Knox school yesterday. It was good the teacher took it away from him so no one got hurt.

In the first place, you parents count to 50 to cool yourself down so you can think straight and with a cool mind ask the boy why he did it; don't jump all over him.

It was stated other kids had been teasing him. I would give the same advice to you, the parents of the kids who did the teasing. I think parents of all children should sit down with their children and explain to them that everyone's different; some can't talk right, some are poor so they can't have nice clothes, and there are many other differences but we are all human beings and need acceptance.

Grown-ups should not show prejudice either mentally or physically as you are your own children's best teachers and maybe something you said or did has given your children the idea that picking on someone else is acceptable.

Some children can be mean and others easily offended. I think the worst thing parents can do is get mean with their children. Until they know all the facts, it can't be dealt with fairly. What is the cause of all the child and young people's suicides? Do they feel they are no good and no one loves them? Let's all work together for the good of everyone, young and old, and see if some of these bad situations can be changed into more peaceful and happy times for everyone.

Sometimes a few good swats, not beating, are necessary. Children need correctings, but we, the grown-ups, better walk and talk the way we want our children to do. Remember to walk carefully, for the little ones are following in your footsteps.

Sincerely,
Lillie R. Asp

We Pray For Children

Coming up soon (April 18-24) is the annual observance of the Week of the Young Child. This year the observance, sponsored nationally by the National Association for the Education of Young Children, has the theme "Young Children: Their Future In Our Hands."

The Child Care Resource and Referral unit of the Tri-Valley Opportunity Council, Inc. in Crookston has distributed some advance material in regard to the observance. In this material is a heart-tugging bit of prose by Ina J. Hughs entitled "We Pray for Children." It is a clever contrasting of conditions that calls attention of parents and others to the annoyances of parenthood relative to the plight of far too many children in our world today.

Having just completed several days of caring for young grandchildren, and being reminded once again of the amount of attention and care young children need to be safe and healthy, we found the prayer to be especially compelling. We are pleased to print it here and hope it will affect others as it has touched us:

WE PRAY FOR CHILDREN
by Ina J. Hughs

We pray for children
who sneak popsicles before supper, who erase holes in math workbooks, who can never find their shoes.
And we pray for those who stare at photographers from behind barbed wire, who can't bound down the street in a new pair of sneakers, who never "counted potatoes," who are born in places we wouldn't be caught dead, who never go to the circus,
who live in an X-rated world.
We pray for children
who bring us sticky kisses and fistsful of dandelions, who hug us in a hurry and forget their lunch money.
And we pray for those who never get dessert, who have no safe place blanket to drag behind them, who watch their parents watch them die,
who can't find any bread to steal,
who don't have any rooms to clean up,
whose pictures aren't on anybody's dresser, whose monsters are real.
We pray for children who spend all their allowance before Tuesday, who throw tantrums in the grocery store and pick at their food,
who like ghost stories,
who shove dirty clothes under the bed and never rinse out the tub, who get visits from the tooth fairy,
who don't like to be kissed in front of the carpool, who squirm in church or temple and scream in the phone, whose tears we sometimes laugh at and whose smiles can make us cry.
And we pray for those whose nightmares come in the daytime, who will eat anything,
who have never seen a dentist,
who aren't spoiled by anybody, who go to bed hungry and cry themselves to sleep, who live and move, but have no being.
We pray for children who want to be carried and for those who must;
For those we never give up on and for those who don't get a second chance;
For those we smother.....and for those who will grab the hand of anybody kind enough to offer it.

Before You Strangle Your Doctor.....

If you didn't read about the poll conducted by Celinda Lake of the Greenberg-Lake polling firm on public perception of earnings by medical doctors, hospital administrators, insurance and drug company executives earlier this week, you probably heard about it on radio or television. The poll asked the people it contacted what they thought the average health professional received in income and what they believed would be a fair income for those professions.

The survey results were released by an advocacy group called Families USA, whose executive director is Ron Pollack. That group used American Medical Association figures to show that actual average incomes exceeded the poll respondents' estimates by substantial amounts.

Averages can be dangerous things. We have often said before that it is easy to drown in a river that averages only three feet deep.

Release of the poll and AMA figures has only one purpose—to inflame public opinion against "profiteering" by health professionals and to put them on the defensive in pushes for health care legislation.

"But don't they deserve it?" you ask. "Aren't they profiteering by making more money than they should reasonably expect to make at the expense of people who can ill afford it? Shouldn't the government step in and put some limits on those earnings?"

To answer the last question first, it is a loud and definite "NO!" The government has no business telling any private citizen how much he or she can earn in legitimate enterprise. Government can tax that income—and it most assuredly does—but it should never be allowed to set limits on private earnings.

Nor should the ability of a person to earn substantial income prejudice the public or the government against him or her. Capitalism, upon which our nation is based and under which it rose to great heights, encourages accumulation of capital by individuals. Wealth is an incentive for innovation and effort and unrestricted earnings are motivation to strive and to succeed.

As Americans we must guard against the politicians who would divide us by economic classes. We can not afford as a nation to eliminate the incentive to earn nor to tear down those who have developed the opportunity to gain wealth.

While it does indeed seem that areas of health care have become excessively high, we must be extremely careful how we attempt to make it available to all citizens. As in nearly all areas of free enterprise, the key lies in competition to keep prices in line and public awareness to keep people responsible. In areas of health care where costs are excessive there is usually a monopolistic situation being exploited or no general public knowledge of factors contributing to costs charged.

And it must be admitted that health care available in the United States is pretty darn good, even if it does seem costly. So before you get yourself into a rage over average income and strangle your doctor, give a bit of thought to how you would get along without him or her when the need arises. When it comes to getting the care you need when you need it in an emergency, cost is not the primary consideration. Availability is.

Three Newfolden men jailed in deer shining case

Three Newfolden residents were each sentenced to 91 days in the Marshall County jail after pleading guilty February 23 to a gross misdemeanor charge of deer shining.

Sentenced were Jeremie Berg, 18; Ryan Olson, 19; and Jeremy York, 19; all from Newfolden. Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy also assessed fines and court costs totaling $262.50 for each defendant, plus $600 restitution for one white-tailed deer taken illegally. A .270 caliber hunting rifle was confiscated from Berg, and all three men will lose big-game hunting privileges for three years.

The men were arrested December 12 by local conservation officers from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR), following a poaching incident which took place in West Valley Township, northwest of Newfolden. According to the court administrator's office in Marshall county, Ryan Olson also faces a number of burglary charges in several Minnesota counties.

The taking of big game with the aid of artificial light is a gross misdemeanor under state law, punishable by up to one-year in jail and/or a maximum fine of $3,000.

The Minnesota Wildlife Restitution Act of 1989 requires judges to assess convicted poachers the established restitution value for fish, game and non-game wildlife, in addition to any fines or jail time imposed. One hundred per cent of restitution money is returned to the state game and fish fund; while fines are usually split 50/50 between the game and fish fund and the county where the crime was committed.

St. Bernard's plans open house for kindergarten

St. Bernard's will be holding kindergarten visitation and open house on Thursday, April 8, for children who will be in kindergarten next year.

Three sessions have been scheduled: 8:45 to 10 a.m., 10:30 to 11:45 a.m. and 12:45 to 2 p.m. Parents are invited to go to the Parish library while their child is in the kindergarten room. The kindergarten teacher is Mrs. Patty Brekkestran.

There will be a slide presentation and parents will have an opportunity to ask questions. Please call the school office at 681-1539 to schedule a time to visit.

The kindergarten provides a transition environment from home to school. The kindergarten child learns best by direct, sensory experiences — touching, hearing, seeing, tasting and smelling. This curriculum provides a variety of opportunities in which children can interact with the environment and others to learn about their own world. In a carefully planned framework that is flexible and supportive, children learn about love, develop self-esteem and show concern for others. The curriculum includes a combination of both teacher-directed and child-initiated activities. It addresses the whole child and reflects a balance and integration of all areas: language arts, such as listening, speaking, writing and reading, mathematics, art, music, physical education, science, health and social studies. Learning centers, play areas and age-appropriate materials contribute to the learning environment.

All subject areas are evaluated on a seven year evaluation cycle which keeps the materials current.

Violence Intervention Project in Thief River Falls, which provides emergency services to battered women and sexual assault survivors throughout Region I, sent 12 formerly battered women, program volunteers and staff to St. Paul earlier this year for Women's Day at the Capitol. Self-Empowerment for Low Income Families, an advocacy program for low income people, sent eight women. Participants met with Rep. Wally Sparby, Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, Sen. Roger Moe and Sheila Wellstone, wife of U.S. Sen. Paul Wellstone. They presented information on the problems faced by battered women and their children in this area and discussed anti-stalking legislation, increased funding for battered women programs and future funding of children's safety centers. The trip was made possible by a grant from the Minnesota Women's Consortium. Public meeting on juvenile justice system April 6

The juvenile court system in Minnesota will be the subject of a series of meetings planned by Ninth District Judge Larry G. Jorgenson.

As a member of the Minnesota Juvenile Justice Task Force, Judge Jorgenson is interested in getting input from the general public and the various agencies involved with juveniles in this area of the State of Minnesota. In order to do so, he has scheduled a number of public meetings throughout northwest Minnesota.

The schedule and location of the meetings is as follows:

- April 5, Polk County courthouse in Crookston at 5 p.m.;
- April 6, Pennington County courthouse in Thief River Falls at 5 p.m.;
- April 7, Mahnomen County courthouse in Mahnomen at 5 p.m.;
- April 12, Marshall County courthouse in Warren at 5 p.m.;
- April 22, Warroad high school in Warroad at 4 p.m.;
- April 27, Crow Wing County courthouse in Brainerd at 5 p.m.;
- April 29, Kandiyohi County courthouse in Willmar at 3 p.m.

Some of the issues to be discussed during the meetings include: Should jury trials be used in juvenile court?; Should attorneys be appointed automatically for all juveniles?; Should traffic law violations be removed from juvenile court and handled the same as adults?; Should serious criminal offenses be removed from juvenile court and handled the same as adults?; Should juvenile court have dispositional (sentencing) guidelines?; and generally, does juvenile court work?

"The juvenile court system in Minnesota belongs to the people and it is vitally important to have your input for guidance," said Judge Jorgenson.

Forums provide senior citizens a chance to discuss needs

Area Agency on Aging of the Northwest Regional Development Commission is inviting seniors and other interested individuals to speak out about senior needs at a county-wide needs forum to be held at the NWRDC Area Agency on Aging meeting room, 525 Brooks Avenue South in Thief River Falls, on Tuesday, April 20, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

"As the planning entity for senior services in the seven northwest counties of Minnesota, the Area Agency on Aging is responsible for periodically identifying needs of senior citizens and targeting Older Americans Act resources for services that help seniors maintain independence for as long as possible," stays Faith Rud, director of the Agency on Aging.

Individuals in attendance will be asked to indicate the five services that they feel are most helpful in assisting seniors remain in their homes and communities. Short presentations about existing services will also take place.

"An important part of NWAAA activities is working toward a comprehensive system of community-based services for seniors," Rud said. "We must work together to address growing needs with shrinking funds.

"This forum is a collaborative effort. Otto Bremer Foundation is providing partial funding and the Pennington County Committee on Aging is a co-sponsor. Pennington County Social Services and other agencies will provide information about services," she added.

Participants at the session will also be asked to engage in a short brainstorming session about how senior needs can be met within communities through enhancement of local efforts. Refreshments and door prizes will be provided by the Pennington County Committee on Aging.

NWAAA will utilize the input received for developing priorities and work plans to address the needs of seniors, Rud said. The area plan is then submitted to the Minnesota Board on Aging and serves as the NWRDC contract through which approximately $500,000 in Older Americans Act and state funds are received annually.

For further information contact Faith Rud at 525 Brooks Avenue South in Thief River Falls or call 681-2637 or 1-800-450-2637.

City gets report on proposed storm sewer

Thief River Falls city council accepted a feasibility report for a proposed storm sewer in the southeast area of Thief River Falls Tuesday afternoon.

The proposal would make a storm sewer available to the new elementary school and residences in Noreen's first addition. The proposed storm sewer improvements are required as a prerequisite to additional street improvements in Noreen's first addition involving construction of curb and gutter and bituminous paving. The streets in Noreen's first addition were excavated and backfilled under city specifications, for urban design, in 1977 by the developers. The developers were allowed to install a temporary surface drainage system until property to the south of Evergreen street was developed and a permanent storm sewer system could be installed.

According to the feasibility report submitted by the city's technical and engineering service director, Ron Lindberg, in 1982, the proposed improvements would consist of the installation of about 800 lineal feet of storm sewer in Noreen's first addition and 1,700 lineal feet of storm sewer south of Evergreen street. The sewer would discharge at the new centerline culvert proposed by the County Highway department at Pennington avenue and County road 61. The County highway department will improve the ditch outlet west of Pennington avenue to the Red Lake river.

The storm sewer design will be based upon five-year storm frequency and will be dependent upon a shallow ditch system through the school property to carry major surface runoff from Noreen's first addition.

The estimated project cost is $136,000 with 51 residential lots, park property, Abundant Life church property and School District 564 benefitting from the improvements.

A hearing will be held on the improvements on April 26.

Wallberg earns praise

John Wallberg, a 1992 Lincoln High School graduate, has made a major impact on both the football and track programs of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he is a freshman engineering major.

Wallberg stepped right into the M.I.T. starting line-up in football at defensive tackle, and despite playing with nagging injuries and illness throughout the 1992 season, he was the Engineers' leading tackler among interior lineman with 11 solo stops and 9 assists. Five of his tackles were for losses. He recorded one sack and recovered a fumble.

In a news release from the Cambridge school, M.I.T head football coach Dwight Smith said, "John is one of the best linemen to come into our program in some time. He was a major contributor."

Track and field, however, is where Wallberg has truly shone. Engineers track and field coach Halston Taylor says, "John is one of the best natural athletes I have seen at M.I.T. He is almost a 'shoe-in' for future All-America honors."

Taylor based his praise on Wallberg's performances in the weight events. Despite never before competing in the 35-pound weight throw, Wallberg broke a 23-year-old freshman school record with a throw of 52-4 3/4 in the New England Division III Championships. The previous record holder was Brian Moore, who later in his career went on to become a Division I All-America.

Wallberg's throw, good for fourth in Division III and sixth in the All-Division portion of the New England Championships, ranked as 14th best in the nation in Division III in 1992-93.

Wallberg also competed in the shot put during the indoor season, and is expected to add the discus and hammer to his repertoire during the outdoor season.

Golf Club greens, ground superintendent appointed

Chuck Tuthill has been named greens and ground superintendent at the Thief River Golf Club, it was announced by club officials.

A New York native with a turf grass management degree from Anoka Technical College, Tuthill worked previously as an assistant superintendent at the Elk River Country Club.

Tuthill and his wife Sue are the parents of four children – Ammie, age 10; Jason 8; Chrissy, 6; and Jack, 5.

"Although we have only been here a short period of time, we are very impressed with the community spirit of Thief River Falls," said Tuthill. "We have noticed the genuine concern that people of the town have for their fellow citizens."

Work will continue throughout the summer on the Thief River Golf Club expansion that will convert the operation from a 9-hole to an 18-hole course. Two new bridges spanning the Thief River connecting the new 9-hole lay-out with the current course are in place. The project is tentatively scheduled to be completed early this fall.

A sprinkling system, featuring new technology, will be in operation in both portions of the course this summer.

Chuck Tuthill

"I'm sure most in the community have not had the opportunity to see the new construction underway," said Tuthill. "As someone who enjoys the beauty of a golf course, as well as a challenge when playing, the new nine is awesome. This summer will be exciting as the Thief River Golf Club takes steps toward becoming one of the finest golf courses in northwestern Minnesota."

Gunstad All-North Sub-Section 8AA

John Gunstad, a 6-3 senior forward from Thief River Falls, was one of ten players named to the 1992-93 All-North Sub-Section 8AA boys high school basketball team, it was announced this week.

Others on the post-season honor squad included Karl Waogo, Alexandria; Tony Newby and Jason Caron, Bemidji; Toby Steinmetz, Detroit Lakes; Fritz Skinner and Ryan Retzlaff, Fergus Falls; along with Jim Argent, Trent Leitheiser and Sean Greenwaldt, Moorhead.

Pennington County General Crime Victim Advocacy Program is located in the Pennington county attorney's office on LaBree avenue in Thief River Falls. Bonnie Anderson, director of the program, is responsible for responding to needs of crime victims. She works closely with law enforcement officials and Violence Intervention Project (VIP). Violence Intervention Project administers the program through a grant from the MN Corrections Dept. Pictured from left are Dave Olin, Pennington County Attorney, Bonnie Anderson, Desirae Verner, director of VIP, and Al Rogalla, assistant to the Pennington county attorney.

New program protects rights of crime victims

by David Hill
Associate Editor

The plight of a crime victim in Pennington county has improved. Ten years ago, even two years ago, victim rights in the courtroom were seldom a matter of concern. Today, the Pennington County General Crime Victim Advocacy program is making sure that victims have a voice in the legal system and have appropriate avenues for compensation.

In January of 1993, Violence Intervention Project (VIP) obtained funding from the Department of Corrections and from Pennington county to develop and implement a General Crime Victim Advocacy Program.

Bonnie Anderson operates the Pennington County Crime Victim Advocacy office out of the Pennington County Attorney's office. The program, which is administered by VIP, offers services to primary and secondary victims of felony and misdemeanor crimes. Victims of the following crimes are eligible to receive services: sexual assault; physical assault, including domestic assault; manslaughter; murder; residential burglary and property crimes; criminal vehicular operation resulting in death or injury; robbery; and terroristic threats.

Anderson's role in the process of serving victims, which could include victims, witnesses and family members of victims, is to inform victims of their rights, help them through the criminal court procedure, help them obtain restitution or reparation, and refer them to any professional counselling services they may require. Despite its limited resources, there is no cost to the victims.

The initial contact is a result of any report made to the law enforcement center. This initial contact informs the victim of the program services and of their rights. The program links victims with existing services. A victim may choose to utilize the services of the Victim Advocacy Program as well as other services.

Many people are unaware of their rights as victims. These rights include notification during various stages of the court process, the right to participate in prosecution, the right to protection from harm, and the right to apply for financial assistance.

Anderson timed her public announcement of the program to coincide with National Crime Victim's Rights week, which is April 25 through May 1, 1993. Anderson noted that during the week, the rights of victims of crime will be emphasized. She also noted that during 1991, there were 122 murders in Minnesota, 1,791 rapes, 4,356 robberies and 7,840 reports of aggravated assault.

Although Anderson is just making known the program to the public, she has been very active. In January when the program was just getting underway she anticipated working with about 60 clients. Less than three months later she has had contact with 43 victims.

Anderson is not alone. She receives the support of VIP, a board of directors and the Pennington county attorney's office. As she becomes more familiar with the program herself and makes contacts with individuals in the criminal justice system, she is finding that many other people support the crime victim advocacy program. She believes it is an encouraging sign in the effort to ensure victim rights.

"I find that few citizens know there are laws to protect the rights of victims and family members of victims, and that those rights are seldom addressed during the criminal justice process. One of the reasons for this is the lack of funding to hire personnel to work with the victims. Another reason is that the constitutional rights of alleged offenders have to be protected at all stages of the criminal justice process, therefore they receive the most attention," Anderson said.

For additional information regarding the program, victim rights, getting a speaker for an organization, or assistance, call the crime victim advocate, Bonnie Anderson, at (218) 681-8589 at the Pennington County Attorney's office located at 210 LaBree Avenue North, Thief River Falls.

Seek girl for role in opera this summer

Auditions will be held on Tuesday, April 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the choir room of the Red Lake Falls high school for the part of Beth in the opera "The Tender Land."

The opera will be performed on the Lou Schafer farm at Red Lake Falls on June 16. The University of Minnesota, Minneapolis School of Music is presenting the opera and will provide the other characters and the orchestra.

The part is written for a girl who might be between nine and 14 years old. The role calls for someone with a good singing and speaking voice.

Contact George French, director of music/theatre at the University of Minnesota—Crookston (phone 218-281-6510, extension 266) for more information or to attend the audition at Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls April 6.

Wallberg earns praise

John Wallberg, a 1992 Lincoln High School graduate, has made a major impact on both the football and track programs at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he is a freshman engineering major.

Wallberg stepped right into the M.I.T. starting line-up in football at defensive tackle, and despite playing with nagging injuries and illness throughout the 1992 season, he was the Engineers' leading tackler among interior lineman with 11 solo stops and 9 assists. Five of his tackles were for losses. He recorded one sack and recovered a fumble.

In a news release from the Cambridge school, M.I.T head football coach Dwight Smith said, "John is one of the best linemen to come into our program in some time. He was a major contributor."

Track and field, however, is where Wallberg has truly shone. Engineers track and field coach Halston Taylor says, "John is one of the best natural athletes I have seen at M.I.T. He is almost a 'shoe-in' for future All-America honors."

Taylor based his praise on Wallberg's performances in the weight events. Despite never before competing in the 35-pound weight throw, Wallberg broke a 23-year-old freshman school record with a throw of 52-4 3/4 in the New England Division III Championships. The previous record holder was Brian Moore, who later in his career went on to become a Division I All-America.

Wallberg's throw, good for fourth in Division III and sixth in the All-Division portion of the New England Championships, ranked as 14th best in the nation in Division III in 1992-93.

Wallberg also competed in the shot put during the indoor season, and is expected to add the discus and hammer to his repertoire during the outdoor season.

Golf Club greens, ground superintendent appointed

Chuck Tuthill

Chuck Tuthill has been named greens and ground superintendent at the Thief River Golf Club, it was announced by club officials.

A New York native with a turf grass management degree from Anoka Technical College, Tuthill worked previously as an assistant superintendent at the Elk River Country Club.

Tuthill and his wife Sue are the parents of four children – Ammie, age 10; Jason 8; Chrissy, 6; and Jack, 5.

"Although we have only been here a short period of time, we are very impressed with the community spirit of Thief River Falls," said Tuthill. "We have noticed the genuine concern that people of the town have for their fellow citizens."

Work will continue throughout the summer on the Thief River Golf Club expansion that will convert the operation from a 9-hole to an 18-hole course. Two new bridges spanning the Thief River connecting the new 9-hole lay-out with the current course are in place. The project is tentatively scheduled to be completed early this fall.

A sprinkling system, featuring new technology, will be in operation in both portions of the course this summer.

"I'm sure most in the community have not had the opportunity to see the new construction underway," said Tuthill. "As someone who enjoys the beauty of a golf course, as well as a challenge when playing, the new nine is awesome. This summer will be exciting as the Thief River Golf Club takes steps toward becoming one of the finest golf courses in northwestern Minnesota."

Pennington County General Crime Victim Advocacy Program is located in the Pennington county attorney's office on LaBree avenue in Thief River Falls. Bonnie Anderson, director of the program, is responsible for responding to needs of crime victims. She works closely with law enforcement officials and Violence Intervention Project (VIP). Violence Intervention Project administers the program through a grant from the MN Corrections Dept. Pictured from left are Dave Olin, Pennington County Attorney, Bonnie Anderson, Desiree Verner, director of VIP, and Al Rogalla, assistant to the Pennington county attorney.

New program protects rights of crime victims

by David Hill
Associate Editor

The plight of a crime victim in Pennington county has improved. Ten years ago, even two years ago, victim rights in the courtroom were seldom a matter of concern. Today, the Pennington County General Crime Victim Advocacy program is making sure that victims have a voice in the legal system and have appropriate avenues for compensation.

In January of 1993, Violence Intervention Project (VIP) obtained funding from the Department of Corrections and from Pennington county to develop and implement a General Crime Victim Advocacy Program.

Bonnie Anderson operates the Pennington County Crime Victim Advocacy office out of the Pennington County Attorney's office. The program, which is administered by VIP, offers services to primary and secondary victims of felony and misdemeanor crimes. Victims of the following crimes are eligible to receive services: sexual assault; physical assault, including domestic assault; manslaughter; murder; residential burglary and property crimes; criminal vehicular operation resulting in death or injury; robbery; and terroristic threats.

Anderson's role in the process of serving victims, which could include victims, witnesses and family members of victims, is to inform victims of their rights, help them through the criminal court procedure, help them obtain restitution or reparation, and refer them to any professional counseling services they may require. Despite its limited resources, there is no cost to the victims.

The initial contact is a result of any report made to the law enforcement center. This initial contact informs the victim of the program services and of their rights. The program links victims with existing services. A victim may choose to utilize the services of the Victim Advocacy Program as well as other services.

Many people are unaware of their rights as victims. These rights include notification during various stages of the court process, the right to participate in prosecution, the right to protection from harm, and the right to apply for financial assistance.

Anderson timed her public announcement of the program to coincide with National Crime Victim's Rights week, which is April 25 through May 1, 1993. Anderson noted that during the week, the rights of victims of crime will be emphasized. She also noted that during 1991, there were 122 murders in Minnesota, 1,791 rapes, 4,356 robberies and 7,840 reports of aggravated assault.

Although Anderson is just making known the program to the public, she has been very active. In January when the program was just getting underway she anticipated working with about 60 clients. Less than three months later she has had contact with 43 victims.

Anderson is not alone. She receives the support of VIP, a board of directors and the Pennington county attorney's office. As she becomes more familiar with the program herself and makes contacts with individuals in the criminal justice system, she is finding that many other people support the crime victim advocacy program. She believes it is an encouraging sign in the effort to ensure victim rights.

"I find that few citizens know there are laws to protect the rights of victims and family members of victims, and that those rights are seldom addressed during the criminal justice process. One of the reasons for this is the lack of funding to hire personnel to work with the victims. Another reason is that the constitutional rights of alleged offenders have to be protected at all stages of the criminal justice process, therefore they receive the most attention," Anderson said.

For additional information regarding the program, victim rights, getting a speaker for an organization, or assistance, call the crime victim advocate, Bonnie Anderson, at (218) 681-8589 at the Pennington County Attorney's office located at 210 LaBree Avenue North, Thief River Falls.

Seek girl for role in opera this summer

Auditions will be held on Tuesday, April 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the choir room of the Red Lake Falls high school for the part of Beth in the opera "The Tender Land."

The part is written for a girl who might be between nine and 14 years old. The role calls for someone with a good singing and speaking voice.

Lake Bronson State Park, built in the thirties by the Works Progress Administration, is one of three state parks in Northwest Minnesota. The others are Hayes Lake and Old Mill state parks.

State parks prepare for '93 visitors

lower gate while the water was low. They closed the gate on March 8 and water filled the lake by April 1.

The lake will initially be stocked with adult walleye and perch. Later it will be stocked with bluegill and catfish. Next year the park initially plans to stock crappies and northerns. Normal fishing restrictions will apply.

Hayes Lake will also be stocked this spring with blue gills.

Fishing is an important aspect in state parks. In 1989 Hayes Lake fish died due to low oxygen levels caused by the low level of the Roseau River and park attendance dropped by about 15,000, Fischer said. This year, the lake is full and spilling over the lip of the dam.

Park activities

The parks host many activities. In the summer a naturalist gives weekend shows at Old Mill State Park and Lake Bronson. Hayes Lake is seeking a volunteer naturalist, since it lost a salaried naturalist three years ago.

One of the first major park events is a state-wide open house Sunday, June 6, with free admittance and refreshments at all the state parks.

Old Mill is sponsoring an owl and woodpecker census this spring. Tapes of owl and woodpecker calls are played in the woods and the birds fly in to guard their territory.

Old Mill sponsors the Gateway Getaway with area towns on July 17 and 18. The festivities include catfish fishing and night golf.

Grinding Days at Old Mill are Labor Day weekend when visitors can watch the grinding mill in action.

Lake Bronson hosts "Tales of the Tall Grass II" with groups from North Dakota and Manitoba on August 13, 14 and 15. The activities include tours and programs discussing prairie-related subjects.

Lake Bronson also hosts the Ninth Annual International Woodcarvers Festival on August 7 and 8.

For further information on what the area state parks have to offer, call: Lake Bronson, (218) 754-2200; Old Mill, (218) 437-8174; and Hayes Lake, (218) 425-7504.

Garry Barvels is the Lake Bronson State Park manager. During spring, Barvels prepares for an onslaught of visitors which numbered 98,094 last year. Visitors use the park's 194 camping spots, the third largest number of camping spots in Minnesota's state parks.

St. Bernard's will hold kindergarten visitation and open house on Thursday, April 8, for children who will be in kindergarten next year. Three sessions have been scheduled: 8:45 to 10 a.m., 10:30 to 11:45 a.m. and 12:45 to 2 p.m.

Spring play at Pershing HS in rehearsal

Pershing high school drama club at Plummer will present the spring comedy "Minus Some Buttons" on Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24, at the high school gymnasium. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. both evenings.

Cast members include Aaron Rosten, Terry Konickson, Amy Arlt, Kelley Baune, Michele Lefebvre, Joy Mercil and Dan Gagner. Admission is $3 for persons in seventh grade and older and $1 for those in sixth grade and younger.

The play is a story of a new teacher at Graceland Elementary school who appears to have dedicated her life to "breathing some fresh air into the school room," much to the consternation of the principal. The question becomes whether she is a lunatic or, perhaps, the only one at Graceland with any sense whatsoever.

Joann Naeseth studying in Oxford, England

Joann Naeseth of Goodridge is participating in Bemidji State University's EuroSpring, a quarter-long European learning esperience consisting of study at the Oxford Center in Oxford, England and a tour of Europe.

Naeseth is a senior majoring in social work. The students take a series of courses led by English and American faculty. The core locture course this year is entitled "From Revolution to Enlightenment" and covers the period from 1603 to 1776.

Also visited are historical, cultural and artistic centers in Paris, Madrid, Barcelona, Venice and Zurich.

Warren man dies after falling into Snake River

Erling C. Swanson of Warren died Wednesday after falling into the swollen Snake River in Warren.

Marshall County sheriff's department spokesperson stated that the sheriff's department received a report at 12:34 p.m. Wednesday, March 31, from a resident reporting that while walking across the bridge on Highway 75 in Warren he observed a body floating in the river. Marshall county sheriffs department, Warren police department, Warren fire department and Warren ambulance personnel assisted in the search. At about 2:43 p.m. the body was recovered from the river and identified as Erling C. Swanson, 83, Warren.

An investigation determined that Swanson had fallen into the the Snake River while cleaning his yard. The river is in its early Spring run-off stage.

Extend federal unemployment compensation emergency plan

Scheduled to end March 6, 1993, the federal Emergency Unemployment Compensation Program has been extended through Oct. 2, 1993, according to Commissioner R. Jane Brown of the Minnesota Department of Jobs and Training.

Persons exhausting their state unemployment benefits may be eligible for up to 20 weeks of federal unemployment benefits under this program. No additional benefits are available for individuals who are currently exhausting emergency benefits.

Also, effective March 7, 1993, state requirements for seeking work and suitable employment have replaced the less flexible federal requirements. Individuals previously affected by the old requirements, who have some benefit entitlement remaining, have been notified by mail.

For further information, contact the local unemployment insurance office.

Warned to stay off ice in TRF

Law enforcement officials in Thief River Falls are warning everyone to stay off the ice on both the Red Lake river and Thief River in Thief River Falls. Even though common sense should alert people to the danger, the warning has to be issued every year. Police Chief Ken Froschheiser said the warning issued this week was made after observing two females on the ice near the dam. Ice near the dam is very thin and has broken up revealing open water in a few spots.

New Arctic Cat being tested on Lake of the Woods

Warroad — Teams of engineers and field test riders from Arctco, Inc. have been testing the new Arctic Cat ZR 700 through a battery of high-speed ice testing on Lake of the Woods recently. Since there is no snow left in Thief River Falls, all of the remaining testing for this season must be completed on Lake of the Woods or in the mountains of a western state. Testing in the Warroad area, according to the engineers, is easier, less costly and offers better "real world" conditions than testing at high altitudes. The test riders say they can put a lot of rugged miles on the prototype sleds in just a short period of time. That's good because it won't be long before fishing season starts! (Warroad Pioneer)

13 injured near Bemidji in high-speed chase

Bemidji — Thirteen people were taken to North Country Regional hospital in Bemidji, mostly with minor injuries, after a Red Lake man took a carload of children on a high-speed chase that ended in a rear-end collision. The driver was fleeing from a pursuing state patrol squad car in a car filled with nine other people, including seven children, when he hit a vehicle occupied with three Wilton residents. The new emergency room of the hospital had only been open for business for about five hours before the accident. It is expected that the driver of the vehicle will be charged with driving while intoxicated. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Routine check foils burglary

Mahnomen — An attempted burglary to a Mahnomen county business was apparently interrupted last Friday when a sheriff's deputy was making a routine check. Deputy Kevin Fenner surprized two alleged burglars at the Flowing Well at 4 a.m. while they were attempting to break into the bar through a back door. The business is on Highway 200, eight miles east of Mahnomen. The suspects had broken all the lights outside the building and cut the phone lines going into it and to a neighboring farm. The suspects escaped, but the matter is under investigation. (Mahnomen Pioneer)

Northrop school use petition goes to school board

School District 564 board of education will receive copies of a petition at its meeting Monday evening, requesting that the board consider past uses of the school in determining its future.

The board recently held a community meeting seeking input on use or disposal of the Northrop elementary school property after the new elementary school south of Thief River Falls opens in the fall of 1994.

Rufus Olson, a resident of the Northrop school area, attendant at the skating rink there and a former school board member for nine years in the 1950s and 1960s, is heading the petition effort. He said he had 516 signatures as of Thursday evening and is continuing to make contacts.

Olson said he will present the petitions to the board Monday evening along with a letter listing some of the suggestions made by people he has contacted while circulating the petition. Copies have also been placed for signature at the Heritage Community center, Farmers Union Oil Company (Third Street and Eighth Street locations), the VFW club rooms and Erl's Market.

The petition states the following: "With the passing of the school bond issue and the construction of the elementary school complex, the school board will be faced with the decision of the future use and possible disposal of Northrop school. The school has been an integral part of the northside community of Thief River Falls as both an educational and recreational facility.

"The school property has provided many recreational opportunities for area youth, among which are an ice skating rink and warming house, softball diamond, playground and gymnasium. The availability of Northrop school structure may also provide additional opportunities as an activity and recreational facility.

"We the undersigned residents respectfully request that the school board give consideration to the previously mentioned uses in their decision as to the future of the Northrop school property."

Persons who have not been contacted and would like to add their names to the petition may do so at any of the sites listed above.

School districts hold elections

Many area school districts will hold school board elections on May 18. Most of the candidates running for office are running unopposed. Only one school district is faced with an issue on the ballot other than school board elections. Consolidation of the school districts in Warren and Alvarado will be on the ballot for those two school districts.

According to the Warren Sheaf, the new district would be the Warren/Alvarado District and the name of the teams and organizations would be the Ponies.

In the Warren school district, Linda Turn and Dwight Anderson have filed for re-election and will have no opposition. In the Alvarado school district, incumbents Larry Gross and Rahn Farder have filed for re-election but they face opposition from Mrs. Robin (LuAnn) Johnson. The two positions on the ballot are for three-year terms.

Polling places and times for Warren are from 4 to 8 p.m. May 18 at the Warren high school.

Jam sessions pack 'em in at Fosston

Country music players and listeners congregate the first Sunday each month at Embassy Community Center

Pickin'-n-grinnin' is the first order of business at Fosston's Country Music Jam sessions.

In the Embassy Community Center basement, it sounds like a raging herd of buffalo is running loose upstairs. The raging buffalo are 100 or more mild-mannered music lovers, clapping, stomping their feet and having as good a time as Midwesterners believe they should allow themselves to have.

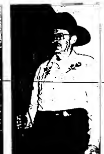
"Good old-time music — it really gets you up," said Melvin Anderson, bowler, golfer, retired judge, and at the moment, one swingin' fiddler.

MC/organizer/guitar picker Rodney Myhrum was asked to start the jam sessions eight years ago by Embassy Community Center Board President Rayome Koehler. Myhrum thought they would hold two or three jam sessions a year, not once a month as the interest has demanded.

One Sunday a month at 1 p.m., about 100 people congregate in the Embassy Center, a renovated Baptist church. The audience gradually fills rows of folding chairs in the former sanctuary and musicians start tuning, picking and strumming dozens of strings on their well-worn instruments.

The audience sometimes swells to 130 members and as many as 35 musicians perform a variety of old-time, country western, and bluegrass music.

No tie required. Common attire for musicians: cowboy, baseball or feed hat, plaid shirt, cowboy boots or Hush Puppies, instrument (includes vocal chords) and talent.



People enter the hall, dropping off full Tupperware and ice cream bucket containers for the 5:30 p.m. potluck. Marian Myhrum, Rodney's spouse, collects and organizes the food. "Sometimes we're loaded with sandwiches and don't get much else," Marian said, "Sometimes we're loaded with salads."

Older people compose most of the audience, but performing or listening is open to everybody. "I can't dance anymore, but I enjoy the music," said Ethel Gullingsrud of Mahnomen. "It's both of our favorite kind of music," she said, speaking for her husband Selmer. Ethel began clapping to the music.

lower gate while the water was low. They closed the gate on March 8 and water filled the lake by April 1.

The lake will initially be stocked with adult walleye and perch. Later it will be stocked with bluegill and catfish. Next year the park initially plans to stock crappies and northerns. Normal fishing restrictions will apply.

Hayes Lake will also be stocked this spring with blue gills.

Fishing is an important aspect in state parks. In 1989 Hayes Lake fish died due to low oxygen levels caused by the low level of the Roseau River and park attendance dropped by about 15,000, Fischer said. This year, the lake is full and spilling over the lip of the dam.

Park activities

The parks host many activities. In the summer a naturalist gives weekend shows at Old Mill State Park and Lake Bronson. Hayes Lake is seeking a volunteer naturalist, since it lost a salaried naturalist three years ago.

One of the first major park events is a state-wide open house Sunday, June 6, with free admittance and refreshments at all the state parks.

Old Mill is sponsoring an owl and woodpecker census this spring. Tapes of owl and woodpecker calls are played in the woods and the birds fly in to guard their territory.

Old Mill sponsors the Gateway Getaway with area towns on July 17 and 18. The festivities include catfish fishing and night golf.

Grinding Days at Old Mill are Labor Day weekend when visitors can watch the grinding mill in action.

Lake Bronson hosts "Tales of the Tall Grass II" with groups from North Dakota and Manitoba on August 13, 14 and 15. The activities include tours and programs discussing prairie-related subjects.

Lake Bronson also hosts the Ninth Annual International Woodcarvers Festival on August 7 and 8.

For further information on what the area state parks have to offer, call: Lake Bronson, (218) 754-2200; Old Mill, (218) 437-8174; and Hayes Lake, (218) 425-7504.

Garry Barvels is the Lake Bronson State Park manager. During spring, Barvels prepares for an onslaught of visitors which numbered 98,094 last year. Visitors use the park's 194 camping spots, the third largest number of camping spots in Minnesota's state parks.

St. Bernard's will hold kindergarten visitation and open house on Thursday, April 8, for children who will be in kindergarten next year. Three sessions have been scheduled: 8:45 to 10 a.m., 10:30 to 11:45 a.m. and 12:45 to 2 p.m.

Spring play at Pershing HS in rehearsal

Pershing high school drama club at Plummer will present the spring comedy "Minus Some Buttons" on Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24, at the high school gymnasium. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. both evenings.

Cast members include Aaron Rosten, Terry Konickson, Amy Arlt, Kelley Baune, Michele Lefebvre, Joy Mercil and Dan Gagner. Admission is $3 for persons in seventh grade and older and $1 for those in sixth grade and younger.

The play is a story of a new teacher at Graceland Elementary school who appears to have dedicated her life to "breathing some fresh air into the school room," much to the consternation of the principal. The question becomes whether she is a lunatic or, perhaps, the only one at Graceland with any sense whatsoever.

Warren man dies after falling into Snake River

Erling C. Swanson of Warren died Wednesday after falling into the swollen Snake River in Warren.

Marshall County sheriff's department spokesperson stated that the sheriff's department received a report at 12:34 p.m. Wednesday, March 31, from a resident reporting that while walking across the bridge on Highway 75 in Warren he observed a body floating in the river. Marshall county sheriffs department, Warren police department, Warren fire department and Warren ambulance personnel assisted in the search. At about 2:43 p.m. the body was recovered from the river and identified as Erling C. Swanson, 83, Warren.

An investigation determined that Swanson had fallen into the the Snake River while cleaning his yard. The river is in its early Spring run-off stage.

Extend federal unemployment compensation emergency plan

Scheduled to end March 6, 1993, the federal Emergency Unemployment Compensation Program has been extended through Oct. 2, 1993, according to Commissioner R. Jane Brown of the Minnesota Department of Jobs and Training.

Persons exhausting their state unemployment benefits may be eligible for up to 20 weeks of federal unemployment benefits under this program. No additional benefits are available for individuals who are currently exhausting emergency benefits.

Also, effective March 7, 1993, state requirements for seeking work and suitable employment have replaced the less flexible federal requirements. Individuals previously affected by the old requirements, who have some benefit entitlement remaining, have been notified by mail.

Warned to stay off ice in TRF

Law enforcement officials in Thief River Falls are warning everyone to stay off the ice on both the Red Lake river and Thief River in Thief River Falls. Even though common sense should alert people to the danger, the warning has to be issued every year. Police Chief Ken Froschheiser said the warning issued this week was made after observing two females on the ice near the dam. Ice near the dam is very thin and has broken up revealing open water in a few spots.

New Arctic Cat being tested on Lake of the Woods

Warroad — Teams of engineers and field test riders from Arctco, Inc. have been testing the new Arctic Cat ZR 700 through a battery of high-speed ice testing on Lake of the Woods recently. Since there is no snow left in Thief River Falls, all of the remaining testing for this season must be completed on Lake of the Woods or in the mountains of a western state. Testing in the Warroad area, according to the engineers, is easier, less costly and offers better "real world" conditions than testing at high altitudes. The test riders say they can put a lot of rugged miles on the prototype sleds in just a short period of time. That's good because it won't be long before fishing season starts! (Warroad Pioneer)

"Good old-time music — it really gets you up," said Melvin Anderson, bowler, golfer, retired judge, and at the moment, one swingin' fiddler.

MC/organizer/guitar picker Rodney Myhrum was asked to start the jam sessions eight years ago by Embassy Community Center Board President Rayome Koehler. Myhrum thought they would hold two or three jam sessions a year, not once a month as the interest has demanded.

One Sunday a month at 1 p.m., about 100 people congregate in the Embassy Center, a renovated Baptist church. The audience gradually fills rows of folding chairs in the former sanctuary and musicians start tuning, picking and strumming dozens of strings on their well-worn instruments.

The audience sometimes swells to 130 members and as many as 35 musicians perform a variety of old-time, country western, and bluegrass music.

No tie required. Common attire for musicians: cowboy, baseball or feed hat, plaid shirt, cowboy boots or Hush Puppies, instrument (includes vocal chords) and talent.

People enter the hall, dropping off full Tupperware and ice cream bucket containers for the 5:30 p.m. potluck. Marian Myhrum, Rodney's spouse, collects and organizes the food. "Sometimes we're loaded with sandwiches and don't get much else," Marian said. "Sometimes we're loaded with salads."

Older people compose most of the audience, but performing or listening is open to everybody. "I can't dance anymore, but I enjoy the music," said Ethel Gullingsrud of Mahnomen. "It's both of our favorite kind of music," she said, speaking for her husband Selmer. Ethel began clapping to the music.

Memorial service will mark end of church building

Waubun — After more than 70 years of use, the Trinity Lutheran church building of Waubun will be closed with a memorial service to mark its passing. The church was heavily damaged last September by a fire. Since that time services have been held in the community center. Now members have decided to rebuild and the demolition date for the old structure has been set for April 19. Building and finance committees are being formed to work on plans for a new church. The memorial service will begin at the community center and move to the church grounds. (Mahnomen Pioneer)

Swenson Lake ordinance okayed

Bemidji — The Beltrami county board recently approved the Swenson Lake ordinance, designed to protect the lake's water quality by limiting boats to 10 horsepower motors. The board has been considering the ordinance since last summer. Since the debate started the DNR has announced a complete lake study, the first since 1955. Final authority for putting the ordinance into effect will be with the DNR, which rejected an earlier draft from the county because it included an exception for an elderly resort owner on the lake. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Summer program set for gifted Native American students

Bemidji — A special summer program has been established at Bemidji state university for gifted Native American students. About six BSU faculty members will assist in starting the program, which will be designed for 60 students and will recruit Native American teachers for the classes. The majority of the participants will be entering the ninth or 10th grade this fall. Dates of the classes, with curriculum to enhance cultural roots and expand students' knowledge of Native American artistic, musical and cultural traditions, will be from June 27 to July 31. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Bemidji students visit sugar camp

Bemidji — Bemidji middle school students and a couple of elementary classes recently made a trip to a sugar bush camp in the Big Turtle lake area. The camp is being run by Vince Beyl, who is using it to teach students how maple sap is extracted from trees and processed to make maple syrup. Of the 250-plus trees in the area where he works, he taps about 150 each year. Students helped collect and boil down enough sap to produce three gallons of syrup. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Fisher city clerk named secretary of clerks' association

Fisher — Laurel Haake, city clerk for the city of Fisher, has been selected secretary for the Municipal Clerks & Finance Officers' association of Minnesota for 1993-94. The election was held at the association's annual conference March 16-19. Haake has been the city clerk for Fisher for 16 years. (Exponent)

Stephen to have submarine sandwich fund-raiser

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

LETTERS

To The Editor:
I wish to take a minute to wish your new county sheriff, Gerald Moe, the best of luck in his new position. Jerry Moe will be missed in many ways in Pope county.
His dedication in law enforcement can not be duplicated. His fair and honest dealings with every Pope county citizen, young and old, will not be forgotten. His community involvement and caring will be greatly missed.
Pope county's loss is Pennington county's gain. Everyone in Pope county wishes Jerry and his family the very best and wants to inform Pennington county of the great asset you have now gained.
Sincerely,
Jim Satterlund
Executive Director
Glenwood Area Chamber of Commerce

To The Editor:
This week saw the Minnesota Legislature making exciting inroads in the area of civil rights legislation with the passage of S.F. 444 and H.F. 585. With the passage of this legislation, white Minnesota males who have long complained of being the victims of reverse discrimination in hiring, housing and education are finally being handed the litigative tool they have been waiting for to level the affirmative action playing field. At last, anyone and everyone can sue on the basis of some form of discrimination, even white males.
Guys, here's a tip. Next time someone else is hired to a job that you had applied for, sue the prospective employer on the grounds of discrimination with respect to affectional orientation. The prospective employer will be unable both to challenge your claim of affectional orientation and to disprove his guilt. See how easy?
Employers, before you begin crying on your legislators' shoulders, please be mindful that the Minnesota Legislature has left you several options for avoiding problems in this litigative minefield. Let me list some of the most practical of these for you:
(1) Close your doors;
(2) Move your operations to Colorado.
Lawyers, get ready for your business to boom! Aren't you glad we've got plenty of your colleagues at the Capitol to jump-start this state's economy?
Yes, fortune has grinned at Minnesota with this latest of discretionary prohibitions. At last, there's finally hope for Minnesotans that, one day, theirs may be known as the State of Affectionally Disoriented Jobless Equality.
Now tell me THAT isn't just 'way fair!
Sincerely,
Dave Bahr

Where's The Beef? It's Coming From Australia ....Through Canada

In testimony before the U.S. House Energy and Commerce committee's subcommittee on commerce, consumer protection and competitiveness, federal import meat inspector William J. Lehman predicted more food poisonings similar to the much-publicized Jack-in-the-Box hamburger tragedy a few weeks ago. Lehman said the poisonings will be unavoidable if the policy on importation of foreign meat from Canada is not changed.

The meat has been taken out of the meat inspection program, he said. "Australian beef is being shipped into the United States through Canada to escape both strict inspection and the payment of duties owed to the taxpayers," Lehman told the committee. "Add to this the fact that USDA has recently decided to allow the importation of ground meat. Together you have the recipe for more public health disasters."

While meat slaughtered in the United States is subject to strict codes of sanitation and safety in handling and shipment, and those codes are enforced through rigid inspection, such is not the ease with meat from foreign countries that enters the United States through free trade with Canada.

Lehman outlined the situation in his testimony to the committee, pointing out that two years ago he had testified before the committee about loopholes created by the implementing procedures to the U.S.-Canada free trade agreement. The procedures were called the Canadian Streamlined Inspection System.

"Streamlined inspection reduced inspection rates over 90 per cent," he said. "Instead of inspecting all of the meat imported to the U.S. from Canada," he said, "only approximately one in ten trucks were stopped for inspection. Streamlined inspection also notified the Canadian packers which of their trucks would be inspected before those trucks ever left the Canadian packing plant.

"To make matters worse," he said, "the Canadians were allowed to select the very cartons or carcasses to be inspected by USDA. Furthermore, the General Accounting Office discovered that many times trucks designated for inspection failed to even stop at the border."

On August 10, 1992, the streamlined inspection procedures were withdrawn. Now Canadians are not informed which truck will be inspected until the truck reaches the U.S. inspection station. At that time the USDA computer-selects which lots or loads are to be inspected. Lehman said the new program merely camouflages old loopholes and creates new ones that are even more threatening to consumer health and safety.

"I am merely allowed to check whether the forms are completed," Lehman said about his duties when a truck is stopped at the border. "Then I can go to the rear of the truck, but I am not allowed to enter. In fact, I cannot even use a flashlight to see if the boxes that I can look at from standing outside the truck have the same numbers as those on the forms. After this cursory review I am instructed to stamp the Canadian Health Certificates 'U.S. Inspected and Passed.'"

Lehman pointed out to the subcommittee that the USDA and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention had determined that it was a batch of Australian beef that was blended with U.S. ground beef which ultimately became the hamburgers sold by Jack-in-the-Box.

Australian meat imports are inspected much more rigidly when received directly into the United States than when routed here through Canada. Lehman said he has seen containers on trucks at the U.S.-Canada border that were labeled as containing meat that had been slaughtered and processed in Australia, with the only reference to Canada being a rubber stamp on the end of the carton. The product wasn't even re-packaged, yet it escaped the four cents per pound import tariff and wasn't counted in the quota limiting the amount of meat that can be imported into the U.S. from Australia.

"I don't even know if what was in those boxes was beef," he said.

In the summer of 1992, USDA canceled the prohibition on the importation of ground meat. This creates an even greater threat to U.S. public health since it makes it virtually impossible for an inspector to identify defects such as bone fragments, blood clots, bruises, hair, hide, rust, glass, abscesses or fecal material. Lehman said meat rejected for contamination at one point along the border could be taken back into Canada, ground, re-boxed and shipped back to the U.S. as hamburger.

We haven't heard or read about it in the national media, but the E. coli outbreak at the Jack-in-the-Box restaurant in Washington State has been traced to a producer in El Monte, CA. And the Washington State Department of Health has concluded that the likely source of the pathogen was meat contaminated with feces at the time of slaughter.

"With the new ground meat loop hole for imports, fecal contamination and E. coli poisonings are more likely to occur," Lehman told the subcommittee.

He said he has great respect and affection for the traditions of the USDA, for which he has worked for more than 25 years.

"The department employs a lot of dedicated people who still believe in USDA's mandate to protect the nation's food safety," Lehman said. "But as long as USDA continues to allow industry and foreign countries to influence the U.S. inspection law designed to protect the health and safety of American consumers, food poisoning deaths will be unavoidable."

Pleasant though, eh? Enjoy your lunch.

Council to hear recommendations

Two committees of the city council are ready to recommend to the city council [illegible] to proceed with improvements to Ole Engelstad park. Although neighborhood residents were against the proposal from the beginning, on Wednesday they issued a statement indicating a willingness to make some concessions.

This week, the Park Board recommended to the Planning Commission that the city accept a grant and go ahead with a proposed tennis and basketball court expansion at Engelstad park.

In citing the 1985 Park Plan, the 1970 and 1985 Comprehensive Plans, and sections pertinent to citywide and neighborhood parks, the Planning Commission found that the Ole Engelstad park fits the description of a neighborhood park. Further, it found that the proposal to make improvements, including two additional tennis courts and one basketball court, consistent with the description of neighborhood park and that the proposed improvements would not affect the nature of the park. It also found that the city has the legal authority to address other nuisance issues addressed by neighborhood residents. After reaching those conclusions, it is recommending to the city council at its next meeting on April 13, to proceed with improvements. Community Development Director Don Stewart noted that the recommendation did not say anything about accepting the grant. He explained that it is the responsibility of the Planning Commission to deal with land use issues.

After meeting with Alderman Don Barron, residents of the neighborhood issued the following statement, which will be their recommendation to the city council: "Accept the grant, with modifications, by adding two tennis courts, taking down all back boards, not adding a basketball court, allowing minimum impact on the ball diamond; and, requesting a city ordinance to monitor boom boxes and radios in and around the park. Also control parking in residents' driveways.

"In light of modifying the grant, we encourage the city to apply for a grant as they previously indicated they would for a new warming house and restroom."

The next meeting of the city council is scheduled for 5 p.m. April 13.

Earth Day Carnival set for April 17

Information booths, carnival games, entertainment and an "environmentally friendly" lunch stand will be included in the community Earth Day carnival to be held Saturday, April 17, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at United Methodist church in Thief River Falls.

The carnival is sponsored by the congregation's education commission. Informational booths will be set up by environmental agencies and wildlife groups from throughout the area.

Information on how to be better stewards of the environment and how to learn more about ecology and waste reduction will be the focus of the event, according to Kim Ditz-Willis, vice chair of the sponsoring education commission.

"The carnival will be a great opportunity for families to have a wonderful time and learn more about the Earth, how to care for it and how to clean it up," Ditz-Willis said. "We really believe the reduce-reuse-recycle theme begins at home."

Linda Ronchetti, a member of the Agassiz Environmental Education Committee, has been working with organizers of the carnival. She says it's clear the community is interested in learning more about environmental issues, but admits environmental concerns can be somewhat overwhelming.

"The important thing is to focus on everyday habits and choices," she said. "We have to show our children how to love the Earth, how to be a part of it, how to appreciate it. We have to believe we can make a difference, that environmental abuse is a choice and that there are better choices."

Ditz-Willis added that a lot of choices were involved just in organizing the carnival.

"What really is involved in an environmentally friendly lunch stand?" she asked. "How much paper is really necessary to promote the event and how do we re-collect and recycle promotional materials and tickets? We've had to think through all the possibilities. The final product is going to be great!"

CRP and wetlands topics of meeting set at Goodridge

Landowners in the area are invited to attend an educational forum on the state Wetlands Conservation Act (WCA) of 1991 and the federal Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) Thursday, April 15, at 1 p.m. in the Goodridge community center.

The meeting is co-sponsored by the Pennington and Marshall county boards of commissioners and Farmers Union locals in the two counties.

First item on the agenda will be a brief discussion on CRP acreage, including concerns about land coming out of the CRP program at the end of 10-year contracts. First contracts will expire beginning in 1995.

Speaking on the CRP issue will be Glen Kajewski, area conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service.

An update will then be presented on the permanent rules for the Wetlands Conservation Act which are scheduled to go into effect July 1, 1993. Presently the Act is being operated under interim rules.

Speakers on the wetlands act will be Brian Dwight, board conservationist with the Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR); Delray Larson, Marshall county commissioner; and Tim Finseth, manager of the Marshall County Soil and Water Conservation District.

Dwight will provide a summary of the permanent rules which will go into effect in July; Larson will review funding concerns and changes made during the hearing process; and Finseth will discuss provisions of the Act from the soil and water conservation district's point of view.

Moderating the meeting will be Don Homstad, field representative for the Minnesota Farmers Union.

The Red Wing raspberry has revolutionized the old berry patch. It bears from the last week in August through the first hard frost. Its plump berries are gathered in easy-to-reach clusters at the end of each branch. At the end of the season, just mow the patch over. Next year's crop will bear on new growth. No trimming. Easy picking. No wonder some old-timers think the Red Wing hurts our work ethic. Available for $2.50 per plant.

Breakfast adds to Sportsmen Club project

Benefit breakfast sponsored by the Pennington County Sportsmen club recently added to the fund needed to drill a well at the club's club house site north of Thief River Falls.

Project chairman Allan Paulson expressed appreciation to those who attended, those who have made donations to the well-drilling effort and all who assisted with the project, including donation of wildlife prints for the silent auction at the breakfast.

Paulson said that Pelan Construction and Well Drilling of Karlstad has been selected to drill the well as soon as conditions permit this spring. The club grounds are used extensively by the Boy Scouts and other organizations and groups for camping, picnics and other gatherings. The well will permit hook-up of the kitchen and restroom areas of the club house.

Paulson added that an open house will be held when the well has been drilled and connected.

County Sheriff begins new policy on returned checks

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe has initiated a new policy on handling dishonored checks. Last week, store managers, bookkeepers and owners of businesses in Thief River Falls were notified of new forms and changes in state laws.

The new forms will help law enforcement identify individuals accused of writing bad checks. It asks that driver's license numbers be recorded on every check taken if it's not on the check already. It also asks that the person accepting the check initial the check so that a positive identification can be made if it becomes necessary.

In addition, the sheriff's department will not allow a grace period as it has in the past. When checks are turned over to the sheriff's department for collection notices will be sent out and complaints will be filed with the courts immediately.

State law allows that whoever issues any check that is dishonored and is not paid within five days after mailing a notice of dishonored checks, faces penalties. State law also permits that a service charge may be imposed immediately on any dishonored check, regardless of mailing a notice of dishonor.

New state laws also allows merchants to charge a $20 service fee on all returned checks. The sheriff's department is allowed to charge $25.

In a letter to merchants, Sheriff Moe said "the sheriff's department will do everything possible for the merchants to collect these checks, prosecute or whatever's needed."

In 1992, the sheriff's department received 1,344 checks totaling $52,541 for collection.

Jodi Mutnansky promoted with radio bureau

In her new job she will be responsible for writing and editing Radio Sales Today, a twice-weekly newsletter which is sent by fax to member stations, and for writing and maintaining the bureau's library of advertising case histories and success stories.

Watershed district awaits COE assessment

The Red River Watershed District is still waiting for answers from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers concerning the Red River Basin Environmental Assessment (EA).

The intent of the EA is to discuss projects from a regulatory standpoint, describe the cumulative environmental impacts of these projects and provide a methodology for evaluating future projects.

The projects refer to the Sand Hill River Watershed District project 4 (Winger Dam), the Buffalo-Red River Watershed District Project 9 and the Wild Rice Watershed District Project 11. These projects were sent to the COE for permit approval and, according to the COE, prompted the EA.

The RRWMB hired Mary McConnell of Minneapolis as its legal counsel throughout the EA process. McConnell is with the Lindquist and Vennum Law Firm in Minneapolis. She has worked for six years in with the COE in its permitting section. The RRWMB also hired Mark Deutschman of HDR Engineering to serve as a technical facilitator throughout the EA process.

The COE indicated that the process could take from several months to a couple of years. Once the document is completed, the decision could be made to continue with an Environmental Impact Statement, which could mean another few years of work. Once the EA process is complete, the COE could still deny the permits of the watershed projects.

According to McConnell, the COE has an obligation to set specific time lines and budgets upon request of the RRWMB.

Breakfast adds to Sportsmen Club project

Benefit breakfast sponsored by the Pennington County Sportsmen club recently added to the funds needed to drill a well at the club's club house site north of Thief River Falls.

Project chairman Allan Paulson expressed appreciation to those who attended, those who have made donations to the well-drilling effort and all who assisted with the project, including donation of wildlife prints for the silent auction at the breakfast.

Paulson said that Pelan Construction and Well Drilling of Karlstad has been selected to drill the well as soon as conditions permit this spring. The club grounds are used extensively by the Boy Scouts and other organizations and groups for camping, picnics and other gatherings. The well will permit hook-up of the kitchen and restroom areas of the club house.

Paulson added that an open house will be held when the well has been drilled and connected.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Softball opener...

Brainerd is first foe for NCC squad

Northland Community College will open its 1993 softball season Wednesday, April 14, when the Pioneers host Brainerd in a 3 p.m. Minnesota Community College Conference doubleheader. Northland home games are played at the Thief River Falls softball complex on Highway 1 East.

Rick Nikunen is beginning his first year as Northland softball coach, inheriting a program that went 0-17 last spring under Sue Bamd.

"Right now, our biggest concern is pitching," said Nikunen, who looks to freshmen Lana Pittman (Thief River Falls) and Lisa Verbout (Grygla) to share the pitching this season. "We're looking for some consistency from the two of them," added Nikunen. "We want to have them throwing strikes."

Defense should be okay, and it's a wait-and-see situation with the offense, according to Nikunen. "I don't know if we have any really outstanding individuals, but I think we'll be solid overall defensively," he said. Offensively, we've got two-three kids with some fast pitch experience who should be able to hit the ball. It'll be a matter of how quickly the others pick it up."

The defense will be led by shortstop Trish Prickett (Cambridge), who has a high school softball background, and first baseman Kim Peterson (Middle River), who has the athletic ability to handle the job around the bag, offered Nikonen. They are both freshmen.

Pittman, Prickett and sophomore LuCinda Fatterson (Thief River Falls) have shown early-season hitting promise, according to Nikunen, who says Patterson has been the Pioneers' most improved player since the start of preseason drills.

District 15 swept the three-game series. (Submitted photo).

Tennis season to open on Monday

Eight lettermen form the nucleus of the 1993 Thief River Falls boys high school tennis team heading into the Prowlers' season opener Monday against Crookston. The 4 p.m. dual will be played at the Grand Forks Tennis Centre.

Letter winners among 25 players out for the sport in grades 9-12 include senior Jared Goldesberry; juniors Derek Dahlstrom, David Johnson, Kyle Jordet, Vince Miramontes, Marc Seaverson, and Jeff Twomey; along with freshman Keith Anderson.

Dahlstrom/Jordet and Twomey/Trevor Haugen formed the Prowlers' top doubles teams last year, but Haugen has opted for baseball this spring. Seaverson played No. 1 singles for the Prowlers, who were 4-9 in dual meet competition in 1992.

"We've got lots of bodies; we'll be using lots of difference combinations," said Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney.

TRF boys compete in Pirate Relays

A brief indoor high school track season came to a close Tuesday when the Thief River Falls boys participated in the Pirate Relays at the Crookston Winter Shows Building.

Clearbrook-Gonvick-Trail won the 10-team event with 108 points, followed by Marshall County South with 90 1/2, East Grand Forks 74, Crookston 58 1/2, Thief River Falls 50, Norman County East 29, Norman County West/Climax 16, Tri-County 13, Stephen 9, and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 2.

It was the third outing of the year for the Prowlers, who will begin their 1993 outdoor season at the Monday, April 19, Park Rapids Invitational.

Junior Jon Hendrickson won his second straight 800-meter race and senior Shane Skeim had a first place effort in the shot put to lead the Prowlers' scoring Tuesday.

"We're coming along," offered Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "I'm happy with our efforts. Our young kids are really making progress."

Thief River Falls girls joined the boys at the earlier Bemidji State University Lions Club Classic and the Northwest Indoor at Crookston, but they weren't involved in the Pirate Relays. Both Thief River Falls teams will be at Park Rapids.

Pioneers lose pair at UND

Last spring Marvin Demers helped lead the Northland Community College baseball team to a 14-12 season with a .323 batting average that gained the Fordville, ND native a spot on the Minnesota Community College Conference All-Northern Division team.

This year Demers is a member of the University of North Dakota baseball program, serving as a utility infielder for the Sioux varsity, while getting regular playing time at the junior varsity level. Monday he showed his former Northland coaches and teammates he can play the game with a 5-for-7 performance at the plate as the Sioux swept the Pioneers 7-1, 10-1 at Kraft Field in Grand Forks.

It was the 1993 opener for Northland.

"Marvin did a nice job for them," noted Northland coach Terry Wiseth, who found himself taking pride in Demers' performance, even though it played a role in the Pioneers' twinbill setback. "Marvin hit a triple in the second game that bounced off the fence," mentioned Wiseth. "The coaches Wiseth, Jamie McEnelly, Nick Drees) were all pulling for it to clear the fence. Some of our freshmen were looking at us kind of funny."

Demers was 2-for-3 in the first game and went 3-for-4 in the second game with a single, double and triple.

The Pioneers' season-opening performance wasn't all that bad, said Wiseth. "We faced some good (UND) kids," he pointed out. "We would have liked to hit the ball a little better, but I think our pitching will come around – it's right there – and I think we'll be okay defensively when we get everybody in their right positions. Offensively, we did get guys on base, but we couldn't get the hits when we needed them."

Every member of the Northland team got into the doubleheader, pointed out Wiseth, except pitcher/outfielder Farish Tatum, who missed the opener because of illness.

Troy Storeby had a first inning RBI double, but that was the extent of the Northland offense in the 7-1 Game 1 University of North Dakota junior varsity win.

The Sioux out-hit the Pioneers 12-4.

Todd Martin and Mitch Bernstein both worked three innings on the mound for Northland, and both gave up six hits. Martin, the starter and loser, walked two and hit two batters. Bernstein walked three and struck out two.

Northland mustered seven hits in the nightcap, but also had eight errors as the UND JV squad rolled up a 10-1 decision for the sweep.

Blue Olson was 3-for-3 and Jarrod Spoor went 2-for-4 to lead the Pioneers' offense. A fifth inning RBI single by Spoor produced the lone Northland run.

Again, two Northland pitchers worked three innings apiece, with starter and loser John Pearson giving up five runs, five hits and two walks. Ryan Bothum surrendered five runs on four hits and two walks. Neither pitcher recorded a strikeout.

Bergie's Business

with Jeff Storhaug

Following the professional hockey career of Thief River Falls' Tim Bergland:

April 8-- Since I last wrote about Tim, he's had a goal, a few penalty minutes and a lot of playing time with the Tampa Bay Lightning.

When he was sent to the minor league Atlanta Knights about a month ago, Tim was told the Tampa Bay front office really liked him – that he should just sit tight and wait for another call. And just eight days later he was back in the National Hockey League.

Tampa Bay assistant coach Wayne Cashman told Tim at the time of the demotion to Atlanta that it was an 'owner's decision' to send him down. Cashman wasn't very complimentary about the Tampa Bay foreign ownership at that time, and he made sure the coaching staff brought Bergland back to the NHL in short order.

It sounds like Tim is back with the Lightning for the rest of the 1992-93 season. But after the Tampa Bay season ends April 15, he is expected to be back in Atlanta to help the Knights make a stretch run for the International League title. If Atlanta comes away with the championship, Tim could pocket another $10,0000 – about enough money to pay off all my fines this year. I wish I could play hockey.

I almost don't want to write about it because I'm afraid I might jinx Tim, but if all things go as expected, he will be playing in Winnipeg Tuesday, April 13. It's a 7 p.m. game, so people might be able to leave Thief River Falls after work that night, head to the Winnipeg Arena for the game and be back home about 1 a.m. I don't think it's too much to ask that some of the community be on hand to support Tim. That's the least we could do for someone that has tried so hard and represented our town so well. Now, if it was me playing, I could see people boycotting the game. But this is Tim Bergland, Thief River Falls' greatest athlete ever. You can argue that all you want, but the facts are all there.

I would also like to give a special thanks to Mike Lundgren of The Times for keeping the readers up to date on Tim when I haven't had a column in the paper.

1993 Thief River Falls softball...

LHS opens at Bemidji

John Anderson has been busy the last couple of winters trying to rebuild Thief River Falls' wrestling program. Now he has the added task of bringing along a still relatively-new Lincoln High School softball program.

Anderson takes over the head coaching duties previously held by Ken Fletcher, who is now the Prowlers' assistant coach.

"It's been fun," said Anderson in describing the seasonal switch from boys to girls athletics. "The girls have been working hard. I'm impressed with their work ethic."

The Prowlers open the 1993 season Tuesday with a 4:30 p.m. doubleheader at Bemidji.

Nine letter winners return from last year's 2-9 squad that will tackle an expanded schedule. That group includes seniors Kristen Boughton, Sarah Holmstrom, Rhoda Hruby, and LuAnne Maslowski; juniors Odetta Blomker, Toni Chiodo, April Klinker, and Jamie Martell; along with sophomore Carie Lawrence.

Maslowski, Blomker and Lawrence form the Prowlers' pitching staff.

"Defensively I think we'll be okay," said Anderson. "The offense is the question mark at this time."

River project at St. Hilaire gets funding

Authorization for a streambank erosion protection project on the bank of the Red Lake river in St. Hilaire has been given by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The project will involve placing of rock fill along the bank of the river to guard against erosion now threatening Riverside Cemetery property. The Corps of Engineers estimates total cost of the effort will be $123,000 with $92,000 to be paid by the federal government.

Congressman Collin Peterson, who announced the authorization, said the construction contract would be awarded in about 10 months and the work completed six months later.

Public radio show examines Indian casinos

On Monday, April 12, at 11 a.m. Minnesota public radio will present a special broadcast entitled "The New Buffalo" which examines American Indian casinos.

The two-hour program will be broadcast from the Mille Lacs Indian reservation and can be heard locally on KNTN, 102.7 FM.

The broadcast will feature a 20 to 30-minute documentary that examines the impact of casino revenue on reservations, including the stories of a woman who is using her share of casino profits to build a new house and another woman who is working at a casino in an effort to end generations of poverty in her family.

According to MPR, the documentary explores the extent to which tribes may or may not be succeeding in transforming their communities with gambling revenue.

Other reports spotlight casinos in neighboring states, the roles and responsibilities of management companies, the appeal of gambling, problem gambling, taxes and sovereignty and the impact of reservation casinos on urban American Indians.

Malvin Churneza of Clearbrook, Vernon Wold of Gully and Clarance Myars of Warroad (left to right) parform at the Country Music Jam Session last Sunday. As many as 35 different musicians have performed at tha sessions, from agas aix to 87 and audiancea hava awallad to 135 mambera. As many as aix accordionista have performed at ona tima.

Comer, on guitar, Melvin Anderson on fiddle and Ralph Hagen on bass — continue to crank out songs like "Faded Love" and "Where Am I Going To Live When I Get Home."

Most of the musicians have played their instrument for decades. Myhrom learned how to play in high school. The Armed Services exposed him to more music. When he served from 1952 to 1954, he had the opportunity to hear country musicians Little Jimmy Dickens and "Tumble" Carlisle.

Judge Anderson started playing fiddle when he was about 10 years old. He stopped playing the fiddle for 30 years, started again in 1974 and "has played ever since."

The musician's staple is the flat top guitar, but no instruments are off-limits — from wailing saxes to wheezing accordions (up to six accordionists have performed at one time). Performers' ages range from six to 87.

The musicians compose a "melting pot so to speak," said Myhrum from under his black cowboy hat. Last Sunday, musicians represented 11 towns. Musicians form different groups during the sessions, performing with some groups and sitting out others. They play in 20 minute sets.

Some groups perform for local retirement homes and the Rolaag threshing festival. They seldom practice together other than before their Fosston performance.

Amidst puzzles, dolls and toys in the Embassy Center's basement/daycare room, musicians practice before performing.

One group practicing in the basement includes Harley Grise of Waubun on guitar; Ed Nephew of Fertile on dobro; Harley's brother Perry of Waubun on guitar; Alvin Anderson of Thief River Falls, vocal and guitar; and young sprout Mark Erickson of Fosston on guitar, who the other members let sit in with them Sunday.

During a performance at the Detroit Lakes pavilion last year they introduced themselves as "The Slewgrass Band" (just a little rougher than a bluegrass band).

Upstairs a group performs "Okie from Muskogee."

Downstairs the five musicians play by ear, bouncing chords and notes back and forth. "When you play by ear, you have to be in the mood for playing or it all sounds terrible," Hagen said.

After Myhrum tells them they're on next, the group leaves to play. They return one half-hour later joking back and forth. "We sure make noise don't we?" "If there were any rats here, they'd be gone." "Two or three performances and he (Erickson) will fit right in."

The groups perform original music as well as cover tunes. Perry Grise composed 30 songs, a couple of which are housed in the Library of Congress. Some of his titles include, "Roses Just For You," and "Everything I Own Is On My Back (old guitar in a gunny sack)." "I'm kind of bashful, but I sing them once in awhile," he said.

The performers do not admit to competition. "We're not here to compete. We're just here to show off," Hagen said. "It's all for fun," said Martin Ingebretson, band leader of The Happy Norwegians. "We play for entertainment."

Country Music Jam Sessions are the first Sunday of every month, except September. They begin at 1 p.m., continue through potluck supper at 5:30 p.m., and into the evening. The Embassy Community Center, located on Third and North Eaton, Fosston, hosts the program.

Admission is free and all area musicians are invited to perform. For more information call Rodney Myhrum at 435-6913 in the evening.

New Hope church purchases new organ

Newfolden — The congregation and pastor of the New Hope church in Newfolden are now the proud owners of a new organ. The Yamaha Clavinova was purchased with donations, after it was noted that the old instrument had keys that didn't work. The new organ was built to be played with discs and can play continuously on one disc of pre-taped music. It can also be used as a backup for other musical instruments. A jam session to introduce the new organ to the community will be held April 18 with a Sunday night Gospel music night. (New River Record)

Kittson Hospice may close without financial help

Kittson County — The Kittson Hospice, an organization made up of volunteers to assist people who have terminal illnesses, is having financial difficulties according to Claudia Nyegaard of the Kittson Community Health Service. In a recent discussion with the county board, Nyegaard explained that there are several options available, but in all viable options, the cost of providing the service will go up. In a possible merger with the Public Health service, there is also the concern that staff persons are paid to provide the same help to Medicare patients, while Hospice uses volunteers, and Nyegaard is worried that the volunteers will feel slighted. Message of peace goes to Japan

Mahnomen — A thousand paper cranes, created with the ancient Japanese art of origami, paper folded into three-dimensional forms, will soon arrive in Japan as a gift from Mahnomen students. The symbolic gift was made by the Mahnomen elementary school's 55 fifth-graders and is their way of honoring a 12-year-old Japanese girl, Sadako Sasaki, who died in 1955 as a result of radiation from the bomb at the end of World War II. The class has been reading about Sasaki and the Japanese legend that if a person could fold 1,000 paper cranes they would have a long life. Some of the students have also prepared haiku poetry to send with the cranes. (Mahnomen Pioneer)

Pea producers to plant, harvest, process 40 acres

Fosston — Northern Minnesota Pea Producers is getting ready to expand production of edible peas. At a March meeting of about 80 growers the future of the crop was discussed and plans made to plant, harvest and process about 40 acres of peas. Planting sites are north of Fosston, northeastern Norman county near Rindahl, Polk county south of McIntosh, Clearwater county north of Clearbrook and Red Lake county west of Brooks. Test plots were planted at these sites last summer to determine soil suitability. A summer tour of the project is also being planned. (Thirteen Towns)

Hallock and Argyle consider sharing economic developer

Hallock/Argyle — The search for an economic developer is not just a project for the city of Hallock or the city of Argyle. The two are considering combining to hire an economic developer and share the cost of the project. Duties for the position will include working on business retention as well as trying to bring new businesses into the area. (Kittson County Enterprise)

Rep. Wally Sparby, pictured as he filed with the Secretary of State as a candidate for State Representative from District 1B, was appointed by President Bill Clinton Wednesday as state director of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. He plans to begin duties in his new position May 17.

Rep. Sparby appointed as state ASCS director

Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls had a long-time wish fulfilled Wednesday when President Bill Clinton appointed him to the office of state director of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) with offices in St. Paul.

"I have wanted to serve as state ASCS director since my early service with ASCS," Rep. Sparby said in a telephone interview Thursday. He served with the federal agency for 13 years from 1953 to 1977 and was Pennington county director when he left ASCS to go into private business as a partner in the local John Deere dealership.

"I let it be known I was interested in the office and I campaigned hard for it," Sparby said. "When Charles Duncan, the liaison between President Clinton and the Department of Agriculture, called Wednesday at 3:05 p.m. and asked if I wanted the job, I told him I most certainly did. I am extremely pleased to have received the appointment."

Sparby said he was told he could assume the duties as soon as he wished, but he plans to continue his work as District 1B representative through the current legislative session. He expects the session to end in the first half of May and will resign as state representative at that time to take over as state ASCS director May 17.

The resignation will create an opening for state representative in the district which will be filled by a special election to be called by Gov. Arne Carlson. Sparby was elected to a two-year term last November.

Joe Manske, director of elections in the Minnesota Secretary of State office, told the Northern Watch that when resignations take place when the legislature is not in session, the governor usually calls for the special election in November when it could be combined with other elections. This is not a requirement, however, and the governor may call for the election earlier if he chooses to do so.

The resignation is submitted to the governor who issues a writ of election to the Secretary of State's office, Manske said. The writ will specify a filing period, primary election if necessary and a general election date. When resignations take place during a legislative session, he said, this procedure is condensed to about a month.

The opening is expected to create a good deal of political activity in the district. Joel Swanson of Thief River Falls announced his candidacy for DFL endorsement immediately after Sparby's appointment. (See separate story in today's issue.)

Sparby said he expected about five candidates to be interested in the DFL endorsement but didn't specify any names.

As state ASCS director Sparby will supervise an office staff of 23 people, seven district directors and 730 employees on the county level throughout the state. The office administers federal farm programs and Sparby said he is hopeful that he will be able to participate in formation of the new federal farm program to be adopted in 1995.

He said he intends to first become acquainted with the office staff and procedure and during his employment to meet with the media and talk about agricultural issues and concerns.

Regarding his resignation from legislative service, Sparby said he is a firm believer in term limits and has supported legislation that would limit legislative service. He said the ASCS position offers a new challenge and that he believes it is time to move on to other things. He said he appreciates having the opportunity to serve northwestern Minnesota residents as state representative and has worked hard to be

TRF Council accepts grant to improve Engelstad park

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Thief River Falls city council has accepted a grant to improve Engelstad park. The council, however, acknowledged the concerns of the neighborhood, which has objected to many of the improvements.

For the sake of clarity, the council accepted a grant for improvements to Engelstad park without any conditions. In the past few weeks, lengthy discussions have taken place during city council meetings and committee meetings about the subject. Neighborhood residents objected to the improvements primarily because of the potential for an increase in noise and parking problems.

Tuesday night, the neighborhood residents were ready to make some concessions. Without jeopardizing the grant, the council accepted the grant, and in a separate motion, acknowledged the concerns of the neighborhood.

It now appears that the city will go ahead with the improvement project, which includes two additional tennis courts and a basketball court. The proposed basketball court might replace the basketball court already at the park. Final details of the project will be worked out with neighborhood residents during a park and recreation board meeting.

Steps have already been taken to eliminate some of the concerns of the neighborhood residents. A backboard at the tennis courts was removed, and law enforcement and city officials will be more sensitive to the concerns of residents as regards parking and noise.

■ The council approved a request from the Community Band.

Les Torgerson, director of the Community Band, and Ormond Johnson, secretary/treasurer, presented a request for $2,400 to the council. Johnson and Torgerson explained the activities and expenses of the band. The band, is composed of over 50 musicians, who come from Thief River Falls and several area communities. Northland Community College provides the band director salary, and space for the band to rehearse. The band which advertises the city wherever it goes, is planning a spring trip to the Landmark Center. Much of the cost of the trip is paid for by band members.

■ The council approved a recommendation to amend zoning for property to be occupied by the new school, and a conditional use permit request to construct an elementary school.

During a discussion at a recent Planning commission meeting, major topics pertaining to the new school were discussed. Those items included transportation, and traffic control impacts, on-site parking, proposed street, road and drainage improvements, and utilities necessary to serve the facility. In regard to parking impacts, a total of 166 on-site parking spaces, not including the bus transfer area, are being proposed. Representatives of the school district indicated that this was enough for every day events, but others wondered if there shouldn't be more to handle

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Oof-da Tacos, a Mexican-style food with a Norwegian-sounding name is spreading its fried wheat bread wings and opening a restaurant in St. Louis Park.

A staple food at county fairs, town festivals and events of every shape, size and color, Oof-da Tacos will compete with the likes of Orange Julius and One Potato Two under the neon lights of Knollwood Mall.

Marc and Connie Parenteau, co-owners of the new franchise and the Oof-da Taco empire, hope the new location will clear the path for more franchises.

Five mobile Oof-da Taco stands operate in Northwest Minnesota. Oof-da Tacos are also permanently on the menu at Rooters sports bar in Crookston.

Neither the Parenteaus nor Don and Sharon Ramberg, the founders, expected Oof-da Tacos to go this far.

The Origin

Sharon based the Oof-da Taco concept on "Indian tacos" she tasted at a black powder shoot in South Dakota 11 years ago. The tacos in South Dakota, Sharon said, tasted awful but she liked the idea of a fried wheat bread shell.

Sharon made changes in the shell and her taco quickly became a hit among family members. The taco, topped with taco-seasoned ground beef or chicken, fresh lettuce, shredded cheese and tomatoes has retained its basic ingredient, the bread shell, over the years.

A festival in Ramberg's hometown of Mentor lacked food stands. "Why don't we make tacos?" Don asked. "You've got to be kidding. Who's going to do all the work?" she replied. Sharon gave in.

With the money the Rambergs made at the Mentor celebration they took a second honeymoon in Colorado. Sharon never thought she'd sell tacos again, but numerous calls and letters from Oof-da enthusiasts prompted them to start the business.

The Business

After nine years of selling insurance, Marc was growing tired of his job. He talked with Don and Sharon about their two-year-old Oof-da Taco enterprise. Within one month he was out of insurance and into tacos.

"The biggest difference is everybody you deal with in the insurance business has a complaint and is unhappy — really unhappy about the premium being too high or the claim being too low, but in this business everybody you deal with is happy. You're at a fair. You're at a carnival of some kind and everybody you deal with is upbeat, just the opposite of the insurance business and I like that," Marc said.

Marc bought half of the business from the Rambergs and plowed through piles of paperwork to gain franchising rights from the government.

The business expanded to include mobile franchises in Alexandria, Brainerd, Brooks (Parenteau), Mentor (Ramberg), and Red Lake Falls.

Franchise rights cost $5,000 and

Connie and Marc Parenteau, co-owners of the Oof-da Tacos enterprise for 9 years, recently opened a franchise in the Twin Cities. They also own a franchise based-out of Brooks and travel throughout Northwest Minnesota, selling tacos at county fairs and festivals. Last year they sold approximately 20,000 Oof-da Tacos at WE Fest, a country music jamboree.

Melvin Churness of Clearbrook, Vernon Woid of Gully and Clarence Myers of Warroad (left to right) perform at the Country Music Jam Session last Sunday. As many as 35 different musicians have performed at the sessions, from ages six to 87 and audiences have swelled to 135 members. As many as six accordionists have performed at one time.

Jam sessions are popular

Comer, on guitar, Melvin Anderson on fiddle and Ralph Hagen on bass — continue to crank out songs like "Faded Love" and "Where Am I Going To Live When I Get Home."

Most of the musicians have played their instrument for decades. Myhrum learned how to play in high school. The Armed Services exposed him to more music. When he served from 1952 to 1954, he had the opportunity to hear country musicians Little Jimmy Dickens and "Thumbs" Carlisle.

Judge Anderson started playing fiddle when he was about 10 years old. He stopped playing the fiddle for 30 years, started again in 1974 and "has played ever since."

The musician's staple is the flat top guitar, but no instruments are off-limits — from wailing saxes to wheezing accordions (up to six accordionists have performed at one time). Performers' ages range from six to 87.

[illegible] "melting pot so to speak," said Myhrum from under his black cowboy hat. Last Sunday, musicians represented 11 towns. Musicians form different groups during the sessions, performing with some groups and sitting out others. They play in 20 minute sets.

Some groups perform for local retirement homes and the Rolaag threshing festival. They seldom practice together other than before their Fosston performance.

Amidst puzzles, dolls and toys in the Embassy Center's basement/daycare room, musicians practice before performing.

One group practicing in the basement includes Harley Grise of Waubun on guitar; Ed Nephew of Fertile on dobro; Harley's brother Perry of Waubun on guitar; Alvin Anderson of Thief River Falls, vocal and guitar; and young sprout Mark Erickson of Fosston on guitar, who the other members let sit in with them Sunday.

During a performance at the Detroit Lakes pavilion last year they introduced themselves as "The Slewgrass Band" (just a little rougher than a bluegrass band).

Upstairs a group performs "Okie from Muskogee."

Downstairs the five musicians play by ear, bouncing chords and notes back and forth. "When you play by ear, you have to be in the mood for playing or it all sounds terrible," Hagen said.

After Myhrum tells them they're on next, the group leaves to play. They return one half-hour later joking back and forth. "We sure make noise don't we?" "If there were any rats here, they'd be gone." "Two or three performances and he (Erickson) will fit right in."

The groups perform original music as well as cover tunes. Perry Grise composed 30 songs, a couple of which are housed in the Library of Congress. Some of his titles include, "Roses Just For You," and "Everything I Own Is On My Back (old guitar in a gunny sack)." "I'm kind of bashful, but I sing them once in awhile," he said.

The performers do not admit to competition. "We're not here to compete. We're just here to show off," Hagen said. "It's all for fun," said Martin Ingebretson, band leader of The Happy Norwegians. "We play for entertainment."

Country Music Jam Sessions are the first Sunday of every month except September. They begin at 1 p.m., continue through potluck supper at 5:30 p.m., and into the evening. The Embassy Community Center, located on Third and North Eaton, Fosston, hosts the program.

Admission is free and all area musicians are invited to perform. For more information call Rodney Myhrum at 435-6913 in the evening.

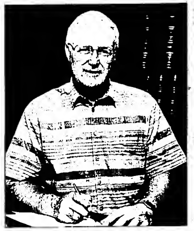
Message of peace goes to Japan



Mahnomen — A thousand paper cranes, created with the ancient Japanese art of origami, paper folded into three-dimensional forms, will soon arrive in Japan as a gift from Mahnomen students. The symbolic gift was made by the Mahnomen elementary school's 55 fifth-graders and is their way of honoring a 12-year-old Japanese girl, Sadako Sasaki, who died in 1955 as a result of radiation from the bomb at the end of World War II. The class has been reading about Sasaki and the Japanese legend that if a person could fold 1,000 paper cranes they would have a long life. Some of the students have also prepared haiku poetry to send with the cranes. (Mahnomen Pioneer)

Pea producers to plant, harvest, process 40 acres

Fosston — Northern Minnesota Pea Producers is getting ready to expand production of edible peas. At a March meeting of about 80 growers the future of the crop was discussed and plans made to plant, harvest and process about 40 acres of peas. Planting sites are north of Fosston, northeastern Norman county near Rindahl, Polk county south of McIntosh, Clearwater county north of Clearbrook and Red Lake county west of Brooks. Test plots were planted at these sites last summer to determine soil suitability. A summer tour of the project is also being planned. (Thirteen Towns)

Hallock and Argyle consider sharing economic developer

Hallock/Argyle — The search for an economic developer is not just a project for the city of Hallock or the city of Argyle. The two are considering combining to hire an economic developer and share the cost of the project. Duties for the position will include working on business retention as well as trying to bring new businesses into the area. (Kittson County Enterprise)

Rep. Wally Sparby, pictured as he filed with the Secretary of State as a candidate for State Representative from District 18, was appointed by President Bill Clinton Wednesday as state director of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. He plans to begin duties in his new position May 17.

Rep. Sparby appointed as state ASCS director

Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls had a long-time wish fulfilled Wednesday when President Bill Clinton appointed him to the office of state director of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) with offices in St. Paul.

"I have wanted to serve as state ASCS director since my early service with ASCS," Rep. Sparby said in a telephone interview Thursday. He served with the federal agency for 13 years from 1953 to 1977 and was Pennington county director when he left ASCS to go into private business as a partner in the local John Deere dealership.

"I let it be known I was interested in the office and I campaigned hard for it," Sparby said. "When Charles Duncan, the liaison between President Clinton and the Department of Agriculture, called Wednesday at 3:05 p.m. and asked if I wanted the job, I told him I most certainly did. I am extremely pleased to have received the appointment."

Sparby said he was told he could assume the duties as soon as he wished, but he plans to continue his work as District 1B representative through the current legislative session. He expects the session to end in the first half of May and will resign as state representative at that time to take over as state ASCS director May 17.

The resignation will create an opening for state representative in the district which will be filled by a special election to be called by Gov. Arne Carlson. Sparby was elected to a two-year term last November.

Joe Manske, director of elections in the Minnesota Secretary of State office, told the Northern Watch that when resignations take place when the legislature is not in session, the governor usually calls for the special election in November when it could be combined with other elections. This is not a requirement, however, and the governor may call for the election earlier if he chooses to do so.

The resignation is submitted to the governor who issues a writ of election to the Secretary of State's office, Manske said. The writ will specify a filing period, primary election if necessary and a general election date. When resignations take place during a legislative session, he said, this procedure is condensed to about a month.

The opening is expected to create a good deal of political activity in the district. Joel Swanson of Thief River Falls announced his candidacy for DFL endorsement immediately after Sparby's appointment. (See separate story in today's issue.)

Sparby said he expected about five candidates to be interested in the DFL endorsement but didn't specify any names.

As state ASCS director Sparby will supervise an office staff of 23 people, seven district directors and 730 employees on the county level throughout the state. The office administers federal farm programs and Sparby said he is hopeful that he will be able to participate in formation of the new federal farm program to be adopted in 1995.

He said he intends to first become acquainted with the office staff and procedure and during his employment to meet with the media and talk about agricultural issues and concerns.

Regarding his resignation from legislative service, Sparby said he is a firm believer in term limits and has supported legislation that would limit legislative service. He said the ASCS position offers a new challenge and that he believes it is time to move on to other things. He said he appreciates having the opportunity to serve northwestern Minnesota residents as state representative and has worked hard to be

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Thief River Falls city council has accepted a grant to improve Engelstad park. The council, however, acknowledged the concerns of the neighborhood, which has objected to many of the improvements.

For the sake of clarity, the council accepted a grant for improvements to Engelstad park without any conditions. In the past few weeks, lengthy discussions have taken place during city council meetings and committee meetings about the subject. Neighborhood residents objected to the improvements primarily because of the potential for an increase in noise and parking problems.

Tuesday night, the neighborhood residents were ready to make some concessions. Without jeopardizing the grant, the council accepted the grant, and in a separate motion, acknowledged the concerns of the neighborhood.

It now appears that the city will go ahead with the improvement project, which includes two additional tennis courts and a basketball court. The proposed basketball court might replace the basketball court already at the park. Final details of the project will be worked out with neighborhood residents during a park and recreation board meeting.

Steps have already been taken to eliminate some of the concerns of the neighborhood residents. A backboard at the tennis courts was removed, and law enforcement and city officials will be more sensitive to the concerns of residents as regards parking and noise.

■ The council approved a request from the Community Band.

Les Torgerson, director of the Community Band, and Ormond Johnson, secretary/treasurer, presented a request for $2,400 to the council. Johnson and Torgerson explained the activities and expenses of the band. The band, is composed of over 50 musicians, who come from Thief River Falls and several area communities. Northland Community College provides the band director salary, and space for the band to rehearse. The band which advertises the city wherever it goes, is planning a spring trip to the Landmark Center. Much of the cost of the trip is paid for by band members.

■ The council approved a recommendation to amend zoning for property to be occupied by the new school, and a conditional use permit request to construct an elementary school.

During a discussion at a recent Planning commission meeting, major topics pertaining to the new school were discussed. Those items included transportation, and traffic control impacts, on-site parking, proposed street, road and drainage improvements, and utilities necessary to serve the facility. In regard to parking impacts, a total of 166 on-site parking spaces, not including the bus transfer area, are being proposed. Representatives of the school district indicated that this was enough for every day events, but others wondered if there shouldn't be more to handle

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Oof-da Tacos, a Mexican-style food with a Norwegian-sounding name is spreading its fried wheat bread wings and opening a restaurant in St. Louis Park.

A staple food at county fairs, town festivals and events of every shape, size and color, Oof-da Tacos will compete with the likes of Orange Julius and One Potato Two under the neon lights of Knollwood Mall.

[illegible] co-owners of the new franchise and the Oof-da Taco empire, hope the new location will clear the path for more franchises.

Five mobile Oof-da Taco stands operate in Northwest Minnesota. Oof-da Tacos are also permanently on the menu at Rooters sports bar in Crookston.

Neither the Parenteaus nor Don and Sharon Ramberg, the founders, expected Oof-da Tacos to go this far.

The Origin

Sharon based the Oof-da Taco concept on "Indian tacos" she tasted at a black powder shoot in South Dakota 11 years ago. The tacos in South Dakota, Sharon said, tasted awful but she liked the idea of a fried wheat bread shell.

Sharon made changes in the shell and her taco quickly became a hit among family members. The taco, topped with taco-seasoned ground beef or chicken, fresh lettuce, shredded cheese and tomatoes has retained its basic ingredient, the bread shell, over the years.

A festival in Ramberg's hometown of Mentor lacked food stands. "Why don't we make tacos?" Don asked. "You've got to be kidding. Who's going to do all the work?" she replied. Sharon gave in.

With the money the Rambergs made at the Mentor celebration they took a second honeymoon in Colorado. Sharon never thought she'd sell tacos again, but numerous calls and letters from Oof-da enthusiasts prompted them to start the business.

The Business

After nine years of selling insurance, Marc was growing tired of his job. He talked with Don and Sharon about their two-year-old Oof-da Taco enterprise. Within one month he was out of insurance and into tacos.

"The biggest difference is everybody you deal with in the insurance business has a complaint and is unhappy — really unhappy about the premium being too high or the claim being too low, but in this business everybody you deal with is happy. You're at a fair. You're at a carnival of some kind and everybody you deal with is upbeat, just the opposite of the insurance business and I like that," Marc said.

Marc bought half of the business from the Rambergs and plowed through piles of paperwork to gain franchising rights from the government.

The business expanded to include mobile franchises in Alexandria, Brainerd, Brooks (Parenteau), Mentor (Ramberg), and Red Lake Falls.

Connia and Marc Parenteau, co-owners of the Oof-da Tacos enterprise for 9 years, recently opened a franchise in the Twin Cities. They also own a franchise based out of Brooks and travel throughout Northwest Minnesota, selling tacos at county fairs and festivals. Last year they sold approximately 20,000 Oof-da Tacos at WE Fest, a country music jamboree.

Gravel equipment vandalized near Mahnomen

Mahnomen — Damage in the thousands of dollars was done last week to equipment located in a Mahnomen area gravel pit. The damage to the equipment was discovered April 9 at the Toelke gravel pit, southwest of Mahnomen and reported to the sheriff's department. Two screeners, a custom-built Caterpillar Diesel and a Pioneer were vandalized. These are portable units which had been on the site all winter. Tools were on the ground, hydraulic hoses destroyed and all gauges, handles and controls on motorized equipment was broken off by being hit with rocks. Suspects may have been driving four-wheelers. The sheriff's department is investigating the matter. (Mahnomen Pioneer)

Bemidji city county asked to seek federal funds for tourist information center

Bemidji — The Bemidji city council has been asked to apply to a $150,000 federal grant to aid in constructing a tourist information center at the Lake Bemidji waterfront. The funds, if the city is successful, would leverage other state funds, resulting in an $850,000 project utilizing a variety of funding sources. The plan calls for replacing the existing building housing the chamber of commerce, the county historical society and several other agencies with a new visitor information center/rest stop. The Bemidji Visitors and Convention bureau, Joint Economic Development and the United Way of Bemidji would also be housed in the new building. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Argyle children win jelly bean contest

Argyle — A contest was held in the Argyle elementary school this month to guess the number of jelly beans in a gallon jug. Two jugs were set up so that grades K-3 could guess on one jar and grades 4-6 on the other. Ben McLean's guess of 1,103 was the closest to the actual count of 1,067 in the first jar. Dana Anderson's guess of 1,199 was closest to the actual count of 1,194 in the second. The children won the jars of jelly beans and should have some happy eating ahead. (Messenger)

Vision 2001 committee in Fosston promotes city banners

Fosston — To make Fosston more visually attractive for residents and visitors, the Vision 2001 committee is sponsoring an "Adopt a Banner" promotion. The vertical banners can be displayed from street poles in the business district and along Highway 2. The design will include a logo of trees and the city's name printed on a blue background. Banners can be adopted for $75 each and will then include the name of an individual, business or organization at the bottom of the banner. The plan is to put the banners up in mid-June. Marvin Windows to begin five-day work week

Tweed resigns as Beltrami county auditor

Bemidji — Long-time Beltrami county auditor Jaile Tweed is resigning her position at the end of the month in order to spend more time with her family. She and her husband, Greg, are raising four children, ages nine to 13, and she stated that she wants to spend more time with them before they are old enough to leave home. Tweed first joined the county auditor's office as a part-time clerk in 1970. She was appointed auditor on Mar. 1, 1981, following the resignation of Jim Thoreen. She was then elected to the position in 1982 and re-elected in 1986 and 1990. (Bemidji Pioneer) special events such as Christmas programs or concerts.

City council accepts grant for project at Engelstad park

Following the discussion, the commission approved a request to rezone the property from Agricultural district to Suburban residential district. In addition, the commission approved a request for a conditional use permit to construct an elementary school on the property.

■ The council approved a variance request by Jubilee Foods and Hartz Foods for a sign, and approved the final plat of Barnick's second addition.

The Board of Zoning and Appeals recommended to the council that Jubilee Foods be provided with a variance of one foot to the height limitation of 8-feet, and a 3-foot variance to a ordinance provision that requires the top of the sign not to extend higher than one-foot below the roof line. The board based its findings on criteria used for granting variances, a qualified contractor will mount the wall sign for appropriate wind loading concerns, the wall sign is the smallest wall sign provided by Jubilee Foods imaging program, and, the sign will be mounted high enough above the sidewalk in front of the store to the benefit of public safety.

Final plat of the Barnick's second addition will assist in the development of plans for the proposed "Greenwood Terrace", a congregate housing facility. Barnick's second addition is located behind Kordel's.

■ The council discussed several items of information, which included a proposal to put the city out of the business of opening car doors, a plan to certify or inspect rental property, and a proposal by Bridgeman's/Land O'Lakes to have the city issue $1.5 million in industrial bonds to allow improvements to be made to the milk processing plant in Thief River Falls.

The public safety committee has received a request by a local company to open car doors. Currently, the police are opening car doors for citizens at no charge. Last year, the city police opened over 1,100 car doors as a public service to residents. The local business proposes to open the car doors for $20 to $35, depending upon the time of day and year.

The public safety committee will also be discussing certification of rental property. Mayor Robert Reeve noted that the proposition needs a lot of study.

Land O'Lakes, Inc. has developed a preliminary business plan not yet approved by the Land O'Lakes board covering plant expansions for the fluid milk processing center owned by the company and located within the corporate limits of the city of Thief River Falls. The project cost has been estimated at $1.5 million.

In other business, the council: approved a request to prepare a grant application for the Follow the Rivers bridge project; approved stump removal quotes; approved an agreement with Widseth, Smith and Nolting for consulting engineering services; accepted a bid of Aaron Industries for plastic refuse bags at $36.50 per thousand; accepted a quote of Marc Schenkey to screen up to 10,000 yards of sand three-eighths inch in size at the city-owned site for 75 cents per yard; approved a request for a city surplus property auction on May 8; approved a resolution approving plans and specifications and ordering advertisement of bids for the 1993 sidewalk and utility improvement project; accepted the bid of Bob Nelson in the amount of $1,267 for an ice merchandiser and $2,724 for an ice cube maker and storage bid for the liquor store; and approved the purchase of a total register system and management system for the liquor store.

Burning permits restricted to night time schedule

Thief River Falls Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman said he had just received an update from the Minnesota department of natural resources that limits burning to piled debris only and only during the night from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. The restrictions apply to burning outside the city limits, as burning within city limits is prohibited. Bjorkman said he has been told that it is very dry right now; but, the fire department has not had to respond to any grass fire calls yet.

Burning debris outside the city limits does require a permit. For more information contact the nearest fire department or department of natural resources officer.

Accidental discovery may end obesity

WASHINGTON—Researchers may have discovered a way to end obesity— by accident!

In a study with a potential cholesterol lowering agent, scientists noted an unusual side effect. Instead of lower cholesterol levels, patients receiving a natural plant colloid lost weight while body weight in a control group remained constant.

The scientists say the mechanism behind the weight loss is not clear, but suggest it is partially due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories. Scientists in another study published in the British Journal of Nutrition, found that patients consuming the same colloid lost weight in spite of being instructed not to alter normal eating patterns. Despite this evidence, other scientists may not agree on the weight loss benefits of colloids. Someday, pending further study, there could be universal agreement that colloids are helpful in confronting the problem of obesity.

National Dietary Research, whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, has successfully incorporated a series of colloids into a chewable food tablet called FS-1. When used as directed, FS-1 replaces high calorie fats with lower calorie nutrients, thus providing optimum nutrition with a minimum number of fat calories. According to an article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, consciously limiting the amount of food one consumes is not necessary to lose weight, provided you limit the fat.

A Florida company has obtained exclusive distribution rights to FS-1, which is available through pharmacies and other health care professionals.

Gravel equipment vandalized near Mahnomen

Mahnomen — Damage in the thousands of dollars was done last week to equipment located in a Mahnomen area gravel pit. The damage to the equipment was discovered April 9 at the Toelke gravel pit, southwest of Mahnomen and reported to the sheriff's department. Two screeners, a custom-built Caterpillar Diesel and a Pioneer were vandalized. These are portable units which had been on the site all winter. Tools were on the ground, hydraulic hoses destroyed and all gauges, handles and controls on motorized equipment was broken off by being hit with rocks. Suspects may have been driving four-wheelers. The sheriff's department is investigating the matter. (Mahnomen Pioneer)

Bemidji city county asked to seek federal funds for tourist information center

Bemidji — The Bemidji city council has been asked to apply to a $150,000 federal grant to aid in constructing a tourist information center at the Lake Bemidji waterfront. The funds, if the city is successful, would leverage other state funds, resulting in an $850,000 project utilizing a variety of funding sources. The plan calls for replacing the existing building housing the chamber of commerce, the county historical society and several other agencies with a new visitor information center/rest stop. The Bemidji Visitors and Convention bureau, Joint Economic Development and the United Way of Bemidji would also be housed in the new building. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Argyle children win jelly bean contest

Argyle — A contest was held in the Argyle elementary school this month to guess the number of jelly beans in a gallon jug. Two jugs were set up so that grades K-3 could guess on one jar and grades 4-6 on the other. Ben McLean's guess of 1,103 was the closest to the actual count of 1,067 in the first jar. Dona Anderson's guess of 1,199 was closest to the actual count of 1,194 in the second. The children won the jars of jelly beans and should have some happy eating ahead. (Messenger)

Vision 2001 committee in Fosston promotes city banners

Fosston — To make Fosston more visually attractive for residents and visitors, the Vision 2001 committee is sponsoring an "Adopt a Banner" promotion. The vertical banners can be displayed from street poles in the business district and along Highway 2. The design will include a logo of trees and the city's name printed on a blue background. Banners can be adopted for $75 each and will then include the name of an individual, business or organiztion at the bottom of the banner. The plan to put the banners up in mid-June. (Thirteen Towns)

Marvin Windows to begin five-day work week

Warroad — Dispelling rumors that Marvin Windows and Doors would continue to run on four-day weeks through the summer, Jake Marvin stated recently that this is not the case. Orders have increased and it now appears that workers will be back on a five-day week very soon. (Warroad Pioneer)

Tweed resigns as Beltrami county auditor

Bemidji — Long-time Beltrami county auditor Julie Tweed is resigning her position at the end of the month in order to spend more time with her family. She and her husband, Greg, are raising four children, ages nine to 13, and she states that she wants to spend more time with them before they are old enough to leave home. Tweed first joined the county auditor's office as a part-time clerk in 1970. She was appointed auditor on Mar. 1, 1981, following the resignation of Jim Thoreen. She was then elected to the position in 1982, and re-elected in 1986 and 1990. (Bemidji Pioneer)

special events such as Christmas programs or concerts.

Following the discussion, the commission approved a request to rezone the property from Agricultural district to Suburban residential district. In addition, the commission approved a request for a conditional use permit to construct an elementary school on the property.

■ The council approved a variance request by Jubilee Foods and Hartz Foods for a sign, and approved the final plat of Barnick's second addition.

The Board of Zoning and Appeals recommended to the council that Jubilee Foods be provided with a variance of one foot to the height limitation of 8-feet, and a 3-foot variance to a ordinance provision that requires the top of the sign not to extend higher than one-foot below the roof line. The board based its findings on criteria used for granting variances, a qualified contractor will mount the wall sign for appropriate wind loading concerns, the wall sign is the smallest wall sign provided by Jubilee Foods imaging program, and, the sign will be mounted high enough above the sidewalk in front of the store to the benefit of public safety.

Final plat of the Barnick's second addition will assist in the development of plans for the proposed "Greenwood Terrace", a congregate housing facility. Barnick's second addition is located behind Kordel's.

■ The council discussed several items of information, which included a proposal to put the city out of the business of opening car doors, a plan to certify or inspect rental property, and a proposal by Bridgeman's/Land O'Lakes to have the city issue $1.5 million in industrial bonds to allow improvements to be made to the milk processing plant in Thief River Falls.

The public safety committee has received a request by a local company to open car doors. Currently, the police are opening car doors for citizens at no charge. Last year, the city police opened over 1,100 car doors as a public service to residents. The local business proposes to open the car doors for $20 to $35, depending upon the time of day and year.

The public safety committee will also be discussing certification of rental property. Mayor Robert Reeve noted that the proposition needs a lot of study.

Land O'Lakes, Inc. has developed a preliminary business plan not yet approved by the Land O'Lakes board covering plant expansions for the fluid milk processing center owned by the company and located within the corporate limits of the city of Thief River Falls. The project cost has been estimated at $1.5 million.

In other business, the council: approved a request to prepare a grant application for the Follow the Rivers bridge project; approved stump removal quotes; approved an agreement with Widseth, Smith and Nolting for consulting engineering services; accepted a bid of Aaron Industries for plastic refuse bags at $36.50 per thousand; accepted a quote of Marc Schenkey to screen up to 10,000 yards of sand three-eighths inch in size at the city-owned site for 75 cents per yard; approved a request for a city surplus property auction on May 8; approved a resolution approving plans and specifications and ordering advertisement of bids for the 1993 sidewalk and utility improvement project; accepted the bid of Bob Nelson in the amount of $1,267 for an ice merchandiser and $2,724 for an ice cube maker and storage bid for the liquor store; and approved the purchase of a total register system and management system for the liquor store.

Burning permits restricted to night time schedule

Thief River Falls Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman said he had just received an update from the Minnesota department of natural resources that limits burning to piled debris only and only during the night from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. The restrictions apply to burning outside the city limits, as burning within city limits is prohibited. Bjorkman said he has been told that it is very dry right now; but, the fire department has not had to respond to any grass fire calls yet.

Burning debris outside the city limits does require a permit. For more information contact the nearest fire department or department of natural resources officer.

Accidental discovery may end obesity

WASHINGTON—Researchers may have discovered a way to end obesity—— by accident!

In a study with a potential cholesterol lowering agent, scientists noted an unusual side effect. Instead of lower cholesterol levels, patients receiving a natural plant colloid lost weight while body weight in a control group remained constant.

The scientists say the mechanism behind the weight loss is not clear, but suggest it is partially due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories. Scientists in another study published in the British Journal of Nutrition, found that patients consuming the same colloid lost weight in spite of being instructed not to alter normal eating patterns. Despite this evidence, other scientists may not agree on the weight loss benefits of colloids. Someday, pending further study, there could be universal agreement that colloids are helpful in confronting the problem of obesity.

National Dietary Research, whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, has successfully incorporated a series of colloids into a chewable food tablet called FS-1. When used as directed, FS-1 replaces high caloric fats with lower caloric nutrients, thus providing optimum nutrition with a minimum number of fat calories. According to an article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, consciously limiting the amount of food one consumes is not necessary to lose weight, provided you limit the fat.

A Florida company has obtained exclusive distribution rights to FS-1, which is available through pharmacies and other health care professionals.

HERE ARE SOME DELICIOUS, HOME-MADE PIES FOR YOU TO TRY.

Soupçon
By Sherry LaCoursiere

Something good you can make with frozen or fresh fruit:

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB PIE

1 unbaked pie shell
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1-1/2 cups rhubarb (frozen or fresh)
1-1/2 cups strawberries, fresh or frozen (crush and add 1/2 cup sugar if fresh)
2 eggs, beaten
1 tablespoon butter
cinnamon

Mix all ingredients and place in pie shell. Cover with topping.

Topping

1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour

Mix ingredients together and place on top of pie. Bake 40 to 50 minutes at 350 degrees.

SWEET POTATO PIE

2 unbaked pie shells
2 cups sweet potatoes
4 tablespoons butter
1-1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
4 eggs
1-1/2 cups evaporated milk
4 teaspoons vanilla

Mash sweet potatoes until smooth. Add butter and mix well. Add remaining ingredients and mix well.

Place in unbaked pie shells and bake for 45 minutes at 350 degrees.

Another old time, flavorful favorite:

GOLDEN PEACH PIE

2 unbaked pie crusts
3/4 cup sugar (1/4 cup of this can be brown sugar, if desired)
2 to 3 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
5 cups sliced, peeled fresh peaches (9-10 peaches)
2 tablespoons butter

Combine sugar, flour and cinnamon. Add peaches and mix lightly. Spread in 9 inch pastry-lined pie pan and dot with butter.

Adjust top crush and pinch edges. Bake at 400 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes.

RHUBARB CUSTARD PIE

1 unbaked pie crust
3-1/2 cups coarsely chopped rhubarb
1-1/2 cups sugar
3 eggs, lightly beaten
1/4 cup half and half
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon flour

Combine rhubarb, sugar, eggs, half and half and salt.

Sprinkle flour evenly over pie shell bottom and then pour in above mixture.

Bake for 1 hour at 375 degrees.

Top with meringue.

This meringue is not supposed to shrink or toughen:

SUPER MERINGUE

1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water
1/2 cup boiling water
3 egg whites
6 tablespoons sugar
pinch of salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Dissolve cornstarch completely in cold water. Add boiling water and cook until clear, stirring constantly. Cool completely.

Beat egg whites. Gradually add sugar, salt and vanilla, beating at high speed.

Turn mixer to low and gradually beat in cooled cornstarch mixture. Turn mixer to high and beat until peaks form.

Place on pie. Bake at 375 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes to brown.

Robert Forbes and his family have been welcomed to Seventh-day Adventist church in Thief River Falls. This will be Forbes first full-time pastor's position. Bob and his wife Gerry have three children: Heather, age 13, Annie, age 12, and Matthew, age 9.

SDA welcomes Robert Forbes

When the Seventh-day Adventist church opens its doors for the dramatic musical, "Watch the Lamb" Friday and Sunday at 7:30 p.m., there will be a double welcome in store. Not only will this be the first formal occasion for Pastor Bob Forbes to welcome the community to his church, but it will provide an opportunity for the community to welcome him to the area as well.

Robert Forbes is the new Adventist pastor in Thief River Falls. This is his first full-time pastoring assignment. Forbes is not a foreigner to Minnesota. He was born in Wayzata. At the age of four and one-half his family moved to Lincoln, NE, where he resided for 20 years. While in Lincoln, he met and married Gerry Kahler from Goodrich, ND.

Shortly thereafter, the Forbes moved to Gerry's hometown in North Dakota where they spent 11 years farming, raising both small grain crops and range cattle. Bob states he learned patience from this experience. He also learned how to be involved in the small community church there. He liked it and felt the Lord was leading him to be a pastor. Receiving encouragement to respond to that calling, Forbes moved back to the Lincoln area to attend Union College where he majored in Theology. His wife operated a day care center and took primary responsibility for their three children while Bob devoted three years to intensive study and practical training at an area church. Forbes completed his undergraduate coursework in late Decembes and will formally graduate on May 9.

Pastor Bob Forbes and his wife Gerry have three children: Heather, age 13, Annie, age 12, and Matthew, age 9. All three children attend Seventh-day Adventist elementary school.

Swanson to seek DFL endorsement for 1B House seat

Joel Swanson

Joel Swanson of rural Thief River Falls, general manager of KTRF and KSNR radio since 1982, has announced that he will seek DFL endorsement for the District 1B seat in the Minnesota House of Representatives currently held by Rep. Wally Sparby.

Rep. Sparby will resign the seat following the current legislative session to serve as state director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Gov. Arne Carlson will call a special election to fill the vacancy.

Swanson is a past president of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the Convention and Visitors Bureau and a member of Jobs Incorporated.

Swanson said he and his wife Donna made the decision some time ago that he would seek endorsement pending Sparby's appointment by President Clinton.

"I have always been interested and involved in politics," he said. "Donna and I have always known this day would come. We are excited about the opportunity and look forward to meeting the people of the district and representing them in St. Paul."

The Swansons have been married for 24 years and have five children. A 1970 graduate of the University of Minnesota—Morris with a bachelor of science degree in political science, Swanson considers himself to be very pro education. He has served on active duty with the U.S. Marine Corps and in the Marine Corps Reserve, attaining the rank of Major.

"Both Donna and I were born and raised on small family farms near Morris," Swanson said. "We feel a special kinship to those people who are so committed to the land and work so hard to feed us so well. How we can treat our farm families as second class citizens is beyond me!"

He said his goal would be to become the kind of effective and respected legislator Sparby has been. "I admire Wally tremendously," he said. "The respect that he has earned from DFLers and I-Rs alike in his home district and in St. Paul is testimony to the type of person he is. The challenge to fill his shoes is certainly one of the most difficult I would ever face."

District 1B now includes all of Pennington and Red Lake counties, part of southwestern Marshall county and part of northwestern Polk county, including the city of East Grand Forks.

Rehab and cardiac clinic at Redeemer

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Up until the last national election our country had been drifting to Socialism. Now that the people have elected Mr. Clinton our President we find we are headed for Fascism.

Socialists own everything outright while Fascists control production by regulations without direct government ownership.

Mr. Clinton's agenda for the USA is a close carbon copy of Hitler's and Mussolini's Fascism. Consider more federal welfare, national health care, gun control with eventual confiscation, federal control of education, youth indoctrination and day care, national economic planning, massive deficit spending and a proposed 1,000-man national police force (gestapo) snooping into our lives.

While we do not have swastikas to show what we have to contend with, we have encroachments on our property rights and civil liberties all enforced with a myriad of government regulations.

Sincerely,
Arnold Honl
Roseau, MN

To The Editor:

Governor Arne Carlson has proclaimed the week of April 18-24 to be Volunteer Recognition Week. All areas of Minnesota should show our appreciation to volunteers for the service they provide to our communities.

I would like to call attention of all people to recognize the volunteer services in our own communities, whether they are urban or rural. Sometimes we take these services for granted and almost everyone volunteers for some type of activity. There are many groups and organizations that can use additional persons to help with community projects or service.

Service clubs include Lions, Rotary Kiwanis, Women of Today, Jaycees, American Legion, VFW, Elks, Eagles, Chamber of Commerce and others for all types of service.

Youth clubs include 4-H, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Key Club and others. Hospital service can be given through meals on wheels, junior volunteers and auxiliaries. Senior service includes the RSVP program, nutrition centers, transportation and others.

State, county and city government can use volunteer service on park boards, committees, fire and ambulance programs, youth hockey and baseball groups, adopt-a-highway and others.

Churches need choir members, ushers, Sunday school teachers and others and schools use volunteers for tutoring, reading, music, outings and assisting in a number of school activities.

If you look around you, you will find many opportunities for volunteer service. Many times you have served without realizing how much you have helped. April 18-24 is the week to recognize volunteers. Let's all give a standing ovation to all Minnesota volunteers. It means giving yourself a hand. You deserve it, and you have earned it.

Thanks for helping make our communities better places to live.

Respectfully,
Cliff Larson, Member
Region 1 Advisory Committee
Minnesota Office on Volunteer Services

Commissioner Says State 's Revenue System In Total Is Fair

Dorothy McClung, Minnesota Commissioner of Revenue, says that the state's system of collecting revenue is fair overall. "But the real point is that, to evaluate the question of fairness in the distribution of Minnesota's state and local tax burdens, we have to look at the entire system of taxes, not at any one tax in isolation," she said. "It is the combined effect of personal income taxes, sales and excise taxes and property taxes that should be the focus of the equity debate."

Most people seem to believe that the "fair" taxes are those paid by somebody else and that the "rich" people don't pay enough.

The Minnesota Tax Incidence Study, published recently by the state department of revenue, answers some of the questions about who pays what share of Minnesota's taxes. This study examined taxes paid during 1988 and is the first comprehensive study of the distribution of Minnesota state and local taxes by income level.

In the study year 90 per cent of all Minnesota taxpayers paid around nine per cent of their income in state and local taxes and accounted for 99 per cent of all taxes collected. The only taxpayers with a higher percentage tax burden were those in the lowest 10 per cent (earning less than $4,100 per year) who paid 16.7 per cent of their income in taxes.

As usual, however, figures can be misleading. The lower 10 per cent category included taxpayers with temporarily low incomes such as business owners who report overall losses for a single year and students who work part-time while in school.

Minnesota compares well in interstate comparisons of tax fairness. A 1991 study by the Citizens for Tax Justice shows that Minnesota was one of only six states in which the richest citizens paid a larger percentage of income in state and local taxes than did the poor. In government vernacular, a system in which the percentage of tax paid increases with a taxpayer's wealth is called "progressive."

Commissioner McClung said that property taxes, sales taxes and excise taxes are all based on the value of the item taxed rather than the purchaser's income and are therefore "regressive" taxes. There are those who would argue that claim, stating that higher income people purchase more goods and own more property and therefore pay a greater share of the three taxes mentioned.

Several changes have been made since the analysis of 1988 figures was initiated. An income tax "reform" passed in 1987 cut tax burdens for lower-income Minnesotans through increases in personal exemptions and the standard deduction. In fact, according to McClung, 250,000 low-income people were dropped from the income tax rolls altogether.

In 1991 the highest income tax rate was increased from 8 to 8.5 per cent, personal exemptions and itemized deductions for high-income taxpayers were phased out and lower income families were helped by adoption of the Working Family Credit. The income tax changes raised more than $47 million of additional revenue, most of which was paid for by taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes above $100,000.

The sales tax was increased from 6 to 6.5 per cent in 1991 and the base broadened in 1991 and 1992. McClung rationalizes this situation as follows:

"The additional revenue (from the .5 per cent increase) goes to the Local Government Trust Fund to help pay for property tax relief through state aid to local governments," she said. "Because the property tax is more regressive than the sales tax, this substitution of sales taxes for property taxes most likely increased overall progressivity."

Minnesota ranked 34th in the nation in the percentage of total revenue provided by a state sales tax. The percentage was 22 per cent in Minnesota while the national average is 25 per cent. (Figures for 1991 show that property taxes provided 30.6 per cent of state and local tax collections, individual income taxes 28.6 per cent and sales taxes 18.9 per cent.)

But we rank fourth in income taxes which account for more than 33 per cent of the state and local tax burden—7.5 percentage points above the national average.

Overall, how we pay our taxes may be reasonably fair. How much we pay is another concern. In 1991 taxes paid by each Minnesotan on average went up by just over $52 to $2,347.80—eighth highest in the nation.

While taxes paid increased $52 per capita, state and local spending in 1991 increased by $339 (eight per cent) to an average of $4,250. Our state ranks seventh highest in state spending per capita. The state ranks seventh in spending on education and fifth in public welfare spending, the latter increasing by 15.5 per cent to $674.80 per capita in 1991.

Let's hope that we are getting what we pay for in the expenditure of our tax revenue.

Protecting Drinking Water Is Vital

"The most important decisions about water are made by individuals in homes, in schools, in 12 and in communities," states John Daniel, chairman of the National Drinking Water Alliance. "We estimate that each person can make up to 30 decisions a day that affect water."

The alliance is urging people to make those 30 decisions with conserving and protecting water in mind—whether it is turning off the tap when brushing teeth, properly disposing of household toxins or voting for land use policies on the basis of how they affect community drinking water.

When water is in plentiful supply—as it usually is in this part of the country—it's hard to imagine trying to get along without it. Even if it is plentiful, however, it is too valuable to waste. All of us—no, each of us—must do our part to conserve water and to see to it that it is used wisely so we don't run out.

Wildlife Week is April 18-24

grove forests along the salty coastlines of southeast Asian islands, high-altitude cloud forests of South America, temperate rain forests of the U.S. Pacific Northwest, and tropical rain forests that form large pockets of green along the Earth's equator.

Tropical rain forests once covered about 20 percent of the Earth's land surface. Today they cover less than seven percent.

Fifty-one million acres of tropical rain forest are destroyed each year, amounting to 140,000 acres destroyed each day. Fifty percent of the Earth's plants and animals are believed to live in tropical rain forests. A conservative estimate of the number of species that are becoming extinct in the tropics each day is from 50 to 150.

Native people living in the rain forest have practiced clearing, slashing and burning vegetation on a small scale for hundreds of years. Openings are established in the forest, allowing crops to be grown for their on subsistence. Rainy forests were able to sustain themselves on this small scale, but with the number of people moving into rain forests, the large-scale cutting usually are not allowed to lie fallow for very long before they are cultivated again, or before they are converted to cattle pasture. Heavy rainfall causes erosion and water pollution. The soil in the rain forest is not very fertile, but the ash from burning the vegetation makes a nutrient-rich bed for crops. The fertility of cleared areas lasts only a few years. After farming these areas for a few years, the cultivated area must lie follow for about 20 years, allowing forest plants to re-establish themselves before the area can again be cleared, burned and cultivated.

Why should we save rain forests? Allowing native rain forest people to continue living as they have been will allow them to pass on their knowledge about the forests to their own people and people of the world. People living outside the tropical rain forests purchase wood and foods such as bananas, nuts, spices and coffee for their survival. A diversity of habitats allows for a diversity of plants and wildlife species, allowing for their survival and for man to enjoy.

Many North American songbirds living here in the summer depend on the tropics for survival during our winter months. Keeping tropical rain forests will help stabilize world weather patterns.

In conjunction with National Wildlife Week, April 22 is the 23rd annual observance of Earth Day. Organizers of the event ask that we all do our part to keep Mother Earth a healthy planet for plans, wildlife and humans.

Mark Naplin, chairman of the Red Lake Electric Trust, Inc., board of directors, presents a $3,000 check to Martha Wissmann of Northland Community Hospice at the Red Lake Electric Cooperative's annual meeting. The donation was the first made to community organizations from Operation Round Up funds.

Hospice receives first Operation Round Up check

Northland Community Hospice of Thief River Falls is the first recipient of funds from Operation Round Up, a program started in January of this year by Red Lake Electric Cooperative headquartered in Red Lake Falls.

Mark Naplin of rural Red Lake Falls, president of the Red Lake Electric Trust board, presented hospice director Martha Wissman with a check for $3,000 at the annual meeting of Red Lake Electric Cooperative in Thief River Falls March 31.

"The customers of Red Lake Electric Cooperative are making this donation possible through their generosity and commitment to their community," Naplin said in making the presentation.

In accepting the donation, Wissman thanked the members in attendance at the annual meeting and encouraged people who have need to utilize the services that Northland Community Hospice provides. She said the Operation Round Up donation would be used to provide children with books on how to deal with death and to train local volunteers in delivering care to the dying and their families.

Under Operation Round Up, members of Red Lake Electric Cooperative can voluntarily "round up" their electric bills to the next highest dollar amount, with the difference between the bill and the next even dollar being donated to Operation Round Up. These monthly donations are then accumulated and contributed to worthwhile community organizations and projects. Currently 84 per cent of Red Lake Electric Cooperative's customers participate in the program.

Donations of Operation Round Up funds are determined by the Red Lake Electric Trust, Inc., a non-profit organization governed by a five-member board of directors. In addition to Naplin, other members of the board are Beverly Perreault, Veral Mosbeck and Ron Kennedy of Red Lake Falls and Gene Nelson of Viking.

Applications for donations can be obtained by contacting the Red Lake Electric Cooperative office at 253-2168.

Spring burning regulations are now in effect

Department of Natural Resources forestry department at Warroad has announced that restricted spring burning regulations for extreme northwestern Minnesota went into effect Thursday, April 15.

Burning is now restricted to piled debris and between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. Permits will not be issued under any circumstances to burn peat, railroad ties, tar paper, tires, plastics or garbage.

Burning outside of these constraints requires a special permit, according to Robert Wennerstrand, area forest supervisor at Warroad. Special permits require forest officer approval. Township fire wardens may issue special permits but only with forester authorization.

Township fire wardens are local citizens commissioned by the DNR to issue burning permits. They volunteer their time as a public service. In the western portion of the Warroad forestry area, fire departments play a very active role in wildfire suppression and are also commissioned to issue burning permits.

The Warroad DNR-Forestry office is responsible for wildfire suppression and regulating burning in northwest Beltrami county, the Northwest Angle of Lake of the Woods county as well as Kittson, Marshall and Pennington counties.

Thief River Falls pitchers Eric Bjorgaard (left) and Jason Olson combined on a three-hit shutout Thursday as the Prowlers opened their 1993 high school baseball season with a 6-0 win over Tri-County/Marshall County Central at Irv Wilson Field.

Bjorgaard, Olson split shutout win

■ Prowlers win baseball opener

Eric Bjorgaard and Jason Olson combined on a three-hit shutout that included 11 strike-outs and just one walk Thursday as Thief River Falls opened its 1993 high school baseball season with a 6-0 win over Tri-County/Marshall County Central at Irv Wilson Field.

Bjorgaard was not expected to be a part of the Prowlers' regular pitching rotation this spring. But with a bolk of the mound staff missing recent practice time while participating in the Lincoln High School choir trip to New York City, the sophomore righthander was given the Opening Day assignment by Thief River Falls coach Tracey Wensloff. He made the most of the opportunity by throwing four innings of two-hit ball, striking out eight.

"Eric threw strikes. That's the key," said Wensloff. "He got ahead of the hitters, and when you do that, it makes your job a lot easier. He has a good fastball, and he threw breaking balls for strikes."

Olson, a junior righthander who is trying to get a foot in the door of the Thief River Falls bullpen, was just as effective with three innings of work that included one hit, three strike-outs and a walk.

"Jason did a nice job," offered Wensloff. "I was a little concerned beforehand because it was the first action at the varsity level for either one of our pitchers. But they went out and did what they had to do to be successful. As well as we can play defensively, we just want our pitchers to keep the ball around the plate. And they did."

Thief River Falls didn't fare any better than the first-year Tri-County/Marshall County Central cooperative in the hit department, but the Prowlers made the visitors pay for five walks, two errors and three wild pitches.

Nathan Knutson walked with one out in the first inning, advanced on a pair of wild pitches and scored the game's first run on a field's choice ground-out by Marc Haugen.

Two hits and two walks added up to a four-run Thief River Falls second inning. Designated hitter Robert Nelson got an RBI out of a ground-out, Knutson plated two runs with a two-out double down the left field line, then scored himself when he headed to third on a wild pitch and kept on running when the throw from catcher Matt Kasprowicz sailed down the line.

Final run came in the third when Haugen walked, stole second and came all the way around on a ground ball out to short by Rick Ostby.

Tri-County/Marshall County Central pitching was shared by Shane and Brandon Borg. Shane Borg worked the first two innings, giving up five runs, two hits and four walks. Brandon Borg gave up one run, one hit and one walk over the final four innings.

Only player on either side with more than one hit for the day was first baseman Jeremy Tallum of Tri-County/Marshall County Central, who was 2-for-3.

TRF girls lose 24-7 to Lakers

Ten Thief River Falls errors opened the door for Detroit Lakes, and Lakers capitalized on the opportunity in a 24-7 North Sub-Section 8AA high school softball win over the Prowlers Thursday.

It was the 1993 home opener for the Prowlers, who lost a season-opening doubleheader at Bemidji earlier in the week. The Lakers rebounded from a 27-21 first-game loss at the hands of Moorhead to go 1-1.

"We just threw the ball around way too much," said Thief River Falls coach John Anderson. "Playing at home for the first time, I think they just tried to do too much. They forgot to do the simple things we have been working on."

Detroit Lakes supplemented those 10 Thief River Falls errors with 12 hits off losing pitcher LuAnne Maslowski, who walked only two batters. That was a contrast to the Lakers' opener against the Spuds that featured 44 walks.

"LuAnne did a pretty good job," noted Anderson.

An offensive highlight for the Prowlers was a fourth inning inside-the-park grand slam home run by Jamie Martell.

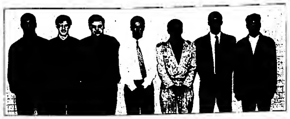
Bergland scores goal

Tim Bergland scored his third goal of the year and also added an assist Thursday as the Tampa Bay Lightning ended their first year in the National Hockey League with a 6-5 loss to the St. Louis Blues.



Bergland, a Lincoln High School graduate, also had an assist Tuesday in a 5-3 Tampa Bay win over Winnipeg.

The Lightning finished the year with a 23-53-7 record for 53 points – last place in the Norris Division, some 29 points behind fifth place Minnesota. Only teams with fewer points than Tampa Bay were the Ottawa Senators, who joined the NHL along with Tampa Bay this winter, and the second-year San Jose Sharks, but they were well behind the Lightning with just 24 points apiece.

Meetings...

■ Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association general membership meeting will be held Monday, April 19, at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln High School cafeteria. Elections of 1993-94 TRFAHA officers will be held.

■ Organizational meeting for the 1993 Thief River Trap League season will be held Wednesday, April 21, at 7 p.m. at the Trap Club.

Carlson named top TRF swimmer

Senior Matt Carlson was named the most valuable member of the 1992-93 Thief River Falls boys high school swimming team at the Prowlers' annual post-season banquet Tuesday.

Other special awards went to senior Daryl Kiesow, hardest worker; senior Adam Jacobson, most spirited; and junior Brad Cota, who was named most improved and was the recipient of the Coaches Award.

Cota and fellow junior Ryan Browning were named captains of the 1993-94 Prowlers, succeeding Kiesow and Brad Kragness.

Junior varsity awards went to freshman Chris Efta, most improved; eighth grader Aaron Sjaaheim, Coaches Award; and seventh grader Nate Keller, most spirited.

Athletic letters were presented to seniors Tony McEnolly, Tony Seulthorp, Carlson, Jacobson, Kiesow, and Kragness; juniors Guy Drevlow, Browning and Cota; sophomores Simon Krystosek and Steve Lyman; freshmen Chris Hagman, Justin Stevensen and Efta; eighth graders Jason Curfman, Charley Follett, Alex Morken, and Chris Pribula; seventh grader Josh Curfman; along with student managers Maja Turenne and Theresa Giauque.

Participation certificates went to eighth graders Jarahmia Efta, Josh Engevik, Matt Gustafson, Eric Hagen, Mickey McEnelly, Sjaaheim; seventh graders Nate Keller, Joe Lafrenier and Nick Tveitbakk; sixth graders Colin Browning and Eddie Swantek.

The Prowlers were 8-2 in dual meet competition this winter. They had 10 Section 8 qualifiers and advanced two relay teams to state – Kiesow, Cota, Carlson, and Jacobson in the 200 freestyle; Kiesow, Kragness, Carlson, and Cota in the 400 freestyle. Members of the relay teams, along with alternate Tony McEnelty, were presented with state meet plaques at the banquet.

Those two relay teams also came up with the Prowlers' two school record-setting efforts this season as the 200 freestyle unit turned in a 1:32.22 and the 400 freestyle outfit had a 3:22.65.

"We had a good year – a really successful season," said Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken. "We had our best finish (at the Section 8 meet), and we had our biggest team."

Graduation losses will hit the Prowlers big-time, but Lokken said the program has lots of potentially strong swimmers in the lower grades.

"We'll be down a notch next year," admitted Lokken, "but we've got a lot of good talent coming up for the future."

Brainerd sweeps NCC softball team

Brainerd overpowered Northland 24-6, 22-6 Wednesday in a season-opening Minnesota Community College Conference softball doubleheader played in Thief River Falls.

"I expected a rocky start," admitted first-year Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "Once we settled down it was okay. Brainerd is normally one of the better teams we see."

A 12-run first inning set the table for the rest of the day as Brainerd rolled to a 24-6 first-game win.

Kim Peterson and Barb Bengston were both 2-for-3 at the plate for the Pioneers, who were out-hit 17-8. Peterson finished with three RBI.

Prowlers lose pair

East Grand Forks and Moorhead handed Thief River Falls a pair of losses Thursday in a season-opening double-dual boys high school tennis match at East Grand Forks.

The Prowlers lost to the Green Wave 7-0 and fell to the Spuds 6-1.

Pioneers sign Kujava

Mark Dannhoff was appointed Northland Community College men's basketball coach last year well after the prime recruiting season had been completed. A 4-18 campaign followed.

In attempt to rectify both situations, Dannhoff has been busy lately trying to round up prospects that will enable Northland to rejoin the upper echelon of Minnesota Community College Conference basketball, where the Pioneers were perched under long-time head coach Chet Engelman, Dannhoff's predecessor.

Dannhoff's efforts were rewarded Wednesday when he was in Warren to sign the Ponies' Chad Kujava to a letter of intent to play basketball for the Pioneers beginning in 1993-94.

A guard specializing in long range shooting, Kujava averaged 19 points per game for Section 8A runner-up Warren this winter, earning Grand Forks Herald Northwest Minnesota Player of the Year honors.

"I think Chad was one of the best, if not the very best player in the area last year," said Dannhoff. "We're really, really excited about signing him. He is a major recruit for our program. Hopefully others will see that he will be playing at Northland and decide to follow him here."

Dannhoff expects three or four of the 1992-93 Pioneers to be back for their sophomore seasons next year, and would like to complement them with about 10 freshmen. His recruiting efforts include both in-state and out-state contacts.

Monday was the first day high school players could sign collegiate letters of intent. Kujava is bound to Northland if he is intent on playing junior college/community college basketball, but could still sign at a four-year school if the opportunity would arise.

Marc Haugen beat the ball to the bag for a stolen base as Tri-County/Marshall County Central second baseman Tollef Olson awaited the throw during the third inning of Thursday's high school baseball game at Irv Wilson Field. The Prowlers won 6-0.

Agassiz auto drive open

Lost Bay auto drive at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge is now open and will remain open through October.

The four-mile drive originates at refuge headquarters, located 11 miles east of Holt. It is open during daylight hours seven days a week. A quarter-mile long foot trail along the auto drive is available to get a closer look at nature.

The auto drive is self-interpreted with a leaflet. The foot trail has no interpretation facilities, but if you want to talk to a refuge staff member during your visit, you are welcome to visit the refuge office from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, excluding holidays. Brochures containing information about the refuge and auto drive are also available at the beginning of the auto drive and in the entrance to the office.

The 100-foot observation tower along Marshall County Road 7 is available for viewing the refuge by requesting a key at refuge headquarters during office hours, excluding holidays, or by making advance arrangement with refuge personnel. A breath-taking view awaits those willing to climb the tower. The 14-foot observation deck along Marshall County Road 7 that has been rehabilitated is complete and now open.

Bus tours of Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge that were offered weekly during the summer months the past few years by the Thief River Falls Convention and Visitor Bureau, along with the Thief River Falls Chapter of the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association, will not be offered this year due to a lack of participation. Bus tours desired by special groups can be arranged by contacting the Thief River Falls Heritage Center at 681-6760, or information can be obtained from the Thief River Falls Camber of Commerce by calling 681-3720.

You are invited to use the facilities at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge. Bring your binoculars and spotting scopes for a close look at wildlife, and bring your cameras to capture lasting wildlife memories.

National Wildlife Week scheduled April 18-24

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge personnel will be doing their part in helping to observe the annual National Wildlife Federation-sponsored National Wildlife Week April 18-24.

This year's theme, "Rainforests - Help Save Their Layers of Life," focuses on what makes tropical rain forests special, why they are in jeopardy and how we can help save them.

Agassiz National Wildlife officials will be sending 135 National Wildlife Week activity packets and posters to 40 schools, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Wildlife and Forestry, the Soil Conservation Service, and several Agricultural Extension Service offices in the six-county refuge management district in northwestern Minnesota. A display will be set up at the Thief River Falls Public Library April 13-26.

Rain Forest is described as forests that grow in constantly wet conditions were annual rainfall is more than 80 inches.

There are many kinds of rain-forests, including the flooded man-an on-going gratuity. Marc estimated a $35,000 cost to start a business after buying the equipment and franchise rights.

"I know it's very expensive to get into McDonald's," Marc said. "With us it's $5,000 — at this point." "Until we get to Russia," said Connie, smiling.

Each franchise is given a territory, ruler to follow, and the Oof-da Taco recipe.

The mobile stands carry other products such as nachos and elephant ears — fried bread, brushed with butter and covered with cinnamon-sugar, vanilla frosting or other toppings.

The Parenteaus work full time at Oof-da Tacos and book about 110 days each year with their mobile stand. Marc, who does not eat tacos ("He's a meat and potato man," says Connie) trusts his wife's taste buds. She tests one taco at every booking.

They spend six to seven months of the year working the booth and spend the rest of the time looking for and improving bookings.

WE Fest dominates their schedule. WE Fest, a three-day country music jamboree near Detroit Lakes, drew 188,000 people last year. Oof-Da Tacos sold approximately 20,000 tacos at the event.

For the festival, Oof-da Tacos books 12 hotel rooms and hires 25 workers, some of them Parenteau relatives from around the United States.

Oof-da Tacos operates three booths on the site and can "put up a taco in three seconds," Marc said. "After days like that I don't even want to think about a taco. You're talking over a ton of ground beef doled out three ounces at a time."

When the workers get tired at WE Fest they start the Oof-da Taco chant, repeating "Oof-da" faster and louder until the crowd is screaming along. "It seems to lighten their heavy legs again for awhile," Connie said.

Revelers can be a problem. At one booking in Clearbrook, someone tripped on the electric cord at about 2 a.m. and all the lights went out. Hungry revelers thought their Oof-da Taco supply was cut off and began hollering, chanting and rocking the stand back and forth creating waves of scalding oil in the fry vats. Marc left the trailer to calm the masses and Connie quickly gave a taco to the chief rioter, resolving the problem.

The Rambergs move to Arizona every winter and sell Oof-Da Tacos. They sell the tacos in Quartzsite. This winter someone set a record for a taco pick-up order. They were taking an Oof-da Taco 250 miles to Los Angeles, Sharon said.

"Up here oof-da is a million dollar name," Sharon said, but down south some people remember Oof-da tacos by their registered trademark — two eyes peering out of the Os in "Oof." Oof-da is an all-purpose word," Sharon said. "It can mean anything and since we're positive, it means good."

Oof-da Expansion

The Knollwood Mall expansion is a move which Marc hopes will make Oof-Da Tacos more attractive as a franchise.

The initial decision caused some sleepless nights for the Parenteaus. At first, Connie said, they thought, "Let's just turn our back on it. We really don't need that business and we're doing plenty fine here. Once we made that decision, we felt relieved, but we both sat and looked at each other and said 'How come I feel like I lost something?' So we realized emotionally we must have wanted the challenge. If this is going to grow, that door was open to us and we better try it."

Marc said he would like to sell his franchise in the next four or five years and concentrate on promoting and selling franchises.

The Parenteaus co-own the St. Louis Park franchise with their son Marc E. Parenteau of Shell Lake, WI. Operating manager is James Bergeron, formerly of Oklee.

Oof-da Tacos added items such as hard and soft-shelled tacos and burritos to their menu. "The biggest challenge I could see was being open 365 days of the year and making sure no one got tired of your food so you expand your menu a little bit," Marc said.

Other items, such as Mexican rice, have joined the menu as customers request them. Oof-da Tacos account for about 50 per cent of the sales.

Oof-da Tacos recently opened a franchise in St. Louis Park, a Twin Cities suburb. It is located in Knollwood Mall. Six other Oof-da Taco franchises are located in Northwest Minnesota.

Oof-da Tacos' use of 100 per cent beef and cheese have drawn positive comments from customers, Bergeron said. Bergeron already muses about another Oof-da Taco location — the Mall of America.

"When I first decided to do it," Marc said, " I thought if we got three or four years out of it, that would be interesting enough, but it's kind of like pizza. When pizza first started everybody thought that would be a fad, but that was 35 years ago. So we're hoping it will be the same thing with this type of food."

City needs rock for riprap project below power plant dam in TRF

The city of Thief River Falls is interested in hearing from farmers and land owners within 20 miles of the city limits who have piled field rock they would like to dispose of. The city along with the Red Lake Watershed and Soil and Water Conservation district are proposing a joint riprap project on the Red Lake River below the power dam. The project requirements call for installation of 2,000 cubic yards of class III random riprap, which is rock nine to 18-inches in diameter, and 600 cubic yards of granular bedding, which should be one to three inches in diameter.

For more information contact Norm Blackstad, street superintendent, at 681-3640 or by mail at P.O. Box 528, Thief River Falls.

Sparby appointed as state ASCS director

Sparby, 57, will succeed Don Frederick as state ASCS director. Frederick was appointed by President Ronald Reagan and has served 12 years through the Reagan and Bush administrations. The state director serves at the pleasure of the President and Sparby said he expects to serve during the four years of the current Clinton administration and beyond if there continues to be a Democrat administration.

Sparby and his wife Ione plan to make their home in the Twin Cities and maintain their cabin on Springsteel Island on Lake of the Woods. He said they are presently undecided what to do with their home outside Thief River Falls, although he had always intended to live here in retirement.

U.S. Congressman Collin Peterson from Minnesota's Seventh District said that "when Wally talks agriculture, people listen. For over a decade Wally's been a strong voice for Minnesota's farmers in the legislature. I know he will continue to work for agricultural and economic development with the same energy and commitment he's brought to all of his distinguished service to our area."

During the last 10 years Sparby has served on the House Agriculture committee and for six years as chairman of the Agriculture Finance and Farm Programs committee. For the past eight years he has also been a member of the National Conference of State Legislators Agriculture Committee, serving two years as vice chairman.

Stray puppy has flea collar surgically removed

Red Lake Falls — A flea collar was surgically removed from an abandoned puppy April 4 by Dr. Larry Johnson of the Red Lake Falls Vet clinic. Mary Solberg of the Crookston Humane society had received a call reporting the puppy huddled by a vacuum cleaner in a ditch near the University of Minnesota in Crookston. The flea collar had been placed on the animal and had been outgrown but not removed. The puppy, now named Soupy, had the flea collar removed and will only have a thin scar around her neck. Soupy is five to six months old and is believed to be a terrier-poodle cross. (Red Lake Falls Gazette)

Immigration service to issue special landing permit forms

International Falls/Keoora — The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization service will this year issue form I-68, Canadian Border boat landing permits, for the 1993 boating season at most ports of entry (border stations) and at the pre-clearance station at the Winnipeg airport. Persons who wish to enter the U.S. from Canada in a small pleasure craft of less than five net tons must have one of these to do so. All persons on a boat must be listed on permits. It should be noted that persons travelling by boat into foreign waters who do not land on foreign soil are exempt from these requirements. (Baudette Region)

United Way of Thief River Falls has allocated $100,000 to agencies that applied for funding. Last week, checks were presented to representatives of many of the 39 agencies that had applied for funding. The representatives are pictured with a $100,000 check.

United Way allocates $100,000 in grants

Despite the fear that residents would respond negatively to the publicity surrounding the use of United Way funds by the national United Way organization, residents obviously decided that whatever happened nationally had little impact on what takes place locally. Last week, the United Way organization in Thief River Falls announced that donations were much higher than expected. A total of $100,000 was allocated to local and area organizations.

In 1992, allocations from United Way totaled $91,476, so the increase was even more remarkable. A total of 39 organizations benefited from the generosity of residents in Thief River Falls.

The following is a list of the 1993 allocation grants to area agencies: Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) $250; Area Ag Information Center $750; Boy Scouts $6,000; Camp Sunshine $2,500; Cerebral Palsy $200; Charities Review Council $235; Children's Home Society $2,000; Christian Record Braille $1,000; Confidence Learning Center $1,000; Courage Center $4,000; Crossroad $2,000; DARE $2,500; Discovery Place $4,400; Epilepsy Foundation $500; Falls DAC $1,500; Friendship Club $600; Girl Scouts $6,000; Heritage Community Center $5,000; Heritage Seniors $1,000; Heart Research $2,000; Inter-County Nursing $3,000; Kidney Foundation $5,000; Little Brother, Little Sister $6,500; Lutheran Social Service $3,000; Minnesota Prevention of Blindness $175; North Country Foodbank $2,500; Northern Lights Community Residence $2,500; Northland Community Hospice $9,007; Nursery School $3,000; Occupational Development Center $3,000; Options $4,000; Pennington County Child Protection Council $650; Pennington County 4-H $2,000; Pennington County Health Promotion Network $500; Red Cross $536; School Age Task Force $500; Sister Kenny Institute $1,500; Violence Intervention Project $8,400; and United Way of America $797.

Horticulture: Grownups playing in the dirt

by Mark Olsoo
Staff Writer

With crocuses blooming and trees budding, legions of gardeners begin to oil their carts and dust their hoes for another short Minnesota growing season.

Many horticulture enthusiasts remain active year-round with the help of 12 garden clubs scattered throughout Northwest Minnesota.

These 12 clubs hold 207 members and make up the 13th District Horticultural Society.

This loose network of garden clubs allows members to share advice and interests as varied as the plants they grow.

"Seeing what different people do with horticulture and what they can do with horticulture is interesting," said Betty Mohrbacher of rural Warroad, 13th District President and member of the Gro-Rite garden club.

The clubs generally meet once each month and occasionally hold meetings with neighboring clubs. District 13 holds spring and fall workshops and a floral show/competition in August.

A Growing Passion

In the midst of snowmobiling and ice fishing, Joan Nelson thinks green. Nelson of rural St. Hilaire, Moccasin garden club member, usually receives her first seed catalogues the day before Christmas. "I'm tired of it by the end of fall, but about January..."

This year she is growing 2,000 seedlings of 70 varieties. Nelson started out just growing a few vegetables and annuals for herself. Most seedlings are for neighbors and relatives who rent her services. She begins planting in mid-February.

She joined the Moccasin garden club as soon as she moved to Northern Minnesota. The club donated flowers when she planted her first garden.

Nelson competes in the district horticulture show. Arrangements are her favorite competition.

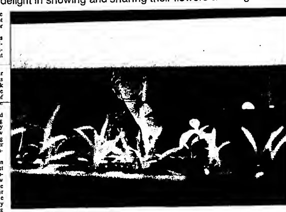
Each year a different club hosts the annual horticulture show. Categories include floral arrangements, potted plants, roses, gladiolus, annuals, perennials, dahlias, vegetables and fruits and corsages.

LaVonne Radniecki of rural Thief River Falls, Deer Park garden club member and District 13 historian also competes in floral arrangements. Radniecki, an enthusiastic gardener ("I completely forget myself when I'm out there rototilling or weeding"), has won a blue ribbon in every floral arrangement category.

In competition judges look for uniformity, condition, insect damage, harmony, colors and the container. "You can't take and put a rose into a pottery bowl, because they don't coordinate. They're not in harmony. Roses go in crystal or glass," Radniecki said.

Radniecki said club members shared their knowledge in conditioning plants but, "It's very competitive. Possibly we don't give out every little secret."

Community Service



Club members often volunteer time to plant and care for gardens in public parks. The Deer Park club has planted flowers in the Goodridge park. Three members of the Moccasin club care for the grounds of rural churches.

The Deer Park club also hosted vegetable plots for kids, supplying seeds and equipment. Shirley Knoff of Thief River Falls, a new Deer Park club member, is working with youth, teaching them container gardening with flowers and vegetables.

The Ladyslipper garden club in Roseau hosts a pumpkin contest with area youth, giving them pumpkin plants and teaching them how to tend them. At the end of the year students bring back their pumpkins to be judged. The Ladyslipper club also occasionally entertains shut-ins and nursing home residents.

This year the Deer Park club plans to plant perennials and annu-

Joan Nelson peers over a few of the 2,000 seedlings she planted this year. Nelson, of the Moccasin garden club, started about 70 seedling varieties which she grows for relatives and neighbors. She begins planting seeds about the middle of February.

effective in that responsibility.

Sparby, 57, will succeed Don Frederick as state ASCS director. Frederick was appointed by President Ronald Reagan and has served 12 years through the Reagan and Bush administrations. The state director serves at the pleasure of the President and Sparby said he expects to serve during the four years of the current Clinton administration and beyond if there continues to be a Democrat administration.

Sparby and his wife Ione plan to make their home in the Twin Cities and maintain their cabin on Springsteel Island on Lake of the Woods. He said they are presently undecided what to do with their home outside Thief River Falls, although he had always intended to live here in retirement.

U.S. Congressman Collin Peterson from Minnesota's Seventh District said that "when Wally talks agriculture, people listen. For over a decade Wally's been a strong voice for Minnesota's farmers in the legislature. I know he will continue to work for agricultural and economic development with the same energy and commitment he's brought to all of his distinguished service to our area."

During the last 10 years Sparby has served on the House Agriculture committee and for six years as chairman of the Agriculture Finance and Farm Programs committee. For the past eight years he has also been a member of the National Conference of State Legislators Agriculture Committee, serving two years as vice chairman

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

With crocuses blooming and trees budding, legions of gardeners begin to oil their carts and dust their hoes for another short Minnesota growing season.

Many horticulture enthusiasts remain active year-around with the help of 12 garden clubs scattered throughout Northwest Minnesota.

These 12 clubs hold 207 members and make up the 13th District Horticultural Society.

This loose network of garden clubs allows members to share advice and interests as varied as the plants they grow.

"Seeing what different people do with horticulture and what they can do with horticulture is interesting," said Betty Mohrbacher of rural Warroad, 13th District President and member of the Gro-Rite garden club.

The clubs generally meet once each month and occasionally hold meetings with neighboring clubs. District 13 holds spring and fall workshops and a floral show/competition in August.

A Growing Passion

In the midst of snowmobiling and ice fishing, Joan Nelson thinks green. Nelson of rural St. Hilaire, Moccasin garden club member, usually receives her first seed catalogues the day before Christmas. "I'm tired of it by the end of fall, but about January..."

This year she is growing 2,000 seedlings of 70 varieties. Nelson started out just growing a few vegetables and annuals for herself. Most seedlings are for neighbors and relatives who rent her services. She begins planting in mid-February.

She joined the Moccasin garden club as soon as she moved to Northern Minnesota. The club donated flowers when she planted her first garden.

Nelson competes in the district horticulture show. Arrangements are her favorite competition.

Each year a different club hosts the annual horticulture show. Categories include floral arrangements, potted plants, roses, gladiolus, annuals, perennials, dahlias, vegetables and fruits and corsages.

LaVonne Radniecki of rural Thief River Falls, Deer Park garden club member and District 13 historian also competes in floral arrangements. Radniecki, an enthusiastic gardener ("I completely forget myself when I'm out there rototilling or weeding"), has won a blue ribbon in every floral arrangement category.

In competition judges look for uniformity, condition, insect damage, harmony, colors and the container. "You can't take and put a rose into a pottery bowl, because they don't coordinate. They're not in harmony. Roses go in crystal or glass," Radniecki said.

Radniecki said club members shared their knowledge in conditioning plants but, "It's very competitive. Possibly we don't give out every little secret."

Community Service

Club members often volunteer time to plant and care for gardens in public parks. The Deer Park club has planted flowers in the Goodridge park. Three members of the Moccasin club care for the grounds of rural churches.

The Deer Park club also hosted vegetable plots for kids, supplying seeds and equipment. Shirley Knoff of Thief River Falls, a new Deer Park club member, is working with youth, teaching them container gardening with flowers and vegetables.

The Ladyslipper garden club in Roseau hosts a pumpkin contest with area youth, giving them pumpkin plants and teaching them how to tend them. At the end of the year students bring back their pumpkins to be judged. The Ladyslipper club also occasionally entertains shut-ins and nursing home residents.

This year the Deer Park club plans to plant perennials and annu-

Joan Nelson peers over a few of the 2,000 seedlings she planted this year. Nelson, of the Moccasin garden club, started about 70 seedling varieties which she grows for relatives and neighbors. She begins planting seeds about the middle of February.

Governor Arne Carlson proclaimed Dave Christian Day

Warroad — April 13 this year was proclaimed Dave Christian Day in Minnesota by Governor Arne Carlson. Christian is the first Minnesotan to play 1,000 games in the 76-year history of the National Hockey League. He is the second American to do that, the other being former North Star, Gordy Roberts. Christian, who graduated from Warroad high school in 1977, has a total of 340 goals and 430 assists in his hockey career and was a member of the 1980 Gold Medal U.S. Olympic Hockey team. Groundwater cleanup to start soon at Karlstad

Karlstad — Terracon, a company contracted by the Minnesota Pollution Control agency will conduct a groundwater contamination cleanup in Karlstad in the near future. A treatment system to clean the former Anderson 66 underground storage tank leak will be installed. The leak was discovered following a house fire set up as a training exercise by the fire department. Residents reported "pops" in the sewers and water was blown out of several toilets. This led to gasoline, which had leaked from the Anderson 66 service station, being detected in the city sewers. (North Star News)

Annual Syttende Mai festivities planned in Bagley

Bagley — Syttende Mai, the 17th of May, is Norwegian Independence Day, a day that is revered and celebrated by Norwegians around the world. It is on this day that, according to the Farmers Independent newspaper, Norwegians change into their summer underwear, "making it a popular celebration for everyone else as well." This year's festivities in Bagley will be held Saturday, May 8 (the Norwegians have always had a difficult time remembering on which date the 17th falls). It will begin with a parade through the streets of Bagley from the Clearwater County Historical society museum at 12:45 p.m. and end later, somewhere else. There is over $1.50 available in prize money to the best and worst float entries. (Farmers Independent)

Disaster staged at Crookston

Crookston — On April 13 the dike that kept the Red Lake river out of the Flats addition in Crookston no longer held the water out. The 27 feet of river swept into the addition, causing one man to be electrocuted in his basement and a woman drowned when the river rushed over her, as well as a number of other injuries. It was a disaster, staged by the Civil Defense and Glenmore foundation. Directors of the follow-up procedures were general pleased with performance, but stated that "it could have been better." The purpose of the drill was to see if all the departments, the police, fire, ambulance, sheriff's office, hospital and office of emergency management could work well together. Fatalities in the demonstration were played by Deeann Schmidt (in a car crash) and Elaine Sylvester (drowning victim). (Crookston Daily Times)

Mushroom moguls take over Northern Mushroom Farms

Park River, ND — Northern Mushrooms Farms in Park River recently became part of a North American partnership that specializes in mushroom farm production. The Park River plant currently produces 400,000 to 500,000 pounds of mushrooms annually. Plans are being made to expand the business from five growing rooms to seven in the next six months. Long range goals for the plant are to double the number of growing rooms and increase production five-fold. (Walsh County Record)

New juvenile training center possible at Bagley

Bagley — Lyle Culligan of the Clearwater county sheriff's department met recently with the county board to discuss the possibility of a new juvenile training center proposed for the Bagley community. The application to the state of Minnesota will be submitted in June and would be acted on by the legislature a year later, if approved at the first step. It is felt that the present facilities are becoming over-crowded and there is a need for an additional facility. (Leader-Record)

Mahnomen Main street to bite the dust

Mahnomen — The first shovel was to begin scraping the old paving off the Mahnomen's Main street early this week, the beginning of the complete reconstruction of the street. Interruption of traffic is expected and a detour will be necessary and it is hoped that local traffic won't mind using alleys for a time. Sidewalks will remain available to foot traffic, except where the imminent nearness to a machine makes it temporarily unsafe. (Mahnomen Pioneer)

Martha Benson to note 100th birthday

Bemidji — Martha Benson of the Goldpine retirement home, celebrated her 100th birthday April 23. A special pamphlet designed for her birthday shows her with a Twins hat and jersey and calls her the "Century Player." Benson, an avid Twins fan, listens to the games on the radio, with the television on also and the sound turned down. She doesn't smoke, drink or swear and adds, "Maybe that's the secret to a long life, not swearing." (Bemidji Pioneer)

Greenbush — The deadline is fast approaching for entering a theme for the Greenbush Town and Country's Fourth of July celebration. Entries should be given to Deb Sovde at the Greenbush state bank. The winner will receive $25 in cash and will be selected by April 28. (Greenbush Tribune)

Here are a few more of those extra special pies.

CHOCOLATE SWIRL CHEESE PIE

1 cup sugar
3 (8 ounce) packages cream cheese softened
5 eggs
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 (4 ounce) German sweet chocolate, melted and cooled

Add sugar to cheese in bowl, beating well. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Add vanilla.

Measure 2 cups of the cheese mixture and fold chocolate into this.

Pour remaining cheese mixture into well-buttered 10-inch pie pan or 9-inch square pan.

Add spoonfuls of chocolate mixture and then zig-zag a spatula through to marble.

Bake at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes. Cool, then place in refrigerator.

CHOCOLATE CHIP PIE

1 unbaked pie shell
2 eggs
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1 cup butter
1/2 cup chocolate chips
1 cup chopped walnuts

Preheat oven to 325 degrees.

In large bowl, beat eggs until foamy. Add flour, sugar and brown sugar and beat until well blended.

Stir in chocolate chips and walnuts. Pour into pie shell and bake for 1 hour.

Serve warm with whipped cream or ice cream, if desired.

CHOCOLATE PIE

Crust:

2 egg whites
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup chopped walnuts or pecans

Beat egg whites until foamy. Add cream of tartar and continue beating until fairly stiff. Gradually add sugar and beat stiff and glossy.

Add nuts and pour into lightly greased glass pie pan. Spread gently over pan and build up sides. Bake at 300 degrees for 55 minutes. Cool.

Pie Filling:

4 ounces of plain chocolate candy bars
4 teaspoons water
1 cup cream, whipped

Melt chocolate bars and water in double boiler or microwave. Set aside to cool.

When cool, fold chocolate into whipped cream. Pour into baked crust and chill.

ICEBOX LEMON PIE

Graham cracker crust
1 can sweetened, condensed milk
1 small can frozen lemonade (pink is nice)
1 small container frozen whipped topping

Mix all ingredients; pour into crust; chill and serve.

This is a great pie to make for summer company:

TWO-TONED ICE CREAM PIE

Gingersnap Crust:

22 gingersnaps, crushed
3 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup melted butter or margarine

Mix together crumbs and sugar. Stir in butter. Press firmly and evenly against sides and bottom of pie plate, building up slightly around rim.

Bake at 350 degrees for about 5 minutes. Cool on rack.

Pie Filling:

1 cup (6 ounce package) chocolate chips
1/2 cup whipping cream
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 pint chocolate ice cream
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Chill crust in freezer while preparing filling.

In small saucepan, melt chocolate chips in whipping cream, stirring occasionally. Stir in vanilla. Chill until thickened.

Soften ice cream by placing in refrigerator, allowing 15 to 20 minutes for a quart and 10 minutes for a pint.

Spoon chocolate ice cream into crust and spread 3/4 of the chocolate mixture over ice cream. Return to freezer to harden.

Spoon vanilla ice cream over chocolate sauce and drizzle top with remaining chocolate sauce. Freeze firm.

Editorial opinion published on this page, whether locally written or re-printed from other sources is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Opinions expressed in items from other publications may be contradictory to the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Assessing President Clinton's First 100 Days

Elmer L. Andersen, publisher of the Anoka County Union and a former Minnesota Governor, has a wealth of experience as well as a keen interest in the state and national political scene. He wrote the following in a recent editorial:

Sixty years ago Franklin D. Roosevelt became President on a tide of economic distress and demand by the electorate for change. Roosevelt took charge, the Congress passed whatever he asked, "regardless of concern for constitutionality."

There was a "bank holiday" with all the banks in the country closed for days, the National Recovery Act under Hugh Johnson, called the economic czar, the Agricultural Adjustment Act under Henry Wallace, the Reconstruction Finance Commission that Jesse Jones managed. No one who lived through it can forget the program and the personalities of the early months of that administration. The flurry of action stirred the confidence of the people.

President Bill Clinton's first 100 days have been pretty tame by comparison, highlighted more by stumbling than strong control. Our first surprise was the lack of resentment that campaign promises were so quickly abandoned. When interviewed, some people would say, "I didn't believe all those promises. That's not what I voted for, I just wanted change."

However, without the dramatic activity of the Roosevelt administration, and talk of sacrifice rather than lower taxes and more benefits, consumer confidence has receded from the heights of October and November. Now, consumer confidence is down where it was last year before campaign hype drove it up.

At this stage, foreign affairs are demanding more attention than Clinton may have desired. The essentials of the $1 1/2 trillion budget are increased spending, increased taxes and increased deficit with some promise of deficit reduction later. The campaign promises of reduced taxes for the middle class, health care for all, $30 billion for job creation—and financing everything including deficit reduction by military reduction and raising taxes only on high income people is gone—it never had any viability. Steeply increased taxes on energy in the new budget, not only reach everyone, but are highly regressive. The $16 billion item for job stimulation is not enough to have significant effect. Government spending is not the best job stimulant.

When members of Congress were chosen to be Secretary of the Treasury, Director of the Budget and Secretary of Defense it did not signal change. It is inevitable that our country must end huge annual deficits and rising debt. It will be sad if only economic collapse brings the changes needed. There is little in the first 100 days to give much hope for the immediate future. It's more of the same—more spending, higher taxes, more deficit, mounting debt.

Some Personal Thoughts On The Waco Tragedy

Anyone in America who doesn't have some personal opinions in regard to the highly publicized assault, stand-off, final assault and resulting tragedy at the Branch Davidian compound near Waco, TX, is either completely isolated from radio, television and newspapers or mentally incapacitated. With all the time, space and attention given to the situation, few could have been unaware of the happenings.

For nearly all of us, the opinions are based purely on conjecture and speculation, for we know only what we have read or heard as second-hand or third-hand information. And much of that "information" itself is rumor and speculation.

Our thoughts about the situation are no more informed than any others and probably less than many, since we have seen, heard and read only a small portion of what has been broadcast and written. But we have formed some opinions that we invite our readers to consider.

Placing the blame. Finding fault is an age-old custom. The FBI, the Attorney General and the President of the United States place the blame on cult leader David Koresh, and perhaps that is ultimately where it must come to rest. It was his cult, his compound, his decision not to surrender with his followers—although that latter alternative after the deaths of four federal agents might well be understandable.

But it was the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and later the FBI who attacked his "home" and his "family," who backed him into a defensive position, who were the threat to stripping him of his power and control and therefore his reason for being. It was the BATF who elected to stage the commando type raid instead of a street arrest of a person who apparently commonly appeared in public. And it was the FBI which initiated the offensive move after the 51-day stand-off and touched off the events which resulted in multiple fatalities.

Taking the responsibility. Newly appointed Attorney General Janet Reno conducted herself very well in televised interviews and news conferences. She seemed straight forward in her statements and sincere in saying she accepted full responsibility for the final attack. It is less clear what "full responsibility" means. Likely she didn't intend for it to mean facing prosecution for contributing to mass murder, or to compensating the Branch Davidians or their survivors for their loss of life and property. Which brings up an interesting question: Who prosecutes the Attorney General?

Reporting glitches. Accuracy of reporting in complicated situations and where reporters must interpret words of others can always be suspect, but occasionally lack of fact can be obvious. We recall one television "on scene" reporter in all seriousness "informing" his national audience that cult members were "armed with .50 caliber rifles that can shoot half a mile." There are no modern .50 caliber rifles; there are .50 caliber machine guns. The FBI and Attorney General said Branch Davidians had at least one. But a .22 caliber rimfire bullet can carry up to a mile; a .50 caliber machine gun has an effective range of nearly twice that.

We can expect that other "facts" provided may well have been misunderstood or misinterpreted as well.

We are sorry for the children. Whatever the state of mind of adults who were Koresh followers, we feel that they chose their situation voluntarily. Such a decision scarcely caused them to deserve their tragic deaths, but having reached the age of reason they could have opted out at some earlier time. We mourn the children who had their miserable lives determined for them—just as their horrible and senseless deaths were the result of adult irresponsibility.

The tragedy will fade. Like the Gulf War, with its tremendous loss of life and immense financial cost, the Waco cult tragedy will fade from prime time and front pages quite rapidly. If the losses weren't our own, they can be readily forgotten. It was too bad, we say, but sometimes bad things happen. And we as a government, as a nation, as a society, probably won't have learned a thing from it all. Perhaps that is the greatest tragedy of all.

Newhouse and Smeby in BSU intern program

Judy Smeby of Grygla and Lisa Newhouse of Greenbush are participating in Bemidji State University's year-long student teaching intern program.

Smeby is interning at the Brainerd Middle School and Newhouse is interning in the Roseau school district.

The intern program allows senior education majors the opportunity to teach a full year in a participating school. During this time, they are paired with an experienced mentor teacher from the school system.

When accepted into the program, students begin student teaching during the last week in August when they are available to mentor teachers for workshops before the school year begins.

20 Goodridge students finish DARE program

Northland sweeps Itasca

Both games featured seventh inning dramatics Wednesday as Northland pulled out a pair of one-run wins over Itasca in a Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division baseball doubleheader played in Thief River Falls.

The Pioneers held off a seventh-inning rally by the Vikings to take the opener 4-3, then overcame a five-run deficit with a final at-bat comeback that produced an unlikely 6-5 second-game win and the sweep.

Mitch Bernstein, a Northland freshman from Grygla, played a major figure in both games. In the opener, he hit what proved to be a game-winning solo home run in the top of the seventh, then came on in relief to pick up a save in the bottom of the inning. He was the starter in the nightcap, but made a bigger mark with another home run – this one a game-tying three-run shot in the midst of the seventh inning rally. Ryan Bothum followed with a game-winning sola homer.

"The kids didn't quit," said Northland coach Terry Wiseth. "We made the plays and got the outs when we needed them in the first game. In the second game, I would have never guessed we would hit two home runs in the seventh to win it, but we'll take a win any way we can get it."

It was the start of a make-or-break Northland MCCC homestand that also includes doubleheaders today (Saturday) vs. Vermilion and Sunday against Hibbing.

The Pioneers started the week 0-5-1 overall and 0-2 in the Northern Division.

Itasca 3

Eight hits and eight walks presented Itasca with plenty of scoring opportunities, but Northland pitchers, thanks to a solid error-free defensive effort behind them and a little luck, were abla to work their way out of trouble in preserving a 4-3 Game 1 win.

The story line unfolded in the top of the first when an early Itasca threat ended on a double play by centerfielder Mike Swanson, who nailed the Vikings' Corbin Heins as he tried to tag up and go from second to third on a fly-ball out.

Two hits and three walks started the Itasca third, but after issuing consecutive bases-loaded walks, Northland pitcher Parrish Tatum avoided further damage with two strike-outs and an inning-ending fly-out.

Three more walks gave Itasca another bases-loaded opportunity in the fourth, but Todd Martin came on in relief to preserve a 3-2 Northland lead.

A first-pitch RBI single inside the first base bag by Ryan Bothum, who was 2-for-3, and a two-run single through the right side by Brian King had provided Northland with a 3-0 second inning lead.

The Pioneers made it 4-2 in the sixth on a lead-off Mitch Bernstein home run over the 323-foot sign in center field, then held on for the win in the seventh when a one-out drive by Chris Krook caromed out the off of the center field fence for an RBI double – inchea short of a game-tying home run.

Bernstein was brought in for the final two outs and the save.

The win went to Martin, who gave up one run and four hits in 2 2/3 innings of work. He walked one and did not strike out a batter. Tatum gave up four hits, walked seven and struck out two in 3 2/3 innings.

Matt Gindorf was the losing pitcher, even though he gava up only four hits and struck out nine in 5 1/3 innings. He walked five. Sean Bailey got the final two outs.

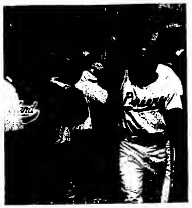
Shut out for six innings and down 5-0 in their final at-bat, the Pioneers used home runs by Mitch Bernstein and Ryan Bothum to stun Itasca 6-5 in Game 2.



Two errors, a walk and a pinch-hit single by Roger Bienusa scored the first two Northland runs in the seventh, then Bernstein tied it with a one-out, three-run home run, and Bothum snapped the deadlock with a two-out, first-pitch solo shot.

Bernstein and Mike Swanson were both 2-for-4.

Bothum came on in the seventh inning for the win in relief of Bernstein. Dan Winkler took a shutout in the seventh, with the loss going to Brian Spencer.

Teammates formed a welcoming committee near home plate to greet Mitch Bernstein after the Northland freshmen hit a sixth inning home run in the first game of Wednesday's community college baseball doubleheader against Itasca. Bernstein also homered in Game 2 as the Pioneers swept the Vikings 4-3, 6-5.

Prowlers fall 11-10 to Jacks

A two-out, two-run single by Jeff Breyer in the bottom of the eighth inning gave Bemidji a high-scoring 11-10 high school baseball win over visiting Thief River Falls Thursday.

The Lumberjacks scored twice in the bottom of the seventh to tie it 7-7 and force extra innings.

A two-run single by Jason Svir and an RBI single by Marc Haugen gave Thief River Falls a 10-7 lead in the top of the eighth. But the Prowlers couldn't hold off the Lumberjacks, who turned three walks, two base hits and an error into a game-winning four-run at-bat in the bottom of the inning.

"We just couldn't put them away," said Thief River Falls coach Tracey Wenelloff. "You have to give Bemidji credit; they never quit."

Haugen was 2-for-4 and drove in four runs, and Carter Rogalia went 2-for-5 as the Prowlers out-hit the Lumberjacks 10-9. But Thief River Falls pitching gave up 10 walks and hit three Bemidji batters.

Haugen pitched the first 6 1/3 innings, was replaced by Rick Ostby in the seventh, but reappeared on the mound in the eighth in an attempt to stop the Bemidji rally. The loss went to Haugen, while Paul Oelrich, the third Bemidji pitcher of the day, got the win.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 3-2 for the year, and left them 1-2 against North Sub-Section 8AA foes. They will return to Irv Wilson Field for 4:30 p.m. games Monday against Roseau and Tuesday vs. Moorhead.

TRFAHA plans summer hockey camp

Plans are in place for the first Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association (TRFAHA) summer hockey camp, a four-week venture June 6-July 3 at the Old Arena.

The camp will include week-long instructional programs for Mites, Squirts, Pee-Wees, and goalies, along with 3-on-3 summer leagues at both the Bantam and high school levels.

Ron Novak will be the camp director. Instructors will include high school/college coaches/players, and professional players.

Objective of the camp, according to promotional material that is currently being distributed, is to provide hockey players of all ages in Thief River Falls and surrounding communities an opportunity to improve their hockey skills without having to spend a great deal of money on camps outside the area.

Emphasis will be placed on the basics and the fundamentals of hockey, power skating, puck handling, passing, shooting, and checking, along with team skills.

Mites will have 2 1/4 hours of ice time and a 45-minute dryland training/classroom chalk talk each day, Monday through Friday, along with one hour of Sunday ice time. Squirts and Pee-Wees will receive 2 1/2 hours of ice time and one hour of dryland training/classroom chalk talk each day, Monday through Friday, along with one hour of Sunday ice time. Each week will conclude with Saturday morning games at both age levels.

Cost of the camp is $60 per week. Players can register for as many weeks as they wish. Each weekly session will be limited to 30 players – with the Pee-Wee and Bantam rosters including 26 skaters and four goalies per week.

Goaltending camps, offering one hour of ice time and one hour of dryland training/classroom chalk talk each day, Monday through Friday, will be offered June 6-12 and July 13-19. Cost of the goaltending camp is $50 per week, or $80 for a two-week stay. Goalies can register for the regular camp for $30 during the week they are involved in the goaltending portion of the program.

Fee for the 3-on-3 Bantam and high school leagues is $25 per week. Games will be held each night, Sunday through Friday. The programs will include 18 skaters and four goalies – two teams with nine skaters and two goalies each – per week.

For registration material, or for additional information, contact Ron Novak by calling 681-3959.

UMC sweeps Pioneers

Northland Community College softball team saw its record dip to 0-6 Wednesday following a 17-14, 19-9 doubleheader loss at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

The Pioneers out-hit the Trojans 26-8 for the day, but were charged with nine first-game errors, and issued 19 second-game walks.

"We did a great job hitting the ball and scoring runs," reported Northland coach Rick Nikunen, "but the errors hurt us in the first game, and the walks obviously caused problems in the second game."

The Trojans built a 10-1 second-inning lead in the opener, then watched the Pioneers pull within 15-14 before securing the decision.

Kelly Kronschabel was 3-for-4 with two triples and six RBI to lead the Pioneers' offense. Lisa Verbout went 3-for-6.

Kruta part of championship team

Northern Montana women's assistant basketball coach Jerry Wier said the Skylights just completed a banner recruiting season, which included signing three players 6-2 or taller.

But the recruiting efforts did not land a point guard, even though this year's starter at that position was a senior. "We didn't need a point guard," said Wier. "We have Jodi."

That's Jodi Kruta. The 5-4 freshman from Thief River Falls was not a starter this winter, but she played in every game as the top guard off the bench for a 35-3 NAIA Division II national championship team.

"Jodi was a real spark plug off the bench for us," said Wier, who played a major role in recruiting the Prowlers' all-time scoring leader.

"She had a fantastic year. To come in an play on a national championship team as a freshman is a major accomplishment. She was a very important part of our success."

Kruta averaged 7 1/2 points per game while shooting 46.7 percent from the field – 44 per cent from three-point range.

Located in Havre, a town of 16,000 in north-central Montana, the school produced the state's first national basketball title with a four-game sweep through the NAIA Division II tournament, played at Monmouth, Oregon. The Skylights beat St. Thomas Aquinas (New York) 98-65, Georgetown (Kentucky) 84-57, Husson (Maine) 77-57, and Northern State (South Dakota) 71-68.

Northern Montana beat the same Northern State team of Aberdeen in the District 12 finals, then repeated the victory over the defending national champions in the NAIA title game.

Kruta scored nine points in the championship game, coming up with a three-point basket and a couple of fast break lay-ups off steals as the Skylights overcame a first half deficit.

"People had a hard time covering Jodi because she's so quick," pointed out Wier.

The Skylights used five seniors this winter, but Wier figures the Northern Montana success may very well continue. "We probably had the best recruiting year we've ever Notes...

■ Detroit Lakes school board announced this week that it will cut financial support for the Detroit Lakes High School baseball program in 1994. Cutting baseball was just one of several cost-containment matters approved by the board. Availability of a summer baseball program and unpredictable spring weather were cited as reasons for dropping baseball. Plus, elimination of one boys' sport will leave the district with an equal number of boys and girls programs – putting the district in compliance with Title IX regulations.

■ Tom King has resigned as Warroad High School hockey coach. He has been a head hockey coach for 20 years – the last eight at Warroad, where his teams have won three Section 8 titles.

■ Franklin Middle School seventh grader Sara Rasmussen was a third place finisher in the regional Elks Hoop Shoot free throw contest in Iowa City. She earlier won titles in the girls 12-13-year-old age group at the local level in Thief River Falls, the district level in Crookston, and the state level in Hutchinson.

Northland runner Chad Bjorgaard tried to get back to first base after being involved in a run-down on a fourth inning pick-off play during Wednesday's baseball doubleheader opener against Itasca in Thief River Falls. He didn't make it. The Pioneers won both games, 4-3 and 6-5.

LHS baseball JV tops Bemidji 9-3

Eric Bjorgaard stuck out 15 Bemidji batters in a route-going seven inning pitching performance Thursday that sparked Thief River Falls to a 9-3 junior varsity high school baseball win.

Jason Hruby was 4-for-5 and drove in four runs for the winners. Nick Chlodo went 2-for-2, scored four runs and drove in two, while Chris Vanyo went 2-for-4 with two RBI.

Thief River Falls junior varsity is 2-1.

TRF boys open JV golf season

Thief River Falls boys junior varsity high school golf team won the season-opening Red Lake Falls invitational Thursday with a 176, followed by Warren at 182, Red Lake Falls 184, East Grand Forks 186, and Crookston 214.

Medalist was Todd Knott of Red Lake Falls with a 41.

Thief River Falls scores included Bill Fogarty with a 42, Chad Nordhagen 43, Chad Hanson 44, Jeremy Breiland 47, Adam Nordin 48, Craig Huot 49, Matt LeMoine 50, and Josh Melby 51.

Tri-County/MCC is a 9-2 baseball winner vs. LOW

A three-run first inning home run by Matt Kasprowicz sparked Tri-County/Marshall County Central to a 9-2 high school baseball win over Lake of the Woods Thursday in Karlstad.

Both teams were limited to two hits apiece, but Tri-County/Marshall County Central capitalized on eight Lake of the Woods errors to break into the win column for the first time in four starts.

Jeremy Tallum was the winning pitcher. Shane Borg worked three innings in relief.

Drug awareness workshop set at MCC high school

"Now You're Talking! Parents and Kids Talk Straight About Alcohol and Other Drugs" is the title of a 90-minute program for parents and their children in grades four through nine to be presented Monday, April 26, beginning at 7 p.m. in the ITV room at Marshall County Central high school in Newfolden.

The program focuses on family communication about alcohol and other drugs. Parents and their children will discuss videotape scenes in which families send unclear messages about alcohol and other drugs. They will practice "talking straight" and listening to each other—first steps in the prevention of alcohol and other drug abuse. A free take-home video is offered to each family attending.

To pre-register before Monday, April 26, call Jean Anderson at the Newfolden elementary school (phone 874-8805). For more information on "Now You're Talking...." contact Jenny Maurstad, School District 441 parent involvement coordinator, at 874-8961. The program is co-sponsored by AAL Branch 6079.

Each year the Ladyslipper club of Roseau plants flowers at Sheltering Oaks, a senior citizens home. Roseau garden clubs have also worked on the Wildflower Route.

"Most people that garden have a love for what they do and it radiates into the community," said Lew Wallace of rural Middle River, Gro-Rite garden club member, dairy farmer and owner of the Honkes Flats greenhouse.

Club Meetings

At garden club meetings, members trade knowledge. Some clubs delegate the program schedule to different members each month. Members will give lessons on growing certain types of plants or conditioning flowers for display and competition.

"It's interesting meeting with the gals — things you can't usually learn out of a book. Most of the gals are willing to share information. They're there to lend a helping hand," Wallace said.

Radniecki learned about zones — areas of the country where the temperature is conducive to certain plants. "I spent lots of money on things like that (plants that winter kill). I thought maybe I just didn't have a green thumb," Radniecki said. Knoff learned pruning techniques and care for hedges from club members.

On advice from club members, Beattie Mickelson of rural Goodridge, Maccasin garden club member and 13th District publicity chairman, places a moth ball by each plant to keep rabbits away.

The members can borrow books, video tapes and slides from the extensive Minnesota Horticulture library to use personally or for demonstrations. The clubs also host speakers who discuss topica ranging from landscaping to birds.

"If they run into a problem, we discuss solutions — give them ideas," said John Lamberson, member of the Baudette North Star garden club and District 13 state delegate.

Many members also admit the clubs are a good, informal place to socialize.

Not Just Flowers

Garden clubs concentrate on all manners of plants, not just flowers. Vegetables, trees and landscaping play an important role in the horticulture society.

Helen Chervestad's specialty is landscaping. Chervestad of Oklee, Deer Park garden club member, describes herself as a rock-picker. She designs mound rock gardens with cactus and shrubs.

Other horticulture enthusiasts, such as Mickelson, grow vegetables. Mickelson grew 40 seventy-foot rows of vegetables last year. Her biggest enemies are purslane weeds and home-grown domesticated white turkeys.

"They dearly love broccoli. That's probably why they grew to thirty-three and thirty-four pounds. They would trample through everything until they found the broccoli and they would chomp, chomp, chomp," Mickelson said.

Radniecki canned about 500 jars of fruits and vegetables. She shares excess food with friends and family.

Membership

District 13 membership has fallen since the society's origin. The 13th District was organized in fall 1959. In 1960, 20 garden clubs had 322 members. By 1993 membership dropped to 207 in 12 clubs.

"There are too many other things for people to do. They have to have an interest," Lamberson said. "It's too bad more people don't join — enjoy the fresh vegetables."

Dorothy Gehrke of Roseau, 13th District advisor and member of the Ladyslipper garden club, said they are trying to draw more men into a hobby previously dominated by women.

Wallace said that men, previously leaving the gardening role to women, are increasingly picking up the hobby. "In the greenhouse men are as fierce gardeners as women," Wallace said.

Roseau hosts the most clubs and members — the four Roseau clubs total about 80 members. Active District 13 clubs and their area include Deer Park, Goodridge; NaChur, Ladyslipper, Roseau garden club and Four Seasons of Roseau; Green Thumb, Warroad; Gro-Rite, Badger; Town & Country, Viking; Williams Gardeners, Williams; Moccasin, Goodridge and Thief River Falls; Argyle garden club, Argyle; and North Star, Baudette.

The clubs don't have geographic boundaries and members do not always live in the vicinity of the club.

The district is affiliated with the Minnesota State Horticulture Society which has 230 clubs and 16,000 members. (State membership includes Minnesota Horticulturist magazine subscription and not necessarily club membership.)

The state horticulture society gives a series of awards including the Outstanding Gardener Award, Gold Medal Award and Honorary Life Membership, Award of Merit, and Distinguished Service Award.

This year NaChur, Ladyslipper and Roseau garden clubs sponsor the 13th district horticultural show August 7 at in the Roseau 4-H building.

Government files federal charges against TRF men

A federal grand jury has indicted two Thief River Falls men on drug charges.

In early January 1993, four residents of Thief River Falls were arrested in connection with the handling of methamphetamine, which had been sent from California to Thief River Falls by mail.

Individuals arrested included: Kenneth Matthew, 34, Thief River Falls; Keith Allen Matthew, 32, Thief River Falls; Vicki Hutchinson, 18, Thief River Falls; and Kay Lynn Richter, 30, Thief River Falls.

As a result of the arrest and following investigation in Thief River Falls, 46 grams of methamphetamine was confiscated. The investigation also led law enforcement officials to Elk River, MN, where arrests were made, and to California where law enforcement officials confiscated a large methamphetamine lab and made several arrests.

In Thief River Falls, the success of the arrests and investigation was attributed to cooperation between the Thief River Falls police department, Pennington county sheriff's department, Bureau of Criminal Apprehension and Paul Bunyan Task Force.

At the time of the arrests there was speculation that the case would be turned over to federal law enforcement.

A federal grand jury has now indicted the Matthew brothers on charges of aiding and abetting the other, knowingly and intentionally possession with the intent to distribute and attempted to possess with the intent to distribute about 37 grams of a mixture containing methamphetamine, aiding and abetting the other in knowingly and intentionally distributing on various occasions a total of in excess of 100 grams of a mixture containing methamphetamine, and knowingly and intentionally conspiring to distribute and possess with the intent to distribute in excess of 100 grams of a mixture containing methamphetamine.

The U.S. District Attorney's office issued an arrest warrant for Keith and Kenneth Matthew. On April 20, the two men were arrested on the warrants by local officials.

According to the office of the United States District Attorney, the Matthew brothers appeared in a Bemidji court Wednesday, April 21, before Judge Randall Berg and were released on $10,000 unsecured bond. They will be arraigned before Judge Jonathon Lebedoff at 1:30 p.m. on April 27.

The Matthew brothers were indicted along with Bernadette Marie Prather of Muscoy, CA, age 47, and Victor Emil Reynolds of Otsego, age 43. Reynolds made his first appearance and pled not guilty to a charge of knowingly and intentionally possessing with the intent to distribute about 13 grams of methamphetamine, and conspiring to distribute and to possess with the intent to distribute in excess of 100 grams of methamphetamine.

Prather was charged with knowingly and intentionally distributing about 50 grams of methamphetamine, aiding and abetting in the distribution of an amount in excess of 100 grams of methamphetamine, and knowingly and intentionally conspiring to distribute and to possess with the intent to distribute in excess of 100 grams of methamphetamine.

Twenty-nine school districts participated in the Region 1 and 2 Knowledge Bowl this year. The top 15 teams were selected for regional competition at sub-region events and those 15 teams were entered in the April 14 event in Thief River Falls.

Competition was held among the 29 teams in Regions 1 and 2 for eight weeks during the Knowledge Bowl season leading up to the sub-region competition. The Thief River Falls team scored high in these meets as well.

At Brainerd a total of 30 teams from across the state will compete against one another in one written and five oral rounds of questions. Based on the teams' cumulative scores, the top three teams will advance to the championship round for first, second and third places.

Sponsoring Minnesota ECSUs invite the public to attend the state event. Oral rounds are scheduled from 8 a.m. to noon Wednesday, May 5. The championship round will begin at 1:45 p.m., followed by an awards presentation at 2:30 p.m.

Building proposed for Old Home Town museum

Stephen — The Old Home Town museum committee of Stephen is asking for help from the community for funds and labor needed to build an additional building to store and display items. The proposed building is 36 by 64 feet and will be built on the grounds, to be used for larger items such as antique farm equipment. About $10,000 more is needed for building materials, about half the total cost. For more information, contact OHT Museum, Box 593, Stephen, MN 56757. (Messenger).

New Vernes Lutheran church to be dedicated

Fosston — The formal dedication of the newly-constructed Vernes Lutheran church, located in Hill River township, north of Fosston, will be held May 2 at 2 p.m. Bishop Art Rimmereid of the Northwestern Minnesota Synod of the ELCA will preside at the ceremony. The congregation, organized in 1885, built its first church in 1889, but that building was destroyed by fire on Aug. 22, 1992, after lightning struck the steeple. Among the items that were saved were the antique pump organ, a piano, the altar painting and frame, pulpit and baptismal font, one pew and some chairs. Contents of the cornerstone were intact when the sealed metal container was removed from the foundation a few days after the fire. Security state bank sponsors circus trip

Warroad — Fifth and sixth grade student from Warroad, numbering 235, and 16 children from the Williams area, went to the Shrine circus last Friday, thanks to sponsorship by the Security state bank. Local ticket sales are promoted by the Lake of the Woods Shrine club of Roseau and Warroad. The goal is to see that every child has an opportunity to see the Kem Shrine circus free. The ticket proceeds assist in the operation of the Kem Temple, which is the philanthropic organization in the world providing free hospital care to many children. (Warroad Pioneer)

Portion of Williams community center closed

Williams — During a special meeting of the Williams city council, the city formally closed the oldest portions of the community center, namely the entire northern portion, including the gymnasium. The remainder of the building remains open and will remain so as long as possible. An architect is working on plans to re-open the gym and a public meeting will be held after those plans are available. (Northern Light)

Newly-refurbished swimming pool to be shown off this weekend

Baudette — The newly-refurbished Lake of the Wood community swimming pool will be shown off with a two-day open house this weekend. The open house will run both Saturday and Sunday afternoons, starting at 1 p.m. and will involve different programs each day. The pool was scheduled to be closed along with the old Lake of the Woods school, but a general community consortium renovated the old pool, gave it its own heating and water system and managed to keep it open. Home schools not unique in Watch area

Last year in northwest Minnesota parents chose to teach 254 children in home schools

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Dozens of parents in Northwest Minnesota teach their children at home, an educational method simply and appropriately called home school.

Northwest Minnesota was home to 254 home educated children in the 1992-1993 school year. In the 1992-1993 school year 6,149 Minnesota students were home educated, an increase of 1,731 students over the previous school year.

Reasons for home school vary. Many home school parents wish to educate their children in a manner closely related to Biblical teaching. Some parents may also disagree with topics public schools teach, such as sex education and relativism.

Families which choose home schooling follow Minnesota state laws and fall under the loose supervision of the local school superintendent. Some home school families belong to state and national groups and attend meetings with local support groups.

Curriculum

Teaching methods vary within each home. "People have visions in their heads of desks, clocks and eight hour days. It (home schooling) is more of a tutorial position," said Barb Chervestad of rural Oklee.

Chervestad and her husband Kim have five children and are home-schooling one child. The other three children are too young for home school. Their oldest daughter went through the Oklee public school system and is attending Bethany College in Mankato on an open-enrollment program.

"My philosophy is we need to get the basic reading, writing and arithmetic. I think its important to get back to the three Rs. That's not to say we ignore the rest of the curriculum," Barb Chervestad said. Chervestad teaches out of a math book and purchases other curriculum from a variety of places.

State law requires instruction of reading, writing, literature, fine arts, mathematics, science, history, geography, government, health and physical education. Home educators must teach their children at least 170 days of the year.

Organizations such as MACHE (Minnesota Association of Christian Home Educators) hold conventions and curriculum fairs where parents can find a variety of teaching materials.

DuWayne and Miriam Heppner of rural Warroad have ten children and home school the eldest six. In a public school they would range from kindergarten through eighth grade students.

The Heppners own Heppner and Heppner Construction. The company's slogan is "building homes and families." DuWayne builds homes and Miriam runs a store specializing in curriculum for home educators.

Miriam teaches her children using a unit study or time-line approach where students learn historical events and other social studies in the units of time which they happened. Most of the teaching takes place before noon.

"You will find as many methods as home schoolers," said Kathy Waldorf of rural Warren. Kathy and her husband Lynn home school three of their six oldest children using a Christian-based curriculum.

Kathy Waldorf said the program involves a lot of individual study. "It's a more informal school program. It becomes a way of life. We talk about grammar in the car." The children "study science all summer," Waldorf said.

Each year all home educators must give a standardized achievement examination to the student, such as the Iowa Basics test.

If parents do not conform with state law, the local school superintendent calls in a mediator from the Minnesota Department of Education.

According to Bob Fischer, fact finding and mediation specialist for the state education department, there were six mediations in Minnesota last year. Three cases were resolved and three went to the county attorney. Fischer said none of the cases were in Northwest Minnesota. A national organization, Home School Legal Defense Association, provides legal assistance to members in these cases.

Most area home school/public school relationships run smoothly. "It's just a matter of communications really," said Oklee School Superintendent Dale Salberg. "There are no problems that I can see. If both parties work together there doesn't seem to be a problem," Salberg said.

Reasons for Home School

One reason the Waldorfs teach their children at home, Kathy said, is based on their Judeo-Christian beliefs which disagree with sex education, relativism, alternate lifestyles and lack of prayer in public schooling.

Some home-schoolers said private, religious-based schools were too far away.

Miriam Heppner said when she started school, she was academically ahead of the other students. Heppner credits the early-smarts to her older sister playing school with her.

"Each of these children is different. I can adapt teaching style to their learning style. I'm not locked into a rigid structure," Barb Cher-

Design/development for Lincoln approved

$2,750,000 project of additions and remodeling to start in July

Approval of the design/development plan for Lincoln senior high school was given by the School District 564 board of education at its regular meeting Monday. The plan was received from Griff Davenport of Dana-Larson-Roubal, the architectural firm contracted by the school district.

Also received and approved were the design and development costs for the project, prepared and presented by Bill Huttinga of E&V, Inc., construction management firm for the district. Project cost has been placed at $2,750,000—the amount provided in the bond issue which included elementary, Lincoln and Franklin construction projects and Washington school renovation. Included in the $2,750,000 is a $152,699 contingency fund.

Supt. Robert Duncan said the plan approved Monday has about 2,000 square feet more of new construction than in the original concept plan at the time of the bond issue. Construction is scheduled to begin on or about August 16 this year with site preparation. New additions are scheduled to be completed for student occupancy in March of 1994 with remodeling of spaces within the building to be completed during the summer of 1994.

The superintendent said the project includes off-street parking on the northwest corner of the Lincoln property where the tennis courts are presently located as well as parking on the east side of Knight avenue. Both sites will be excavated, backfilled and blacktop surfaced.

Substantial new construction will take place as well as remodeling and retrofitting of existing space. However, Supt. Duncan said, "as noted during the bond referendum campaign, the projects being done at Lincoln high school do not include everything that needs to be done at this facility."

Improvement will be more than modest, however, as indicated by the construction plan (see floor plan drawing on Page 8 of today's issue)

To the south of the existing cafeteria, an addition will be build to include food service serving and kitchen area, new cafeteria which will also serve as a student commons area, and a new building storage area. The storage area, which will also serve for athletic equipment storage, is necessitated by the planned demolition of the two quonset type buildings now in use on the south side of Lincoln. The schedule calls for demolition of those buildings in July.

On the south end of the new gymnasium will be construction of an instrumental and vocal music addition which will include all necessary support areas, the superintendent said. He noted that extensive planning has taken place on the project and has involved faculty as well as administration and citizen and other groups.

At the west end of the building an addition will be constructed for boys locker rooms, athletic storage and a fitness center at ground level. The present wrestling room/fitness center on the second story will serve entirely for wrestling.

Construction schedule calls for the building addition bearing walls, roof and exterior window installation to be complete by November of this year. Interior work including partitions, ceilings, wall and floor finishes, mechanical and electrical work, casework, equipment installation and furnishing will progress through the winter months.

Remodeling is planned in several areas of the school with a number of changes in utilization of spaces. Part of the existing cafeteria, for instance, will be converted for use by the visual arts program. Another part of the existing cafeteria will be developed for theater and dance and will have direct access to the audi-

Remodeling at The Times begins next Monday

Remodeling of the front office at The Times is expected to begin on Monday. In order to prepare for the remodeling, the front office has been temporarily moved to the office space which used to be Annette's Fabrics, just next door to The Times.

Customers are asked to use the former Annette's Fabrics door next to The Times to conduct business or drop off news stories. We will have one fewer telephone line coming in to the front office so there will be more busy signals. In addition, the remodeling is bound to cause other minor problems. Please excuse the inconvenience and be patient with us during this short period of remodeling.

Membership

District 13 membership has fallen since the society's origin. The 13th District was organized in fall 1959. In 1960, 20 garden clubs had 322 members. By 1993 membership dropped to 207 in 12 clubs.

"There are too many other things for people to do. They have to have an interest," Lamberson said. "It's too bad more people don't join — enjoy the fresh vegetables."

Dorothy Gelrke of Roseau, 13th District advisor and member of the Ladyslipper garden club, said they are trying to draw more men into a hobby previously dominated by women.

Wallace said that men, previously leaving the gardening role to women, are increasingly picking up the hobby. "In the greenhouse men are as fierce gardeners as women," Wallace said.

Roseau hosts the most clubs and members — the four Roseau clubs total about 80 members. Active District 13 clubs and their area include Deer Park, Goodridge; NaChur, Ladyslipper, Roseau garden club and Four Seasons of Roseau; Green Thumb, Warroad; Gro-Rite, Badger; Town & Country, Viking; Williams Gardeners, Williams; Moccasin, Goodridge and Thief River Falls; Argyle garden club, Argyle; and North Star, Baudette.

The clubs don't have geographic boundaries and members do not always live in the vicinity of the club.

The district is affiliated with the Minnesota State Horticulture Society which has 230 clubs and 16,000 members. (State membership includes Minnesota Horticulturist magazine subscription and not necessarily club membership.)

The state horticulture society gives a series of awards including the Outstanding Gardener Award, Gold Medal Award and Honorary Life Membership, Award of Merit, and Distinguished Service Award.

The state also trains judges for horticulture shows and hosts a state horticulture show.

This year NaChur, Ladyslipper and Roseau garden clubs sponsor the 13th district horticultural show August 7 at in the Roseau 4-H building.

Government files federal charges against TRF men

A federal grand jury has indicted two Thief River Falls men on drug charges.

In early January 1993, four residents of Thief River Falls were arrested in connection with the handling of methamphetamine, which had been sent from California to Thief River Falls by mail.

Individuals arrested included: Kenneth Matthew, 34, Thief River Falls; Keith Allen Matthew, 32, Thief River Falls; Vicki Hutchinson, 18, Thief River Falls; and Kay Lynn Richter, 30, Thief River Falls.

As a result of the arrest and following investigation in Thief River Falls, 46 grams of methamphetamine was confiscated. The investigation also led law enforcement officials to Elk River, MN, where arrests were made, and to California where law enforcement officials confiscated a large methamphetamine lab and made several arrests.

In Thief River Falls, the success of the arrests and investigation was attributed to cooperation between the Thief River Falls police department, Pennington county sheriff's department, Bureau of Criminal Apprehension and Paul Bunyan Task Force.

At the time of the arrests there was speculation that the case would be turned over to federal law enforcement.

A federal grand jury has now indicted the Matthew brothers on charges of aiding and abetting the other, knowingly and intentionally possession with the intent to distribute and attempted to possess with the intent to distribute about 37 grams of a mixture containing methamphetamine, aiding and abetting the other in knowingly and intentionally distributing on various occasions a total of in excess of 100 grams of a mixture containing methamphetamine, and knowingly and intentionally conspiring to distribute and possess with the intent to distribute in excess of 100 grams of a mixture containing methamphetamine.

The U.S. District Attorney's office issued an arrest warrant for Keith and Kenneth Matthew. On April 20, the two men were arrested on the warrants by local officials.

According to the office of the United States District Attorney, the Matthew brothers appeared in a Bemidji court Wednesday, April 21, before Judge Randall Berg and were released on $10,000 unsecured bond. They will be arraigned before Judge Jonathon Lebedoff at 1:30 p.m. on April 27.

The Matthew brothers were indicted along with Bernadette Marie Prather of Muszoy, CA, age 47, and Victor Emil Reynolds of Otsego, age 43. Reynolds made his first appearance and pled not guilty to a charge of knowingly and intentionally possessing with the intent to distribute about 13 grams of methamphetamine, and conspiring to distribute and to possess with the intent to distribute in excess of 100 grams of methamphetamine.

Prather was charged with knowingly and intentionally distributing about 50 grams of methamphetamine, aiding and abetting in the distribution of an amount in excess of 100 grams of methamphetamine, and knowingly and intentionally conspiring to distribute and to possess with the intent to distribute in excess of 100 grams of methamphetamine.

Twenty-nine school districts participated in the Region 1 and 2 Knowledge Bowl this year. The top 15 teams were selected for regional competition at sub-region events and those 15 teams were entered in the April 14 event in Thief River Falls.

Competition was held among the 29 teams in Regions 1 and 2 for eight weeks during the Knowledge Bowl season leading up to the sub-region competition. The Thief River Falls team scored high in these meets as well.

At Brainerd a total of 30 teams from across the state will compete against one another in one written and five oral rounds of questions. Based on the teams' cumulative scores, the top three teams will advance to the championship round for first, second and third places.

Sponsoring Minnesota ECSUs invite the public to attend the state event. Oral rounds are scheduled from 8 a.m. to noon Wednesday, May 5. The championship round will begin at 1:45 p.m., followed by an awards presentation at 2:30 p.m.

NORTHERN STATE BANK BEGINS BUILDING PROJECT

OPTICAL IMAGES MOVES TO NEW LOCATION

NORTHERN STATE BANK

Northern State Bank is about to begin a major remodeling project that will improve customer privacy and convenience and make our facilities more accessible for those with disabilities. With these improvements will come a reorganization of the interior and a new design for the exterior of both our downtown locations. There will also be several temporary staff relocations which are listed below.

Those of you who remember the Northern State Bank Buildings appearance in the 30's, 40's, 50's, and 60's may find it interesting to watch as portions of the old exterior become visible this May during the first phase of construction.

We are pleased to announce that RAM Builders will be the general contractor for this project. Our community is fortunate to have a capable general contractor who employs local craftsmen.

We would also like to thank Optical Images for their cooperation and urge you to check out their new retail space located in the Northern State Bank Walk-In Teller Branch (the former First Federal Building).

Thank you in advance for your cooperation and please excuse any minor inconvenience. We hope that this project will create a fresh, modern look for our downtown and provide more convenient, private banking service to you, our customer.

Building proposed for Old Home Town museum

Stephen — The Old Home Town museum committee of Stephen is asking for help from the community for funds and labor needed to build an additional building to store and display items. The proposed building is 36 by 64 feet and will be built on the grounds, to be used for larger items such as antique farm equipment. About $10,000 more is needed for building materials, about half the total cost. For more information, contact OHT Museum, Box 593, Stephen, MN 56757. (Messenger)

New Vernes Lutheran church to be dedicated

Fosston — The formal dedication of the newly-constructed Vernes Lutheran church, located in Hill River township, north of Fosston, will be held May 2 at 2 p.m. Bishop Art Rimmereid of the Northwestern Minnesota Synod of the ELCA will preside at the ceremony. The congregation, organized in 1885, built its first church in 1889, but that building was destroyed by fire on Aug. 22, 1992, after lightning struck the steeple. Among the items that were saved were the antique pump organ, a piano, the altar painting and frame, pulpit and baptismal font, one pew and some chairs. Contents of the cornerstone were intact when the sealed metal container was removed from the foundation a few days after the fire. The congregation of 100 members voted in September to replace the church. (Thirteen Towns)

Security state bank sponsors circus trip

Warroad — Fifth and sixth grade student from Warroad, numbering 235, and 16 children from the Williams area, went to the Shrine circus last Friday, thanks to sponsorship by the Security state bank. Local ticket sales are promoted by the Lake of the Woods Shrine club of Roseau and Warroad. The goal is to see that every child has an opportunity to see the Kem Shrine circus free. The ticket proceeds assist in the operation of the Kem Temple, which is the philenthropic organization in the world, providing free hospital care to many children. (Warroad Pioneer)

Portion of Williams community center closed

Williams — During a special meeting of the Williams city council, the city formally closed the oldest portions of the community center, namely the entire northern portion, including the gymnasium. The remainder of the building remains open and will remain so as long as possible. An architect is working on plans to re-open the gym and a public meeting will be held after those plans are available. (Northern Light)

Newly-refurbished swimming pool to be shown off this weekend

Baudette — The newly-refurbished Lake of the Wood community swimming pool will be shown off with a two-day open house this weekend. The open house will run both Saturday and Sunday afternoons, starting at 1 p.m. and will involve different programs each day. The pool was scheduled to be closed along with the old Lake of the Woods school, but a general community consortium renovated the old pool, gave it its own heating and water system and managed to keep it open. Home schools not unique in Watch area

Last year in northwest Minnesota parents chose to teach 254 children in home schools

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Dozens of parents in Northwest Minnesota teach their children at home, an educational method simply and appropriately called home school.

Northwest Minnesota was home to 254 home educated children in the 1992-1993 school year. In the 1992-1993 school year 6,149 Minnesota students were home educated, an increase of 1,731 students over the previous school year.

Reasons for home school vary. Many home school parents wish to educate their children in a manner closely related to Biblical teaching. Some parents may also disagree with topics public schools teach, such as sex education and relativism.

Families which choose home schooling follow Minnesota state laws and fall under the loose supervision of the local school superintendent. Some home school families belong to state and national groups and attend meetings with local support groups.

Curriculum

Teaching methods vary within each home. "People have visions in their heads of desks, clocks and eight hour days. It (home schooling) is more of a tutorial position," said Barb Chervestad of rural Oklee.

Chervestad and her husband Kim have five children and are home-schooling one child. The other three children are too young for home school. Their oldest daughter went through the Oklee public school system and is attending Bethany College in Mankato on an open-enrollment program.

"My philosophy is we need to get the basic reading, writing and arithmetic. I think its important to get back to the three Rs. That's not to say we ignore the rest of the curriculum," Barb Chervestad said. Chervestad teaches out of a math book and purchases other curriculum from a variety of places.

State law requires instruction of reading, writing, literature, fine arts, mathematics, science, history, geography, government, health and physical education. Home educators must teach their children at least 170 days of the year.

Organizations such as MACHE (Minnesota Association of Christian Home Educators) hold conventions and curriculum fairs where parents can find a variety of teaching materials.

DuWayne and Miriam Heppner of rural Warroad have ten children and home school the eldest six. In a public school they would range from kindergarten through eighth grade students.

The Heppners own Heppner and Heppner Construction. The company's slogan is "building homes and families." DuWayne builds homes and Miriam runs a store specializing in curriculum for home educators.

Miriam teaches her children using a unit study or time-line approach where students learn historical events and other social studies in the units of time which they happened. Most of the teaching takes place before noon.

"You will find as many methods as home schoolers," said Kathy Waldorf of rural Warren. Kathy and her husband Lynn home school three of their six oldest children using a Christian-based curriculum.

Kathy Waldorf said the program involves a lot of individual study. "It's a more informal school program. It becomes a way of life. We talk about grammar in the car." The children "study science all summer," Waldorf said.

Each year all home educators must give a standardized achievement examination to the student, such as the Iowa Basics test.

If parents do not conform with state law, the local school superintendent calls in a mediator from the Minnesota Department of Education.

According to Bob Fischer, fact finding and mediation specialist for the state education department, there were six mediations in Minnesota last year. Three cases were resolved and three went to the county attorney. Fischer said none of the cases were in Northwest Minnesota. A national organization, Home School Legal Defense Association, provides legal assistance to members in these cases.

Most area home school/public school relationships run smoothly. "It's just a matter of communications really," said Oklee School Superintendent Dale Salberg. "There are no problems that I can see. If both parties work together there doesn't seem to be a problem," Salberg said.

Reasons for Home School

One reason the Waldorfs teach their children at home, Kathy said, is based on their Judeo-Christian beliefs which disagree with sex education, relativism, alternate lifestyles and lack of prayer in public schooling.

Some home-schoolers said private, religious-based schools were too far away.

Miriam Heppner said when she started school, she was academically ahead of the other students. Heppner credits the early-smarts to her older sister playing school with her.

"Each of these children is different. I can adapt teaching style to their learning style. I'm not locked into a rigid structure," Barb Cher-

Design/development for Lincoln approved

$2,750,000 project of additions and remodeling to start in July

Approval of the design/development plan for Lincoln senior high school was given by the School District 564 board of education at its regular meeting Monday. The plan was received from Griff Davenport of Dana-Larson-Roubal, the architectural firm contracted by the school district.

Also received and approved were the design and development costs for the project, prepared and presented by Bill Huttinga of E&V, Inc., construction management firm for the district. Project cost has been placed at $2,750,000—the amount provided in the bond issue which included elementary, Lincoln and Franklin construction projects and Washington school renovation. Included in the $2,750,000 is a $152,699 contingency fund.

Supt. Robert Duncan said the plan approved Monday has about 2,000 square feet more of new construction than in the original concept plan at the time of the bond issue. Construction is scheduled to begin on or about August 16 this year with site preparation. New additions are scheduled to be completed for student occupancy in March of 1994 with remodeling of spaces within the building to be completed during the summer of 1994.

The superintendent said the project includes off-street parking on the northwest corner of the Lincoln property where the tennis courts are presently located as well as parking on the east side of Knight avenue. Both sites will be excavated, backfilled and blacktop surfaced.

Substantial new construction will take place as well as remodeling and retrofitting of existing space. However, Supt. Duncan said, "as noted during the bond referendum campaign, the projects being done at Lincoln high school do not include everything that needs to be done at this facility."

Improvement will be more than modest, however, as indicated by the construction plan (see floor plan drawing on Page 8 of today's issue).

To the south of the existing cafeteria, an addition will be build to include food service serving and kitchen area, new cafeteria which will also serve as a student commons area, and a new building storage area. The storage area, which will also serve for athletic equipment storage, is necessitated by the planned demolition of the two quonset type buildings now in use on the south side of Lincoln. The schedule calls for demolition of those buildings in July.

On the south end of the new gymnasium will be construction of an instrumental and vocal music addition which will include all necessary support areas, the superintendent said. He noted that extensive planning has taken place on the project and has involved faculty as well as administration and citizen and other groups.

At the west end of the building an addition will be constructed for boys locker rooms, athletic storage and a fitness center at ground level. The present wrestling room/fitness center on the second story will serve entirely for wrestling.

Construction schedule calls for the building addition bearing walls, roof and exterior window installation to be complete by November of this year. Interior work including partitions, ceilings, wall and floor finishes, mechanical and electrical work, casework, equipment installation and furnishing will progress through the winter months.

Remodeling is planned in several areas of the school with a number of changes in utilization of spaces. Part of the existing cafeteria, for instance, will be converted for use by the visual arts program. Another part of the existing cafeteria will be developed for theater and dance and will have direct access to the audi-

TRF formulates plan to clean out rivers

Thoughts of solving some of the city river's sedimentation and weed problems progressed to the planning stage during the Thief River Falls city council meeting Tuesday evening.

The council approved a resolution that encourages the Red Lake Watershed District to develop plans to implement a drawdown of the river. The council also encouraged Pennington County, Thief River Falls, Red Lake Watershed District, Soil and Water Conservation District, and the Red/Thief Rivers Reservoir Association officials to work together as co-sponsors of the plan.

Red Lake Watershed District Engineer Kevin Adolfs explained the proposal involves letting water out through the reservoir or power plant. By letting out the water and allowing the sedimentation to dry out, Adolfs projects that sedimentation levels will be reduced by 40 per cent.

Adolfs said it would take about one week for the reservoir to be drawndown and then several more weeks for the sediment to compact. What will remain after the water is drowndown will be the old river channel.

Arlo Rude, superintendent of utilities, had some concerns about the drawdown plan. Enough water has to be in storage or coming down the river to supply the water needs of residents and provide fire protection. If the plan proceeds as planned and the reservoir is drawdown sometime in August or September, water supply could be a concern if it is too dry or not enough water is being released above the reservoir.

The plan is such that it is apparently not necessary to have a permit. Adolfs, however, suggested that a proposal be drafted and sent to the DNR. They can then react to the proposal.

Other ideas about how best to solve the sedimentation and weed problem have been discussed for the last few years. One of the most economically feasible at this time has been the plan to drawdown the river and allow the sedimentation to compact. Adolfs estimated the overall cost of the project at $4,000. Much of the money spent on the project will be spent on water pumps needed for the water treatment plant.

Over the years, discussion about how to solve the problems also led to the creation of a new citizen's group. The group is known as the Red/Thief Reservoir Association. Ron Kalinoski, chairman of the group said the 56 member-group proposes to "Put the River back into Thief River Falls."

The drawdown plan has not been finalized yet. There was discussion Tuesday evening about the removal of debris and tilling sediment. It is believed that tilling would further allow the sediment to dry and compact. The council hopes Adolfs will be able to finalize the plan for the city with the cooperation of other groups and organizations.

■ The council called for plans and specifications to be developed for a storm sewer project near the new elementary school.

The proposal to put in a storm sewer from the new school through areas in and around the South Town area created heated debate about the project at a hearing meeting Monday night. Residents of South Town were concerned mainly about the fairness of project assessments and that the project was only being done now because of the new elementary school.

Ron Lindberg, city engineering and technical services superintendent, described the hearing debate as interesting and productive. He added that to remain on schedule with other projects plans and specifications for the project needed to be prepared.

In other business, the council rescheduled the hearing on industrial revenue bonds for Land O'Lakes to May 19 at 4 p.m.; and approved a new ordinance that allows someone to appear before the council to ask to put markings on curbs.

According to the Minnesota Office of Tourism, estimates of economic impact of domestic travel in Pennington county for 1991 showed 402 jobs, $7.054 million in gross wages and $18.917 million in gross receipts.

National Tourism Week has been declared to recognize the contribution of travel and tourism to the nation's economy. The country's number three service industry, travel and tourism generated over $344 billion in gross sales in 1991 and directly employed six million people. The industry contributed $47.8 billion in federal, state and local taxes.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Tonight my 17-year-old son was involved in a car-train accident. He was very darn lucky to walk away only stiff and sore. He saw the train in time to step on the gas, so that the train caught only the very back end of the car.

I would like to stress to all parents of teenage drivers to encourage your children to wear seat belts. When coming close to any railroad crossing, LOOK! both ways, at least twice. LISTEN! Turn down the stereo, open the window so you can hear if a train is coming.

Many railroad crossings do not have flashing lights. You have to be paying attention. All trains do not blow their whistles soon enough for you to get out of their way.

I have always been afraid of railroad crossings. Now I know why. I will thank God for the rest of my life that He didn't take my son tonight. I would also like to express my appreciation to the Oklee Ambulance Service, Red Lake county sheriff's department, Minnesota state highway patrol and Northwest Medical Center for their services.

Sincerely,
Fawn Willett

An Arizona Mayor Gives His Views On Gambling

In the April 27 issue of the Thief River Falls Times, we published an opinion piece by Leonard Prescott, chairman of Little Six, Inc., which owns and operates Mystic Lake Casino. Prescott, who also is a former chairman of the National Indian Gaming Association, gave his viewpoint on Indian-owned and operated casinos in Minnesota.

In this week's mail we received a clipping from the Bullhead City, AZ, newspaper which contained a letter written by J. Michael Love, mayor of Bullhead City. He expressed his viewpoint in that letter as follows:

As the mayor of Bullhead City, I am proud of our community and proud of our work to give our citizens a better life.

The reason I am writing today, however, is to warn other communities in Arizona about the dangers of living next door to full-scale casino gambling. Like Redwood Falls, MN, where a federal judge allowed an Indian tribe to set up a casino, Bullhead City has all the problems of big-time gambling without any of the benefits.

Laughlin went up across the river from us without our say. Today, for every bridge built across the river from Laughlin, another one of our hotels or restaurants closes. Without slot machines, it seems, we cannot compete. We are next to a city of 24-hour excitement—if you like that sort of lifestyle—but our only payoff comes in the form of 24-hour drunks.

Bullhead City, I regret to say, has 54 full-time, uniformed police officers. For a town of 24,000 people, this is staggering. Flagstaff, with 45,000 residents, a large student population, and noted for the many drifters who come through town by way of I-40 and I-17, has only a slightly larger police force than ours.

Many of my constituents in Bullhead City would like to see casino gambling legal on our side of the river, too. Although this would help us raise some of the money we need to absorb the social costs left in Laughlin's wake, it distresses me that the need to compete—and the need to rely on gambling revenues—has changed the gambling debate from "What kind of future do we want for us and our children?" to "What kind of gambling do we need to survive?" Arizonans have always prided themselves in being a fiercely independent lot, but the gambling next to us has destroyed this.

If full-blown casinos go up on Arizona's 21 Indian reservations, many other communities in our state will see their independence destroyed, and will have to struggle like Bullhead City. Gov. Symington, in my opinion, has tried to be fair and grant the Indian tribes limited monopolies on slot machines to raise money. But, despite his willingness to negotiate, other tribes have sued the state in an attempt to deprive all Arizonans of a say in what happens.

This must not be allowed to happen. If 2,600 slot machines are allowed on each reservation, we are talking about gambling on a scale bigger than Laughlin ever imagined, bigger even than Atlantic City. Atlantic City only has 12 casinos, and even Donald Trump's Taj Mahal is dwarfed in comparison to the casinos some tribes are planning to build. We are talking here about a $3 billion, $4 Billion or $5 billion industry, all untaxed, all built at the expense of cities such as Scottsdale, Yuma, Chandler or Tucson.

Like the governor says, Arizonans must have a choice in what sort of gambling they will tolerate. What sort of risks are worth the potential rewards? If Arizonans want gambling, then take a long, hard look at it. But don't let the question be decided for you—through higher taxes and crime, or because you lost your job due to competition from a casino-hotel-restaurant-resort next door. Too many of my constituents have already had this question decided because of this, and I would hate to see the rest of the state forced to follow suit.

J. Michael Love, Mayor
Bullhead City, Arizona

An Impressive Showing For John and Ingrid

Lincoln seniors John Gunstad and Ingrid Morken made an impressive showing at the senior awards banquet Monday night when they received most of the top awards presented at the event. They are deserving students who are certainly worthy of the recognition they received.

While those awards provided a few brief minutes in the limelight Monday evening, it must be recognized that the accomplishments leading up to those brief minutes spanned the four years of a high school career. John and Ingrid didn't have their names drawn out of a hat to become award recipients by chance. They earned their selection through diligent effort and conscientious service over the years.

There may be people who espouse the theory of "equality" who take issue with the fact that two students from an entire class were so abundantly honored. They might prefer that the recognition be "spread around" to encompass other students, or even that none are honored so that others don't feel "left out." We hear that line of thought expressed more frequently these days, and quite frankly we believe it promotes mediocrity.

First of all, it should be recognized that John and Ingrid had nothing to do with being selected for the awards except qualifying to earn them by their past performance. And that performance was part of their efforts to be the best they could be at what they chose to do—not simply to satisfy an award criteria.

Second, it should also be noted that the award recipients were selected independently based on qualifications among potential candidates. The Times Academic Athlete Award, for instance—which were among the awards John and Ingrid received—has a simple high standard to qualify: Having the highest scholastic average among senior athletic letter winners. Some years there is one winner; last year there were four—all with 4.0 grade point averages. John and Ingrid are 4.0 students.

Third, we believe recognition of exceptional accomplishment is positive in nature, reinforcing the recipients' decision to strive for excellence and serving as a good example to others to seek to similarly succeed.

Last of all, we should make it clear that we have heard no negative comment about the concentration of awards. Members of the Class of 1993 are well aware of the daily accomplishments of their fellow students and know the recognition of achievement is deserved. We just want to add our congratulations to John and Ingrid and to make the rest of our reading public aware of how the awards came about the way they did.

Its Peat's fault.
People ask what makes our bedding plants and vegetables so husky and robust. We blame Peat. Unlike most greenhouses, we grow our plants in pure peat and plenty of it. Our 6-pac containers of bedding plants and vegetables contain over 55 % more soil per plant than the cell-pacs used by most greenhouses and discount chains. Choose from nearly 400 varieties.

Additions and Renovations

Lincoln additions to be underway this summer

torium stage." Dressing rooms and support facilities will be provided in one portion of the present kitchen area and the remainder of the existing kitchen will become janitor storage area.

The existing visual arts room will be divided into two general classrooms and the existing classroom adjacent to the counseling area will be converted into a career center.

Some landscaping is called for in the area south of Lincoln as well as the development of a service road to provide access to the food service and building storage areas.

"Should bids come in lower than expected so that all or part of the contingency fund is not needed, additional work can be done at Lincoln to include some more general remodeling of the old vocational school wing," Dr. Duncan said.

Break-down of estimated costs for the Lincoln project includes $528,709 for mechanical, $245,454 for electrical, $372,047 for masonry, $319,088 for site work, $255,529 for finishes, $189,241 for concrete, $156,719 for doors and windows, $118,703 for metals, $115,036 for thermal and moisture protection, $85,000 for furnishings, $79,000 for equipment, $60,000 for construction support, $40,000 for carpentry; $32,775 for specialties and $152,699 for contingencies.

"The construction management concept will be used on the Lincoln project as it is in the case of the elementary project," Supt. Duncan added. "Under this concept the board of education serves as the general contractor and awards contracts for various areas of the construction project. We expect this process to give local and area contractors a better opportunity to bid on portions of the projects."

This proved to be the case on the first bids for the elementary school which were accepted Monday night. A combined base bid by Thygeson Construction Company of Thief River Falls and Christianson Industrial Development of Bemidji was accepted in the amount of $231,675 for site excavation and fill.

Other bids received Monday for Bid Division I were $238,000 from Davidson Construction of Newfolden, $278,000 from Thorson, Inc. of Bemidji and $670,000 from Landwehr Heavy Moving, Inc. of St. Cloud.

Trojans sweep baseball doubleheader from Pioneers...

UMC knocks off Northland

There is no more room for error as the Northland Community College baseball team begins its second swing through the 1993 Northwest Division schedule.

The Pioneers found themselves facing a major hurdle in a quest for a top-two regular season divisional finish and a Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament berth following a 9-6, 8-3 doubleheader loss at the University of Minnesota-Crookston Wednesday.

Saddled with a 4-6 Northwest Division record, the Pioneers trail the field heading into the second half of the season that starts with a doubleheader at Vermilion today (Saturday) and will include additional re-matches with Hibbing, Itasca, UMC and Fergus Falls.

"These were games we expected to win," said disappointed Northland coach Terry Wiseth following the two setbacks at Crookston. "We just didn't get the job done. We didn't perform when we had to. Now it (state tournament race) gets tough. We can't afford to lose another game."

UMC 9
Northland 6

A 5-0 Northland lead turned in a 9-6 University of Minnesota-Crookston Game 1 win.

Roger Bienusa was 3-for-4 and Parrish Tatum went 2-for-4 in helping to stake the Pioneers to their early lead.

But three walks and a bases-loaded double by the Trojans' Chad Brooking tied it at 5-5 in the fourth, keying the UMC comeback.

Todd Martin was the starting pitcher. John Pearson came on in relief in the fourth and took the loss. Mitch Bernstein pitched the sixth.

Four first inning unearned runs wound up providing the University of Minnesota-Crookston with the winning margin in an 8-3 sweep-completing nightcap.

There were two out in the bottom of the first when an error and a walk were followed by four consecutive singles.

Troy Storeby was 2-for-3 with a two-run second inning home run for the Pioneers. Bothum went 2-for-4.

Track teams run at EGF meet

Both team titles went to the host Green Wave Tuesday at the East Grand Forks Invitational high school track meet.

East Grand Forks had a 143-69 1/2 point edge over runner-up Thief River Falls in the boys' portion of the event, followed by Stephen with 67, Roseau 61, Hillsboro, ND 56, Tri-County 50, Red Lake County Central 37, Fisher 20, Marshall County Central 10, Climax/Norman County West 6, Win-E-Mac 6, and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 2 1/2.

Meanwhile, the East Grand Forks girls racked up 161 points, followed by Roseau with 53, Marshall County Central 49, Stephen 44, Mahnomen 44, Thief River Falls 37, Tri-County 36, Win-E-Mac 35, Hillsboro, ND 24, Climax 22, Fisher 13, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 10, and Red Lake 1.

Shane Skeim was a double-event winner for the Thief River Falls boys in the discus and shot put, while Nathan Anderson won the pole vault.

"We did all right," said Thief River Falls boys coach Tim Olson. "We had some improvements, and that's what you look for each time out."

Second place showings in the 3200 by Angie Klinkes and in the 3200 relay by Leah Helgenset, Klinker, Jenny Flynn, and Lisa Swanson were the top finishes for the Thief River Falls girls. The Prowlers were without point-producers Kelly Skeim (illness) and Sanna Torgerson (band commitment).

"Not too bad of a day," offered Thief River Falls girls coach Glenn Chiodo. "The kids are doing a nice job."

Prowlers have 4-2 baseball record

Hitting, pitching and defense are the three keys to success in baseball. Six games into the 1993 high school baseball season, Thief River Falls coach Tracey Wensloff said the Prowlers' hitting and defense have been more than adequate. But the jury is still out on the pitching.

Thief River Falls is 4-2, which includes a 3-0 record at home against area Class A teams, but a 1-2 mark on the road against North Sub-Section 8AA opponents. The Prowlers shut out two of the three Class A teams they've faced, but gave up 25 runs in their three Class AA starts.

"I've been fairly well satisfied with our hitting, and the one consistent throughout the six games has been our defense," said Wensloff. "I'm still waiting for our pitchers to come around."

Thief River Falls was rained out of a scheduled Tuesday game against Moorhead. The Prowlers' last start was a 15-7 Monday victory over Roseau – probably their best offensive efforts of the year. Thief River Falls banged out 14 hits that day, with Marc Haugen going 4-for-4, Jason Svir 3-for-4, Carter Rogalla 2-for-2, and Wade Evenson 2-for-4. Haugen and Svir both drove in four runs and scored four times; Rogalla and Svir both hit home runs.

Winning pitcher Jeremy Olson went 4 1/3 innings. Jason Olson finished in relief.

A busy second month of the 1993 season was scheduled to start today (Saturday) with a game against Minot, ND at Detroit Lakes. The Prowlers will also be playing at Crookston, Warroad and Moorhead, along with invitational tournament appearances at at Alexandria and Hibbing. Home games remain against Red Lake Falls, Bemidji, Crookston and Moorhead.

First round North Sub-Section 8AA games matching the No. 5 seed at No. 4 and the No. 6 seed at No. 3, will be played May 26. Those winners will join the top two seeded teams for the start of the new double-elimination round-robin semifinal/championship round format that will advance a champion into the 2-out-of-3 Section 8AA championship series against the South qualifier.

Bergie's Business

with Jeff Storhaug

Following the professional hockey career of Thief River Falls' Tim Bergland:

April 29-- It's been a couple of weeks since I've written my last column. I just got off the phone with Tim and I've never heard him sound so up-beat. I guess I can understand why.

As The Times mentioned earlier, Tim ended the year in Tampa Bay with a couple of strong showings. While in Winnipeg, Tim had the most ice time of anybody on his team, and came up with an assist. I thought he looked like one of the top three players on the ice.

After the game at the Winnipeg Arena, Tim brought my kids and myself down to the locker room. I will never understand women reporters being in a men's locker room. It doesn't even phase them.

Tampa Bay closed out its first National Hockey League season against St. Louis, and Tim wound up with a goal and an assist.

I call three points in the final two games a pretty strong finish. Look for Tampa Bay to re-sign Tim before he plays out his option year.

After the Lightning finished their schedule, Tim went to Atlanta, the Tampa Bay farm team, to help the Knights during their playoff run. They won their first series against Indianapolis four games to one – against a team featuring Tony Hrkac, the International Hockey League MVP from UND. Tim had two goals and three assists in the series and was named the No. 1 star in Game 4. Atlanta now takes on Ft. Wayne.

If all things go the way Tim would like, we'll see him at the end of May. I'll keep you posted.

TRF girls are third at EGF golf tournament

East Grand Forks Invitational girls high school golf meet was won by the host Green Wave Thursday with a 373 – a 31-stroke victory margin over runner-up Roseau.

Thief River Falls was a distant third in the eight-team field with a 440.

"Third out of eight isn't so bad, but we're a long way from second," noted Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell. "It's a tough course to play with all their elevated greens."

Sherria Milzel of East Grand Forks was meet medalist with a 92. Amy Enge led the Prowlers with a 104.

Weather prompts changes in busy sports schedules

Wet weather forced officials to postpone several Thief River Falls high school athletic events Tuesday and Thursday.

Baseball, softball and tennis schedules were all hit by the rains.

Tuesday, the Prowlers were scheduled to host Moorhead in North Sub-Section 8AA baseball at Irv Wilson Field and were scheduled for a softball doubleheader against Badger/ Greenbush-Middle River in Greenbush.

The softball match-up was immediately rescheduled for Monday at 4:30 p.m. at the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond. The baseball game was tentatively rescheduled as part of a doubleheader when the Prowlers visit Moorhead May 10.

Thursday rains eliminated another softball game, this one a North Sub-Section 8AA encounter with Moorhead in Thief River Falls, along with a dual boys tennis match at Bemidji.

NCC softball team remains winless

Poor defense was at fault Wednesday as Northland lost a community college softball doubleheader at Brainerd.

The Pioneers had six errors in a 15-1 first-game setback and doubled that to 12 errors in a 16-2 second-game defeat.

"Plain and simple, errors beat us," acknowledged Northland coach Rick Nikunen.

Northland mustered just five hits for the day. "We hit the ball in the first game, but right at people," pointed out Nikunen. "We didn't do much offensively in the second game. We got behind early and that really affected our confidence."

Both losses were charged to Northland pitcher Lana Pittman, but she deserved better fate, said Nikunen. The Raiders had just five hits in the opener and drew only four walks. They combined 12 base hits with the 12 Northland errors in the nightcap.

The losses dropped the Pioneers to 0-8.

A game-opening triple by Trish Prickett, followed by an error, gave Northland an early 1-0 lead, but it was the Pioneers' lone highlight in a 14-1 first-game Brainerd win.

The Raiders turned a 7-1 game into a rout with an eight-run fourth inning that included three of the four walks issued by Northland pitching, three of the six errors charged against the Pioneers and three of the five Brainerd hits.

Four successive Brainerd batters reached base on errors in the first inning as the Raiders scored eight times en route to a 16-2 Game 2 win over Northland for the sweep.

Prickett had two of the three Northland hits and drove in both runs. The Pioneers struck out seven times in the five-inning game.

Lake access maps are made available

Minnesota anglers can get help finding public accesses to lakes and rivers with a new map series published by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. The series, produced by the DNR Bureau of Engineering, is called Public Recreation Information Maps (PRIM).

PRIM combines maps of federal state and county land ownership, along with the facilities and opportunities offered in each area. Campgrounds, wildlife management areas, waterfowl production areas, state and national forest lands, and many other land and water facilities are indicated on the maps.

PRIM is being released in phases, making them available as quickly as possible. The series will have 51 maps to cover the state. Thirty-eight maps are now available.

The maps are sold at the DNR Gift Shop at 500 Lafayette Road in St. Paul, and through major retail sporting goods outlets and gas station-stores statewide.

The DNR is selling the maps for $3.95 (plus tax) to provide funds for future updating and printing of the map series.
